The 2014 Tax Expenditures Report was prepared at the request of Paul L. Dion, Ph.D., Chief of the Office of Revenue Analysis in accordance with Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-48.1. Cheryl Holzberger, Senior Revenue Policy Analyst in the Office of Revenue Analysis was project leader for the production and writing of this report, under the guidance of Mr. Dion. Ms. Holzberger was assisted by Bethany Scanlon, Revenue Policy Analyst in the Office of Revenue Analysis, with the derivation of estimates of forgone revenue.

Much of the information needed to derive estimates was provided by the Rhode Island Division of Taxation, under the direction of David M. Sullivan, Tax Administrator. The production of this report is not possible without the Division of Taxation's assistance. In particular, the efforts of Steve Cobb, Chief Revenue Agent, Office Audit and Discovery; Michael Canole, Chief of Examinations, Office of the Tax Administrator; Donna Dube, Principal Revenue Agent, Forms, Credits and Incentives; Don Englert, Chief Revenue Agent, Excise Tax; Charlie Laroque, Chief Revenue Agent, Corporation and Business Tax; Leo Lebeuf, Chief Revenue Agent, Personal Income Tax; Bill Lynch, Chief Revenue Agent, Field Audit Services; Peter McVay, Associate Director of Revenue Services (Taxation) and their staffs are acknowledged. The Office of Revenue Analysis is appreciative of the efforts made by the Division of Taxation to provide us with the best information available at the time this report was written.

I. Executive Summary

Tax expenditures are legal mandates that provide preferential tax treatment to taxpayers that meet the requirements of the mandate. The 2014 Tax Expenditures Report contains information on a total of 243 tax expenditure items enacted in Rhode Island General Law, including 235 tax expenditure items current in Tax Year 2010 and 217 tax expenditure items current in Tax Year 2011. The estimated total forgone revenue for all tax expenditure items that had reliable data from which to derive an estimate was $1.92 billion for TY 2010 and $1.73 billion for TY 2011.

In the 2012 Tax Expenditures Report, the estimated total forgone revenue from the 235 tax expenditure items reported for TY 2009 was $1.73 billion. The sharp increase between the TY 2009 forgone revenue contained in the 2012 Tax Expenditures Report and the TY 2010 forgone revenue contained in the 2014 Tax Expenditures Report is primarily due to (1) the alternative personal income flat tax rate (listed under Preferential Tax Rates), a $64.1 million increase in TY 2010; (2) federal itemized deductions used on personal income tax returns (listed under Deductions), a $62.7 million increase in TY 2010; and (3) the exemption for prescription drugs and durable medical equipment (listed under Exemptions), a $27.8 million increase in TY 2010. The large drop in forgone tax revenue for tax expenditure items in TY 2011 vis-à-vis TY 2010 is due to the fact that the use of federal itemized deductions and the alternative personal income flat tax rate on personal income tax returns are no longer allowed under Rhode Island law.

The following table shows by tax expenditure category the estimated amount of forgone revenue, the average reliability index level, and the number of tax expenditure items for TY 2010:

Tax Expenditure Category	Tax Year 2010 Forgone Revenue	Average Reliability Index Level	Number of Items in Each Category
Credits	$ 221,270,981	1.3	41
Deductions	322,385,533	3.5	25
Exclusions	62,901,689	4.5	26
Exemptions	1,195,829,037	3.5	97
Modifications	9,640,475	1.3	32
Other Items	0	5.0	8
Preferential Tax Rates	108,309,642	1.0	2
Tax Abatement	1,856,908	1.0	2
Tax Deferral	0	5.0	2
TY 2010 TOTAL	$ 1,922,194,265	2.9	235

In TY 2010, the tax expenditure category with the largest number of items was exemptions with 97. Exemptions also had the greatest number of tax expenditure items for which no reliable data exists to derive an estimate of forgone revenue at 36. For TY 2010, the tax expenditure category with the highest calculated forgone revenue was exemptions at $1.20 billion, or 62.2 percent of estimated total forgone revenue. Tax abatement was the tax expenditure category with the smallest calculated forgone revenue at $1,856,908, or 0.1 percent of estimated total forgone revenue.

The computation of forgone revenue for each of the 235 tax expenditure items is assigned a reliability index level on a scale of one to five, with one meaning the forgone revenue figure is based on actual tax return data which is the most reliable, and five signifying that no reliable data exists from which to derive an estimate of forgone revenue. In instances in which a tax expenditure item was assigned multiple reliability index levels per tax type, the reliability index level with the most reliability was used in the summary table. For TY 2010, 85 tax expenditure items, or 36.2 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of one, while 82 tax expenditure items, or 34.9 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of five. The remaining 68 tax expenditure items were assigned a reliability index level of two, three or four, with 35 of these remaining items, or 14.9 percent of all items, being given a reliability index level of three.

The following table shows by category the estimated amount of forgone revenue, the average reliability index level, and the number of tax expenditure items for TY 2011:

Summary Table by Tax Expenditure Category for Tax Year 2011
Tax Expenditure Category	Tax Year 2011 Forgone Revenue	Average Reliability Index Level	Number of Items in Each Category
Credits	$ 205,413,127	1.1	29
Deductions	216,540,838	3.5	23

Tax Deferral	0	5.0	2
TY 2011 TOTAL	$ 1,732,004,491	3.0	217

In TY 2011, the tax expenditure category with the largest number of items was exemptions with 96. Exemptions also had the greatest number of tax expenditure items for which no reliable data exists to derive an estimate of forgone revenue at 35. For TY 2011, the tax expenditure category with the highest calculated forgone revenue was exemptions at $1.23 billion, or 71.1 percent of estimated total forgone revenue. Tax abatement was the tax expenditure category with the smallest calculated forgone revenue at $1,827,065, or 0.1 percent of estimated total forgone revenue.

For TY 2011, of the total 217 tax expenditure items, 71 tax expenditure items, or 32.7 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of one, while 78 tax expenditure items, or 35.9 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of five. The remaining 68 tax expenditure items were assigned a reliability index level of two, three or four, with 35 of these remaining items, or 16.1 percent of all tax expenditure items, being given a reliability index level of three.

Sales and Use Tax	1,094,504,478	3.4	84
TY 2010 TOTAL	$ 1,922,194,265	2.7	326

In TY 2010, the tax type with the largest number of tax expenditure items was personal income tax with 85. Business corporations tax was the tax type with the greatest number of tax expenditure items for which no reliable data exists to derive an estimate of forgone revenue with 32. For TY 2010, the tax type with the highest calculated forgone revenue was sales and use tax at $1.09 billion, which was 56.9 percent of estimated total forgone revenue. The tax type with the lowest calculated forgone revenue was the alcoholic beverage tax at $544.

For TY 2010, of the total 326 tax expenditure items by tax type, 148 tax expenditure items, or 45.4 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of one, while 111 tax expenditure items, or 34.0 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of five. The remaining 67 tax expenditure items were assigned a reliability index level of two, three or four, with 34 of these remaining items, or 10.4 percent of all items, being given a reliability index level of three.

In TY 2010, the single tax expenditure item with the largest amount of calculated forgone revenue was the sales and use tax exemption for “purchases used for manufacturing purposes” at $293.1 million, or 15.2 percent of estimated total forgone revenue. This tax expenditure item was assigned a reliability index level of three. By tax type, there were a total of 77 tax expenditure items which had zero calculated forgone revenue in TY 2010 and all were assigned a reliability index level of one.

In TY 2011, the tax type with the largest number of tax expenditure items was sales and use tax with 84. Business corporations tax was the tax type with the greatest number of tax expenditure items for which no reliable data exists to derive an estimate of forgone revenue with 32. For TY 2011, the tax type with the highest calculated forgone revenue was sales and use tax at $1.14 billion, which was 65.7 percent of estimated total forgone revenue. The tax type with the lowest calculated forgone revenue was the alcoholic beverage tax at $355.

For TY 2011, of the 293 tax expenditure items by tax type, a total of 120 tax expenditure items, or 41.0 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of one, while 106 tax expenditure items, or 36.2 percent of all items, were assigned a reliability index level of five. The remaining 67 tax expenditure items were assigned a reliability index level of two, three or four, with 34 of these remaining items, or 11.6 percent of all tax expenditure items, being given a reliability index level of three.

In TY 2011, the single tax expenditure item with the largest amount of calculated forgone revenue was the sales and use tax exemption for “purchases used for manufacturing purposes” at $297.8 million, or 17.2 percent of estimated total forgone revenue. This tax expenditure item was assigned a reliability index level of three. There were a total of 70 tax expenditure items by tax type which had zero calculated forgone revenue in TY 2011 and all were assigned a reliability index level of one.

II. Foreword

The 2014 Tax Expenditures Report generally uses data for Tax Year 2010 as its base tax year and includes estimates of forgone revenue for Tax Years 2011 through 2015. However, whenever more recent data was available for subsequent tax years, the latest data was included in the report rather than an estimate. It should be noted that more recent data may have become available for some tax expenditure items during the preparation of this report, but is not reflected in this report.

The 2012 Tax Expenditures Report included information on tax expenditure items for Tax Years 2009 through 2013, with Tax Year 2009 as its base tax year. Technically, the 2014 Tax Expenditures Report is mandated to provide information on all tax expenditure items in effect on January 1, 2013, as well as an estimate of forgone revenue for Tax Years 2014 and 2015. In an attempt to provide a complete and more accurate picture, for Tax Years 2010 through 2012 we have reported current data or an updated estimate of forgone revenue.

As always, constructive comments are welcome and any errors or omissions in the report are the responsibility of the Chief of the Office of Revenue Analysis.

III. Introduction

Purpose of the Tax Expenditures Report

The purpose of the Tax Expenditures Report is to provide information on the cost of tax preference items that are mandated under Rhode Island law, federal law, or another legal mandate. Tax expenditure items are not subject to the same public scrutiny as spending appropriations that are made through the budget process. Oftentimes the estimated cost of a tax expenditure item is made only once — at the time it is passed into law. The Tax Expenditures Report provides for an accounting of the cost, or forgone revenue, of tax expenditure items on an ongoing basis. By providing this cost information, the Tax Expenditures Report allows these expenditures to be assessed on par with appropriated expenditures. Absent a Tax Expenditures Report it would be extremely difficult to assess the cost effectiveness of a tax expenditure vis-à-vis an appropriated expenditure. As the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities notes, tax expenditures are simply “spending by another name.”¹

Current Rhode Island Law on Tax Expenditures Reporting

Rhode Island General Law § 44-48.1-1(a)² mandates that the Chief of the Office of Revenue Analysis deliver to the General Assembly by the second Tuesday in January of each even numbered year a tax expenditure report. The tax expenditure report must include the minimum information for 100.0 percent of the tax expenditures in place on January 1 of the odd numbered year preceding the report’s publication. Thus, the 2014 Tax Expenditures Report covers all of the tax expenditures that were in place on January 1, 2013.

Rhode Island General Law § 44-48.1-1(b) defines a tax expenditure as “any tax credit, deduction, exemption, exclusion, credit preferential tax rate, tax abatement, and tax deferral that provides preferential treatment to selected taxpayers.” The term “credit preferential tax rate” is not defined in the statute. The Chief of the Office of Revenue Analysis has chosen to interpret this item to mean a “modification” or “preferential tax rate” and reports on each of these tax expenditure items separately. The Office of Revenue Analysis has determined that as of January 1, 2013 there were 223 tax expenditure items in effect either “directly through Rhode Island General Law or constitutional provisions or indirectly through adoption of other tax codes.”

Rhode Island General Law § 44-48.1-1(c) delineates the information on each tax expenditure item that must be included in the report. This information includes: (1) the legal reference of the tax expenditure items, “including whether the tax expenditure is the result of a federal or state constitutional, judicial, or statutory mandate;” (2) the actual amount of forgone revenue or an estimate for the calendar year in which the report is published and the year following the report’s publication, and an index of the reliability of each estimate that ranges in value from one to five, with level one being the most reliable; (3) the identification of the beneficiaries of the tax expenditure by “number, income, class and industry;” (4) a comparison of the Rhode Island tax expenditure items to tax expenditure items of the other New England states, but particularly Connecticut and Massachusetts; (5) “the data source(s) and analysis methodology” for each tax expenditure item estimate; and (6) “identification of similar taxpayers or industries” that do not benefit from the tax expenditure item. To the greatest extent possible the Office of Revenue Analysis has tried to comply with each of these informational mandates.

Rhode Island General Law § 44-48.1-1(d) requires that each report contain a section comprised of recommendations to improve the effectiveness of the tax expenditures report as a tax policy tool. The recommendations are to be accompanied with an identification of the resources needed to implement the recommendations and an estimate of the costs associated with the recommendations.

History of Rhode Island Law on Tax Expenditures Reporting

Rhode Island’s governing statute for tax expenditure reporting was passed into law without the Governor’s signature on August 9, 1996 (see Rhode Island Public Laws 1996, Chapter 327, Section 1 and Chapter 394, Section 1). This initial statute required the state tax administrator to submit annually to the General Assembly beginning in 1998, on or before the second Tuesday in January, “to the extent possible within the appropriations provided for the purpose,” a tax expenditures report. The tax expenditures report for 1998 was to provide the “minimum information” for 25.0 percent of existing tax expenditures. The report for 1999 would cover an additional 25.0 percent of the tax expenditures, so that 50.0 percent of tax expenditures will have been reported. Similar 25.0 percent increments were required for 2000 and 2001, such that by January 2001, 100.0 percent of tax expenditures will have been reported. Beginning in January 2002, the cycle repeated itself so that no report on a tax expenditure item was more than four years old.

The definition of tax expenditure was the same as it is in current law as was the requirement for providing the legal reference of each tax expenditure, identifying the beneficiaries of each tax expenditure as well as similar taxpayers or industries that did not benefit from the tax expenditure, and comparing Rhode Island’s tax expenditure items to those of other New England states particularly Connecticut and Massachusetts. The original statute also required that the report include the legislative history of each tax expenditure, the “determination of the beneficiary’s state tax burden” and a cost/benefit analysis of each tax expenditure item “including the direct revenue loss from the tax expenditure as well as the economic and tax revenue gains occurring through the economic activity resulting from the tax expenditure.” On June 25, 1997 (see Rhode Island Public Laws 1997, Chapter 30, Section 1), the original statute was amended to delete the requirement of the inclusion of a cost/benefit analysis for each tax expenditure item in the tax expenditure report.

On July 10, 2003, the statute was amended again to change the periodicity of the report from annually to biannually beginning in 2004. In addition, the rolling renewal of 25.0 percent of existing tax expenditures was changed to require that “the minimum information on 100.0 percent of tax expenditures in effect on January 1” of the prior calendar year be reported. The requirement that the legislative history of a tax expenditure item be reported was eliminated leaving only the requirement that the legal reference for each tax expenditure item be reported. Further, the original statute was modified to require that an estimate of the forgone revenue that results from each tax expenditure item be reported if the actual amount cannot be determined and that such estimates be made for the calendar year preceding and following the year in which the report is published as well as the report’s publication year. Additionally, the requirement that the beneficiary of tax expenditure item’s state tax burden be determined was deleted and replaced with the requirement that the data sources and analysis methodology underlying each estimate of forgone revenue be provided. Also, the amendment to the statute required each report to include “a section containing recommendations for improving the effectiveness of the report as a tax policy tool” including the resources required and an estimate of the costs associated with these recommendations. Finally, the revision to the statute required the state tax administrator to “make available to the General Assembly a plan to improve Rhode Island’s tax expenditure reporting effort” by the second Tuesday in January 2004.

On June 30, 2006, Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-48.1 was amended to shift the responsibility for the delivery of the tax expenditure report from “the state tax administrator, to the extent possible within the appropriations provided for the purpose” to the Chief of the Office of Revenue Analysis without regard to appropriations provided for that purpose. In addition, this amendment required the Chief of the Office of Revenue Analysis to “make available to the General Assembly a plan to improve Rhode Island’s tax expenditure reporting effort” by the second Tuesday in January 2004. This latter amendment could not be fulfilled given that the Office of Revenue Analysis was not created until June 2006.

IV. Interpreting the Report

The Index of Reliability

Rhode Island General Law § 44-48.1-1(c)(2)³ requires the tax administrator to “develop an index of the reliability of each estimate” of forgone revenue. By statute, the index of reliability is based on a scale of one to five, “with level one being most reliable.” The statute further specifies that estimates of forgone revenue that are derived from actual tax returns “should be assigned reliability level one,” while those estimates of forgone revenue for which no reliable data exists “should be assigned reliability level five.” A perusal of previously published tax expenditures reports revealed that the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report was the first such report to provide such an index.

The 2014 Tax Expenditures Report uses the reliability index that was developed in the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report. The Index of Reliability is shown below:

Index of Reliability	Interpretation
Level One (1)	Estimate is from actual Rhode Island tax return data
Level Two (2)	Estimate is extrapolated from Rhode Island source data
Level Three (3)	Estimate is from Rhode Island tax simulation model
Level Four (4)	Estimate is federal/national data scaled for Rhode Island
Level Five (5)	No reliable data exists from which to derive an estimate

The end points of the Index of Reliability (i.e., Level One and Level Five) are consistent with their statutory mandates. An estimate of forgone revenue for a tax expenditure item that is assigned an Index of Reliability Level One will be based on actual Rhode Island tax return data. Given the fact that an Index of Reliability Level Five indicates that “no reliable data exists from which to derive an estimate,” tax expenditure items assigned this level will not have an estimate of forgone revenue presented. Rather, the phrase “no estimate possible” will be presented next to the tax expenditure item.

The Index of Reliability Levels Two through Four requires some further explanation. An estimate of forgone revenue with an Index of Reliability Level Two is based on data that can be directly sourced to Rhode Island or an update of a previously derived estimate of the tax expenditure item. Some examples of data that can be directly sourced to Rhode Island include data provided by the U.S. Census Bureau, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, and the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis. In addition, state government agencies, quasi-public agencies, and non-governmental organizations are able to provide reliable Rhode Island specific data from which to estimate the forgone revenue of a tax expenditure item. In the case of updating a previously derived estimate, the original estimate may be from a previously published tax expenditures report, a fiscal note that was completed for a particular piece of legislation during a session of the General Assembly, or an estimate that was derived by the Budget Office, the Division of Taxation, the Office of Revenue Analysis or some other state agency for a purpose other than that of the tax expenditures report. When an Index of Reliability Level Two is assigned to the forgone revenue estimate of a tax expenditure item, the source of the Rhode Island data will be specified.

An estimate of forgone revenue for a tax expenditure item with an Index of Reliability Level Three is derived from a micro simulation model of a particular tax that has been developed and provided by a third party vendor. In some cases such a micro simulation model will generate estimates based on underlying Rhode Island economic data rather than actual tax data. The most obvious example of this type of micro simulation model is the Rhode Island Micro Sales Tax Model that was purchased by the General Assembly in 2008 and made available to the Office of Revenue Analysis for the purpose of estimating the revenue impacts from changing sales tax rates, sales tax exemptions, and/or the sales tax base. This model is used extensively to estimate the forgone revenue from the numerous transactions that are exempt from the State's sales and use tax.

Finally, an estimate of forgone revenue for a tax expenditure item with an Index of Reliability Level Four is based on federal / national data that is scaled to Rhode Island. Alternatively, the estimate may be based on federal data that is then adjusted by a factor that allows for the extrapolation of the federal data to Rhode Island. When an Index of Reliability Level Four is assigned to the forgone revenue estimate of a tax expenditure item, the date on which the original estimate was derived will be stated if it is known as will the method used to update the original estimate. In the case of an estimate that is based on federal data that is scaled to Rhode Island, the base federal data will be identified as will the scaling factor.

Structure of the Report

Prior to the issuance of the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report, tax expenditures reports presented tax expenditure items by tax type. In other words, the primary organizing key was tax type with tax expenditure items appearing under each tax type. For example, in the Tax Expenditures Report, January 2008, thirty-eight tax expenditure items are listed under the heading "Personal Income" and these tax expenditure items are comprised of modifications, credits, exclusions, adjustments, deductions and preferential tax rates.⁴ In addition, when it comes to tax expenditure items, it is often the case that what is available for one tax type will also be made available for other tax types. For example, the Motion Picture Production Tax Credit allows for a credit of 25.0 percent "of the state certified production costs incurred directly attributable to activity within the state, provided that the primary locations are within the state of Rhode Island and the total production budget as defined herein is a minimum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000)."⁵ This credit, which can be transferred or sold, can be used against the "tax imposed" under the state's business corporations tax, financial institutions tax, insurance companies gross premiums tax and the personal income tax. As a result of this type of tax expenditure, tax expenditures report issued prior to the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report had to include a category labeled “Tax Preference Items Applicable to More Than One Tax”⁶ in order to consistently categorize tax expenditure items.

In the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report, the Office of Revenue Analysis adopted a different presentation format. Rather than list the tax expenditure items by the tax type to which they apply, the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report used the category of tax expenditure item as the organizing key. That is, each category of tax expenditure items listed each individual tax expenditure item and the tax types to which the individual tax expenditure item applies. For example, the Motion Picture Production Tax Credit would be categorized under “Credits” with the business corporations tax, financial institutions tax, insurance companies gross premiums tax, and the personal income tax as the relevant tax types. The 2014 Tax Expenditures Report follows the same approach as was adopted for the 2010 Tax Expenditures Report.

To assist readers in the use of the 2014 Tax Expenditures Report, two sets of summary tables are included. The first set of summary tables lists the value of tax expenditures by tax expenditure item. Thus, for example, under the category “Credits” the total value of each individual tax expenditure credit item, without regard to the tax type under which it was used, will be shown. The second set of summary tables lists the value of tax expenditures by tax type. Thus, for example, under the tax type “Personal Income” the total value of each individual tax expenditure item that is used under the personal income tax will be displayed.

Definition of Terms

The following definitions will be used when referring to the different types of tax expenditure items included in this report.

Credit: The direct dollar-for-dollar reduction of an individual’s tax liability. The value of a tax credit is invariant to a taxpayer’s tax bracket.

Deduction: An amount subtracted from adjusted gross income when calculating taxable income. The value of a tax deduction is proportional to a taxpayer’s tax bracket.

Exclusion: An amount or proportion that can be legally excluded from the taxable base prior to the assessment of tax.

Exemption: A taxable expenditure, income, or investment on which no tax is levied. A tax exemption may be of limited or permanent duration.

Modification: An amount added to or subtracted from gross income to arrive at adjusted gross income. Usually, adjusted gross income is the basis from which taxable income is derived.

⁶ See Tax Expenditures Report, January 2008, p. 144.

Preferential Tax Rate: A tax rate made available to certain taxpayer's that is less than the statutory tax rate. Typically, the preferential tax rate is made available to a taxpayer that meets specified criteria.

Tax Abatement: Rebate given in levies or taxes under special circumstances or as an offset to the performance of particular actions.

Tax Deferral: Paying taxes in the future for income earned in the current year, such as through an Individual Retirement Account (IRA), 401(k), Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) IRA or Keogh plan.

Categorization of Tax Expenditure Items

The tables on the following pages show the categorization of tax expenditure items and the tax type that each tax expenditure item applies. The individual tax expenditure items are listed alphabetically by category and those tax expenditure items that originate under the Internal Revenue Code are so indicated as federal. Tax expenditure items with an asterisk (“*”) in the applicable tax type represent tax expenditure items that were in effect in Tax Year 2010 or earlier, but were eliminated as of January 1, 2013.

V. Recent Changes to Laws that Impact Tax Expenditures

There have been several changes in the laws enacted during the 2011, 2012 and 2013 sessions of the General Assembly that impact tax expenditures. For laws enacted in the 2009 and 2010 sessions of the General Assembly that impacted tax expenditures, see the 2012 Tax Expenditures Report. The following tax expenditure changes from the 2011, 2012 and 2013 sessions of the General Assembly are listed in alphabetical order by tax expenditure item category.

CREDITS

- Contribution to Scholarship Organizations

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-62-3 / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 14

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2006 / 2013

Description of Change: The total aggregate amount of all tax credits approved by the Division of Taxation in a fiscal year was increased from $1.0 million to $1.5 million.

Effective Date: July 3, 2013

Tax Expenditures Impacted: This change increases the tax expenditure associated with the business corporations tax, public service corporation tax, bank tax, bank deposits tax, insurance companies gross premiums tax and personal income tax.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the public law.

- Historic Preservation

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 22, Section 2

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2013 / N/A

Description of Change: The legislation established a new program similar to the Historic Structures Tax Credit program contained in Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-33.2. A taxpayer that incurs qualified rehabilitation expenditures for the substantial rehabilitation of a certified historic structure, provided the taxpayer is not a social club, is entitled to a credit against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 or 44-30. The credit is equal to 20.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures for any certified historic structure or 25.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures, provided that either (i) at least 25.0 percent of the total rentable area of the certified historic structure is available for a trade or business or (ii) the entire rentable area located on the first floor of the certified historic structure is available for a trade or business.

Tax credits are allowed for the tax year in which the structure or an identifiable portion of the structure is placed into service. The maximum credit cannot exceed $5.0 million for all phases of any certified rehabilitation project and the total credits authorized cannot exceed the sum of the estimated credits available in the historic preservation tax credit trust fund.

Tax Expenditures Impacted: This version of the historic preservation tax credit program is a new tax expenditure item that essentially extends the state's previous Historic Structures Tax Credit Program subject to conditions that differ from the original program. This new tax expenditure item can potentially impact the business corporations tax, franchise tax, public service corporation tax, bank tax, insurance companies gross premiums tax and personal income tax revenues.

Under current law, each tax item for which an historic structures tax credit is used to offset a taxpayer's liability is reimbursed by an equal amount from the Historic Preservation Tax Credit Trust Fund the financing of which is executed by the issuance of bonds for this express purpose.

Purpose: "The general assembly finds and declares that Rhode Island's historic structures continue to experience high vacancy rates and physical deterioration, particularly in Rhode Island's central business districts. Without adding economic incentive, these structures are not viable for the redevelopment and reuse by modern commercial, residential or manufacturing enterprises and will continue their physical deterioration. The redevelopment and reuse of these historic structures are of critical importance to the economic measures and will assist in stimulating the reuse and redevelopment of historic structures and will improve property values, foster civic beauty, create employment opportunities, enhance commerce, and promote public education, pleasure, and welfare. Furthermore, during this unprecedented economic climate, many in the building and construction trades, and related service industries, have been severely impacted. The redevelopment and reuse of these historic structures will serve as a vital catalyst in the recovery of these trades and services, in addition to stimulating various other related economic benefits and business activities. The purpose of this chapter is to create economic incentives for the purpose of stimulating the redevelopment and reuse of Rhode Island's historic structures, as well as to generate the positive economic and employment activities that will result from such redevelopment and reuse."

- Motion Picture Production

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2005 / 2012

Description of Change: The credit was amended to lower the minimum threshold requirement for the “total production budget” from $300,000 to $100,000, to allow documentary productions to be eligible for the credit, and to provide a maximum credit of $5.0 million per production. No more than $15.0 million may be issued for any tax year for the total combined motion picture tax credits and musical and theatrical production tax credits. No credits are to be issued on or after July 1, 2019.

Effective Date: July 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The enacted changes to the motion picture production tax credit allows for an increase in the number of taxpayers eligible to use this credit, however, the previously established $15.0 million maximum amount of credits that may be issued in any tax year is unchanged. Thus, in a given tax year the forgone revenue from the use of the credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14, 44-17, and 44-30 may be increased but will not exceed the $15.0 million maximum allowed.

Purpose: “The primary objective of this chapter is to encourage development in Rhode Island of a strong capital base for motion picture film, videotape, and television program productions, in order to achieve a more independent, self-supporting industry.”

- Musical and Theatrical Production

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012 / N/A

Description of Change: A credit equal to 25.0 percent of the “production and performance expenditures” and “transportation expenditures” directly attributable to activities in the State for a live stage production in a “qualified production facility” is allowed against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30. To qualify for the credit, the minimum production budget must be $100,000 and the maximum credit allowed is $5.0 million per production. No more than $15.0 million may be issued for any tax year for the total combined motion picture production tax credits and musical and theatrical production tax credits. No credits are to be issued on or after July 1, 2019.

Effective Date: July 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The musical and theatrical production credit is a new tax expenditure item that will increase revenue forgone in a given tax year, to the extent the credit is utilized, for the taxes imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30. The total amount of the tax expenditure, however, is limited to the same $15.0 million cap that applies to the motion picture production tax credit.

Purpose: “The General Assembly finds and declares that it is Rhode Island’s priority to reduce the state’s unemployment rate by stimulating new industries that have large employment growth potential by providing tax incentives...and...that such incentives should be created for the arts and entertainment industry. The purpose of this chapter is to create economic incentives for the purpose of stimulating the local economy and reducing unemployment in Rhode Island.”

DEDUCTIONS

- Domestic Production Activities (Federal)

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-55 / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 2

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1997 / 2013

Description of Change: All corporations doing business in the state must add back to taxable income any amount deducted under Section 199 of the Internal Revenue Code, commonly referred to as the domestic production activities deduction.

Effective Date: January 1, 2014

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The disallowance for the federal domestic production activities deduction eliminates this tax expenditure item for the taxes imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11 and 44-30.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

EXCLUSIONS

- Net Taxable Estate Amount

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-22-1.1

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1985 / 2009

Description of Change: Beginning January 1, 2011, and each January thereafter, the estate tax threshold is adjusted by the percentage of increase in the Consumer Price Index for all Urban Consumers (CPI-U) compounded annually and is rounded up to the nearest $5 increment. The threshold for 2010 was $850,000; for 2011 it was $859,350; for 2012 it was $892,865; for 2013 it was $910,725 and for 2014 it is $921,655.

Effective Date: January 1, 2014

Tax Expenditures Impacted: An increase in the estate tax threshold exemption amount increases the tax expenditure associated with this exclusion.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

- Veterinary and Testing Laboratories Services

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island Public Law 2012, Chapter 241, Article 21, Section 4

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012 / N/A

Description of Change: Services subject to the sales and use tax was defined to include pet care services, except veterinary and testing laboratories services. This definition creates a tax expenditure for veterinary and testing laboratories services.

Effective Date: October 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: This exclusion is a new tax expenditure item impacting the state's sales and use tax revenues.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

EXEMPTIONS

- Beverage Containers, Hard-to-Dispose Material and Litter Control Participation Permittee

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-44-2 / Rhode Island Public Law 2012, Chapter 241, Article 21, Section 9

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1984 / 2012

Description of Change: The definition of "beverage" was amended to include all non-alcoholic drinks for human consumption, except milk, but including beer and other malt beverages and subject these beverages to the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-44-3.

Effective Date: July 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The expansion of the definition of "beverage" to include more drinks reduces the tax expenditure associated with the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-44-3.

Purpose: To provide funding for the litter reduction and recycling program and the hard-to-dispose material - control and recycling program.

- Buses, Trucks and Trailers Used in Interstate Commerce

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-40 / Rhode Island Public Law 2012, Chapter 302, Section 1 and Chapter 351, Section 1

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1992 / 2012

Description of Change: In the case of a bus operated by a bus company, a sales and use tax exemption is allowed for the purchase or rental/lease of a bus that transports passengers for hire provided that the bus is used no less than 80.0 percent of the time in interstate commerce.

Effective Date: June 20, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The enacted change increases the tax expenditure by increasing the number of taxpayers eligible for this exemption.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

- Clothing and Footwear

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1977 / 2012

Description of Change: The sales and use tax exemption is amended to no longer apply to the sale of clothing, including footwear, the retail sales price of which exceeds $250 per item. The sales and use tax will apply to the portion of the sales price of an individual item of clothing or footwear that exceeds $250.

Effective Date: October 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The enacted change reduces the tax expenditure associated with this exemption. Under prior law, the full amount of all clothing and footwear was exempt from the sales and use tax.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

- Feed for Certain Animals Used in Commercial Farming

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island Public Law 2012, Chapter 407, Section 1

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012 / N/A

Description of Change: The feed for “livestock and poultry of the kinds of products of which ordinarily constitute food for human consumption and of livestock of the kind the products of which ordinarily constitute fibers for human use” is exempted from the sales and use tax.

Effective Date: June 22, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: This exemption is a new tax expenditure item that increases the tax expenditures that affect the state’s sales and use tax revenue.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

- Qualified Sales of Manufactured and Mobile Home Parks

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012 / N/A

Description of Change: The qualified sale of a mobile or manufactured home community to a resident-owned organization is exempt from the real estate conveyance tax.

Effective Date: June 21, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: This exemption is a new tax expenditure item that increases the tax expenditures that affect the state’s real estate conveyance tax revenue.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

- Sales by Writers, Composers, and Artists

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30.B / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 15

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1996 / 2013

Description of Change: This legislation expanded the exemption from sales and use tax previously available on sales of original and creative works by writers, composers, and artists that work and reside in designated arts districts to the sales of original and creative works by writers, composers and artists residing in and conducting a business within the State of Rhode Island. In addition, print and photograph were added to the list of original and creative works of art that are eligible for the sales tax exemption.

Effective Date: December 1, 2013

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The enacted change increases the tax expenditure item for the sales tax by expanding the exemption from sales and tax to all works of art created and sold in the state.

Purpose: “There is value in expanding the arts district program statewide, providing incentives for the sale and purchase of art. This is a unique opportunity for Rhode Island to shape history, and gain an advantage over other states, by becoming the first and only state in the country to declare a statewide sales tax exemption on art. This will strengthen Rhode Island’s identity as an arts-friendly destination and ‘State of the Arts’.”

- Wine and Spirits

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30 / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 3

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1947 / 2013

Description of Change: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of wine and spirits by a Class A Licensee of alcoholic beverages is exempt from the sales and use tax for the period December 1, 2013 through March 31, 2015.

Effective Date: December 1, 2013

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The legislation enacts a new exemption to the state sales and use tax and thereby creates a new tax expenditure impacting the state’s sales and use tax revenue.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

MODIFICATIONS

- Expensing of Assets in Lieu of Depreciation, Section 179 of Internal Revenue Code

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-61-1.1 / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 1

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2003 / 2013

Description of Change: “In the year that those assets are placed in service expensing of assets for Rhode Island tax purposes shall be allowed in the same manner as provided for under § 179 of the internal revenue code 26 U.S.C. § 179.”

Effective Date: January 1, 2014, for all assets placed in service on or after January 1, 2014.

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The enacted change eliminates the modification associated with this tax expenditure item. This modification had no impact on the tax expenditures associated with Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14 and 44-30.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

- Income from the Assignment or Transfer of Musical and Theatrical Production Tax Credits:

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012 / N/A

Description of Change: “Any assignment or sales proceeds received by the assignor” of musical and theatrical production tax credits “for its assignment or sale of the tax credits” as allowed by Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.3-2 are exempt from taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Title 44.

Effective Date: July 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: This modification is a new tax expenditure item impacting the state’s business corporations tax, franchise tax, public service corporation tax, bank tax, insurance companies gross premiums tax and/or personal income tax revenue.

Purpose: “The General Assembly finds and declares that it is Rhode Island’s priority to reduce the state’s unemployment rate by stimulating new industries that have large employment growth potential by providing tax incentives...and...that such incentives should be created for the arts and entertainment industry. The purpose of this chapter is to create economic incentives for the purpose of stimulating the local economy and reducing unemployment in Rhode Island.”

- Rental Vehicle Surcharge Retained by Rental Car Companies

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 31-34.1-2(b) / Rhode Island Public Law 2012, Chapter 297, Section 1 and Chapter 340, Section 1

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1994 / 2012

Description of Change: The rental vehicle surcharge rate was increased from 6.0 percent to 8.0 percent and the revenue retained by the rental car company from the rental vehicle surcharge was increased from 50.0 percent to 60.0 percent with the balance of the surcharge remitted to the state for deposit in the general fund.

Effective Date: June 20, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The increase in the rental vehicle surcharge to 8.0 percent increases the amount of rental vehicle surcharge revenues available for allocation between the rental car company and the state. The increase in the percentage of the rental vehicle surcharge retained by the rental car company increases, all else equal, the tax expenditure associated with the rental vehicle surcharge.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

TAX ABATEMENTS

- Value of Farmland Included in Estate

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-23-5 / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 11

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1916 / 2013

Description of Change: All farmland included as part of an estate, and utilized by the executor, administrator, heir-at-law, beneficiary or trustee as farmland, shall be appraised at its use value and not at fair market value.

Effective Date: July 1, 2013

Tax Expenditures Impacted: The tax abatement is a new tax expenditure item that reduces estate and transfer tax revenues.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

OTHER CHANGES

- Removal of Package Tours and Scenic and Sightseeing Transportation Services from Sales and Use Tax

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-18-7, 44-18-8, 44-18-12, 44-18-15, 44-18-20, 44-18-21, 44-18-22, 44-18-23, and 44-18-25 / Rhode Island Public Law 2012, Chapter 241, Article 21, Section 3

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1947 / 2012

Description of Change: Travel packages and scenic and sightseeing transportation services were removed from the sales and use tax base.

Effective Date: October 1, 2012

Tax Expenditures Impacted: Removal of travel packages and scenic and sightseeing transportation services from the sales and use tax base shrinks the sales and use tax base without impacting the tax expenditures associated with the sales and use tax.

Purpose: No explicit purpose provided in the statute.

CREDITS

1. Accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-54-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1997 / 2010

Description: A small business taxpayer that pays for or incurs expenses to provide access to persons with disabilities to comply with federal or state laws is allowed a credit equal to 10.0 percent of the total amount expended against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11 and 44-13. The credit cannot exceed $1,000 each tax year.

Data Source: Business Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation.

Law Comparison: Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Massachusetts: Massachusetts allows taxpayers to deduct up to $35,000 of the costs of removing architectural or transportation barriers to the handicapped in the year these costs are incurred. The immediate deduction of these expenditures, which would otherwise have to be capitalized and depreciated over a longer period, results in a deferral of tax or an interest-free loan.

Massachusetts citation: 26 U.S.C. § 190

Vermont: Vermont's law provides an exemption to eligible expenses incurred by small businesses for the purpose of providing access to persons with disabilities, as provided in Section 44 of the Internal Revenue Code.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5823(a)(5)

2. Adoption (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(L)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2005 / 2010

Description: As of January 1, 2011, this credit is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2006 (but before January 1, 2011), a taxpayer entitled to the federal adoption credit is entitled to a credit against the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30 equal to 25.0 percent of the federal credit if the adopted child was under the care, custody, or supervision of the Rhode Island Department of Children, Youth and Families prior to the adoption.

Data Source: TY 2010 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Beginning in tax year 2011, the adoption credit can no longer be used to offset personal income tax liability.

Reliability Index: 1

Calendar Year / Tax Type	Forgone Revenue	Number of Taxpayers
2010 Personal Income Tax	$247,237	93

Law Comparison: Only Massachusetts has a similar provision.

Massachusetts: Massachusetts adopts the federal exclusion for employer-provided adoption expenses paid. It also has a deduction for adoption fees paid to a registered adoption agency against “earned” income.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 3B(b)(5)

3. Adult and Child Daycare:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-47-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1987 / 1994

Description: A credit is allowed against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13 (except § 44-13-13), 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30* for 30.0 percent of the total amount expended in the state by a taxpayer (a) “for day care services purchased to provide care for the dependent children or dependent adult family members of the taxpayer’s employees or employees of commercial tenants of the taxpayer during the employees’ hours of employment;” (b) “in the establishment and/or operation of a day care facility used primarily by the dependent children of the taxpayer’s employees or employees of commercial tenants of the taxpayer during the employees’ hours of employment;” (c) “in conjunction with one or more other taxpayer for the establishment and/or operation of a day care facility used primarily by the dependent children of the taxpayer’s employees or employees of commercial tenants of the taxpayer during the employees’ hours of employment;” or (d) “the total amount forgone in rent or lease payments related to the dedication of rental or lease space to child day care services.”

The maximum credit allowed is $30,000 and cannot reduce the tax due for any tax year to less than $100. The credit may be carried forward for the next five consecutive tax years, if the credit has been earned under conditions (b), (c) or (d) above, but no carry forward provision is available for credits earned under condition (a).

*As of January 1, 2011, this credit is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Data Source: Business Corporations, Public Service Corporation, Bank and Insurance Companies Taxes: Rhode Island Division of Taxation testimony, November 2013 Revenue Estimating Conference.

Personal Income Tax: Tax Administrator’s Office, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Beginning in tax year 2011, the adult and child daycare credit can no longer be used to offset personal income tax liability.

Law Comparison: Connecticut and Maine have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut allows a corporation subject to the corporation business tax to claim a credit for expenditures made as a human capital investment. According to the Connecticut statute, “(5) planning, site preparation, construction, renovation or acquisition of facilities in this state for the purpose of establishing a day care facility in this state to be used primarily by the children of employees who are employed in this state” and “(6) subsidies to employees who are employed in this state for child care to be provided in this state” are expenditures that qualify as human capital investments. The tax credit is equal to 5.0 percent of the amount paid or incurred by the corporation for a human capital investment. A credit cannot exceed the amount of corporation business tax otherwise payable, although unused amounts may be carried forward for up to five succeeding income years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217x

Maine: Maine allows a credit to an employer against costs incurred for day care services provided to employees. The credit is equal to the lowest of: (1) $5,000; (2) 20% of the cost of the day care services provided; or (3) $100 for each child of an employee of the taxpayer enrolled in the day care service. The credit doubles in amount if the day care service is considered quality child care service, meeting minimum licensing standards and accredited by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), Office of Child Care and Head Start.

Maine also allows a credit to an employer for long-term care benefits provided to employees. The credit is equal to the lowest of: (1) $5,000; (2) 20% of the cost of the long-term care insurance; or (3) $100 for each employee covered by the employer-provided long-term care insurance program. The credit may not exceed the tax otherwise due. Unused credits may be carried forward up to 15 years.

4. Adult Education:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-46-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1985 / 1999

Description: An employer is allowed a credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13, 44-14, 44-15, 44-17 and 44-30* for 50.0 percent of the costs incurred solely and directly for non-worksites or worksite-based adult education programs, as specifically defined. The employees for whom the employer claims an adult education tax credit must remain in the employ of the business for a minimum period of 13 consecutive weeks and a minimum of 455 hours of paid employment before an employer is eligible for the credit.

The maximum credit per employee is $300 and the maximum credit per calendar year per employer is $5,000. This credit cannot reduce the business corporations tax to less than $100. The credit is not refundable and any amount of the credit that is not used in the taxable year in which the employer becomes eligible for the credit cannot be carried forward to the following year.

*As of January 1, 2011, this credit is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Connecticut: Connecticut allows a corporation subject to the corporation business tax to claim a credit for expenditures made as a human capital investment. According to the Connecticut statute, “(1) job training which occurs in this state for persons who are employed in this state; (2) work education programs in this state including, but not limited to, programs in public high schools and work education-diversified occupations programs in this state;” and “(3) worker training and education for persons who are employed in this state provided by institutions of higher education in this state” are expenditures that qualify as human capital investments. The tax credit is equal to 5.0 percent of the amount paid or incurred by the corporation for a human capital investment. A credit cannot exceed the amount of corporation business tax otherwise payable, although unused amounts may be carried forward for up to five succeeding income years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217x

Maine: A taxpayer constituting an “opportunity program participant” or an employer of a qualified employee is allowed an income tax credit for each taxable year. The amount of the credit is dependent on the loan payment made by the opportunity program participant. The credit may not reduce the income tax otherwise due to less than zero. A taxpayer entitled to the credit for any taxable year may carry over and apply to the tax liability for any one or more of the next succeeding 10 years the portion, as reduced from year to year, of any unused credits. More than one taxpayer may claim a credit based on loan payments actually made to a relevant lender or lenders to benefit a single opportunity program participant, but no two taxpayers may claim the credit based on the same payment.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31-1.1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2006 / N/A

Description: Any company primarily engaged in commercial biological research and development or manufacturing and sale of biotechnology products or active pharmaceutical ingredients shall be allowed a credit of 10.0 percent of the cost or other basis for federal tax purposes of tangible personal property, excluding vehicles and furniture, and other tangible property with situs in Rhode Island and principally used in the production of biotechnology products after December 31, 2001. This credit can be used against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11 and 44-30*.

To qualify for the tax credit a company must pay its employees that work a minimum of thirty (30) hours per week within the state, a median annual wage equal to or greater than 125.0 percent of the average annual wage paid by all employers in Rhode Island to employees that work a minimum of thirty (30) hours per week, and the company must provide benefits typical to the biotechnology industry.

Any amount of credit not used in the tax year it was earned may be carried forward for up to 15 succeeding tax years.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(3)(E)(1)(g)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: A taxpayer entitled to the federal child and dependent care credit is entitled to a credit against the Rhode Island personal income tax. In general, if a taxpayer can claim the federal credit for expenses paid for someone to care for a dependent that is under age 13 or to care for a spouse or dependent whom is unable to care for himself/herself, then the taxpayer can claim a credit for the same expenses against the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The child and/or dependent care expenses must be paid in order for the taxpayer to work or look for work. The amount of the credit is equal to 25.0 percent of the federal credit that is claimed.

Law Comparison: Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Maine: A resident individual is allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due in the amount of 25.0 percent of the federal tax credit allowable for child and dependent care expenses in the same tax year, except that for tax years beginning in 2003, 2004 and 2005, the applicable percentage is 21.5 percent instead of 25.0 percent.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5218

Massachusetts: Massachusetts' provisions provide for the reduction of taxes of any federal credit allowable on the resident's federal income tax return. Day care paid for or provided by an employer to an employee, the value of which does not exceed the employee's or employee's spouse's "earned" income, and does not exceed the amount of $5,000, is not included in the income of the employee and is deductible by the employer.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 6(a)(ii)

Vermont: A taxpayer is entitled to a credit against the tax imposed of 24.0 percent of the child care and dependent care credit allowed against the taxpayer's federal income tax for the taxable year. Vermont also has a second credit for taxpayers with federal AGI under $30,000, if filing individually, or $40,000, if married filing jointly. The credit is equal to 50.0 percent of the federal child and dependent care credit for child and dependent care services procured in Vermont, so long as the facility providing these services has been certified by the Agency of Human Services.

9. Contributions to Scholarship Organizations:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-62-3 / Rhode Island Public Law 2013, Chapter 144, Article 9, Section 14

Stated Purpose: "In order to enhance the educational opportunities available to all students in this state, a business entity will be allowed a tax credit...for voluntary cash contribution (sic) made by the business entity to a qualified scholarship."

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2006 / 2013

Description: Taxpayers that make voluntary cash contributions to certified scholarship organizations are entitled to receive a credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13, 44-14, 44-15, 44-17 or 44-30. The maximum credit allowed a business entity is no greater than $100,000 in any tax year. The total aggregate amount of all tax credits for contributions to scholarship organizations approved by the Division of Taxation in a fiscal year cannot exceed $1.0 million. Effective July 3, 2013 and thereafter, the total aggregate amount of all tax credits for contributions to scholarship organizations approved by the Division of Taxation cannot exceed $1.5 million.

There are two methods by which the tax credit can be earned, a two-year contribution plan and a one-time contribution plan. Under the two-year contribution plan, the taxpayer commits to making the same amount of contribution for two consecutive tax years. In this case, the yearly tax credit earned is equal to 90.0 percent of the total voluntary contribution made by the business entity. Under the one-time contribution plan, the business entity receives a credit equal to 75.0 percent of the total voluntary contribution that is made.

The tax credit must be used in the tax year the contribution was made. The tax credit is not refundable, assignable or transferable and any unused credit may not be carried forward. The tax credit may not reduce the tax below the state minimum tax.

Law Comparison: Only New Hampshire has a similar provision.

New Hampshire: A tax credit is allowed against the business profits tax and/or the business enterprise tax for business organizations and business enterprises that contribute to scholarship organizations which award scholarships to be used by students to defray educational expenses. For each contribution made to a scholarship organization, a business organization or business enterprise may claim a credit equal to 85 percent of the contribution against the business profits tax...or against the business enterprise tax...or apportioned against both provided the total credit granted against both shall not exceed the maximum education tax credit allowed. No business organization or business enterprise shall receive more than 10 percent of the aggregate amount of tax credits permitted.

The aggregate of tax credits issued by the commissioner of the department of revenue administration to all taxpayers claiming the credit shall not exceed $3,400,000 for the first program year and $5,100,000 for the second program year, subject to the provisions of (b).

In subsequent years, the aggregate of tax credits shall not exceed the amount allowed for the prior year, unless adjusted pursuant to (a).

- (a) Beginning with the second program year, if the amount of the total donations used for scholarships exceeds 80 percent of the current program year's tax credits allowed, the aggregate of tax credits allowed for the next program year shall increase by 25 percent, subject to the provisions of (b).
- (b) In each program year, the increase in the aggregate of tax credits allowed...shall be contingent upon the board of directors of the community development finance authority certifying in writing to the commissioner of the department of revenue administration by the December 1 preceding the program year that the community development finance authority has received $5,000,000 or more in contributions for the state fiscal year or that the authority has received contribution offers sufficient to meet its state fiscal year limit but did not meet its limit for other reasons.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(N)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: A taxpayer entitled to a federal earned income credit is allowed a Rhode Island earned income credit equal to 25.0 percent of the federal earned income credit. In the event the Rhode Island earned income credit allowed exceeds the amount of Rhode Island income tax, a refundable earned income credit is allowed. Refundable earned income credit means 15.0 percent of the amount by which the Rhode Island earned income credit exceeds the Rhode Island income tax.

In general, a taxpayer can claim the federal credit if he/she is employed and meets certain income criteria and rules including those having to do with children living in the home. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 increased the federal earned income tax credit from 40.0 to 45.0 percent of the first $12,570 in earned income for taxpayers with three or more eligible dependents.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Beginning January 1, 2011, Connecticut allows for a refundable earned income tax credit equal to 30.0 percent of the federal earned income tax credit to resident taxpayers who work and earn incomes below certain levels. The credit is reduced to 25.0 percent for the 2013 income year and 27.5 percent for the 2014 income year.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-704e

Maine: A resident individual is allowed an income tax credit in the amount of 5.0 percent of the federal earned income credit for the same taxable year. Effective July 18, 2008, a nonresident individual and a part-year resident is allowed an income tax credit in the amount of 5.0 percent of the federal earned income credit for the same taxable year multiplied by the ratio of the individual's Maine adjusted gross income. The credit may not reduce the Maine income tax to less than zero. For tax years 2009 and 2010, the allowable earned income tax credit is in the amount of 4.0 percent of the federal earned income tax credit for those taxable years.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5219-S

Massachusetts: Massachusetts' provisions include a credit against the taxes imposed if the taxpayer qualified for and claimed the federal earned income credit. The amount of the credit is 15.0 percent of the federal credit received by the taxpayer for the taxable year. If the taxpayer claims and receives other state income tax credit, this credit must be applied last. If the amount of the credit exceeds the taxpayer's liability, the excess is treated as an overpayment, and the taxpayer will be refunded the excess, without interest.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 6(h)

Vermont: Vermont’s provisions include a credit equal to that provided for federal purposes. In the event that the taxpayer’s earnings come from periods of part-year residency, the credit is prorated. For tax years beginning on and after January 1, 2005, the credit is 32.0 percent of the individual’s federal earned income tax credit multiplied by the percentage of the individual’s earned income earned or received while a Vermont resident to the individual’s total earned income. If the credit exceeds the taxpayer’s income tax liability for the year, the excess of credits over payments due shall be paid to the taxpayer.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut allows a corporation subject to the corporation business tax to claim a credit for expenditures made as a human capital investment. According to the Connecticut statute, “(4) donations or capital contributions to institutions of higher education in this state for improvements or advancements of technology, including physical plant improvements” are expenditures that qualify as human capital investments. The tax credit is equal to 5.0 percent of the amount paid or incurred by the corporation for a human capital investment. A credit cannot exceed the amount of corporation business tax otherwise payable, although unused amounts can be carried forward for up to five succeeding income years.

Connecticut also has a credit for land donated without any financial consideration or sold at a discounted price to a municipality of the state for educational use. The credit is 50.0 percent of the difference between the fair market value and the amount received for the donated land. Unused credits may be carried forward for 15 years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-217x and 12-217ff

Maine: Maine’s provisions include a deduction for contributions to nonprofit educational institutions. Taxpayers who donate capital assets to education institutions may deduct the asset’s current value without being taxed on any appreciation in value. An individual’s total charitable contribution generally may not exceed 50.0 percent of adjusted gross income; a corporation’s total charitable contributions generally may not exceed 10.0 percent of taxable income.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5102(1-D)

Vermont: Vermont has a deduction for donations and gifts that are made to an approved organization, although the applicable deduction amount varies based on the property that is donated. For cash contributions, a deduction is allowed for up to 50.0 percent of the taxpayer’s AGI. For property contributions, a deduction can be taken up to 30.0 percent of AGI. Any excess charitable contributions may be carried forward for a total of five years.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811

13. Employment – Welfare Bonus Program:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-39.1-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1985 / 1986

Description: Any employer participating in the Bonus Program under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 40-6.3 is entitled to apply for the credit. The credit is awarded to employers that hire individuals who had previously received Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) for 30 consecutive months prior to the law’s enactment and employ such individuals for at least 24 consecutive months prior to application for the credit. The credit is equal to $250 per eligible employee and can be applied against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30*.

The credit cannot be applied until all other credits for which the taxpayer is eligible to use have been applied and it cannot reduce the tax due below $100 in a given tax year. The credit is not refundable and any unused credit amounts cannot be carried forward to succeeding tax years.

14. Enterprise Zone Wage:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64.3-6

Stated Purpose: “The general assembly finds and declares: (1) That there are certain distressed areas in this state which are characterized by substantial and persistent levels of unemployment; blighted areas; obsolete, dilapidated, and abandoned industrial and commercial structures; and, as a consequence, continually shrinking tax bases which threaten their very existence; (2) That the numerous programs undertaken by the Federal Government and the state during the past two (2) decades to stop the deterioration and stimulate economic activity in these urban areas have, in large part, failed; and (3) That it is the public policy of this state to undertake an experimental program to stimulate economic revitalization, promote employment opportunities, and encourage business development and expansion in distressed areas.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1982 / 2004

Description: A qualified business located in an enterprise zone is allowed a credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13 (except § 44-13-13), 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30*. A business becomes qualified for the credit if the business increases its employment from the prior year by at least 5.0 percent, pays more in total wages and salaries than in the previous year and is certified by the Enterprise Zone Council. The credit is equal to 50.0 percent of the Rhode Island salaries and wages paid to the newly hired workers up to $5,000 if the newly hired worker is a resident of an enterprise zone or $2,500 if the newly hired is not a resident of an enterprise zone.

The newly hired workers’ wages and salaries must be reduced by any state or federal assistance received by the business in connection with their employment. The credit is not refundable and credit amounts not used in the tax year that they are earned cannot be carried forward to succeeding tax years

Connecticut: The enterprise zone credit applies to any qualifying corporation which meets certain employment levels. The enterprise zone credit is equal to 100.0 percent of the tax liability of the corporation with respect to the first three taxable years of the corporation and 50.0 percent of the tax liability of the corporation with respect to the next seven taxable years of the corporation.

Connecticut allows a credit for manufacturing facilities that meet certain employment criteria that is located in an enterprise zone. The credit ranges from 25.0 percent to 50.0 percent of the tax that is allocable to the facility located in the enterprise zone. A service facility located outside an enterprise zone but within a targeted investment community may also receive a credit based on certain employment criteria. The credit ranges between 15.0 percent and 50.0 percent of the tax that is allocable to the service facility.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-217v, 12-217e(a) and 12-217e(b)

Maine: A taxpayer that is a qualified Pine Tree Development Zone business...is allowed a credit in the amount of: (A) 100 percent of the tax that would otherwise be due under Maine corporate and personal income tax law for each of the first 5 tax years beginning with the tax year in which the taxpayer commences its qualified business activity and (B) for a business located in an area which qualifies for Pine Tree Development Zone benefits for 10 years, 50 percent of the tax that would otherwise be due under Maine corporate and personal income tax law for each of the five tax years following the time period in (A).

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5219-W

Massachusetts: Massachusetts' provisions are predicated on the location of the eligible business in a poverty area. The tax incentive is an additional deduction in determining net income of 25.0 percent of the wages paid to individuals working in the facility with the deduction not to exceed $5,000 per individual.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 38E

New Hampshire: Effective July 1, 2007, an economic revitalization zone tax credit is allowed against either the business profits tax or the business enterprise tax to encourage the creation of new jobs in areas identified by the Commissioner of Resources and Economic Development as economic revitalization zones. The economic revitalization zone tax credit program replaces the CROP (Community Reinvestment and Opportunity Zone) credit program. The program is prospectively repealed effective July 1, 2015.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Massachusetts have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut allows a tax credit for the rehabilitation of certain owner-occupied historic homes. The credit is equal to the lesser of 30.0 percent of the projected qualified rehabilitation expenditures or 30.0 percent of the actual rehabilitation expenditures. The owner must incur at least $25,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenses, but the credit cannot exceed $30,000 per dwelling unit. The owner must occupy the home for at least 5 years following the completion of the rehabilitation work and unused credits may be carried forward for 4 years. The aggregate amount of all tax credits cannot exceed $3.0 million in any one fiscal year.

Connecticut also allows a tax credit to individuals, limited liability companies, and non-profit and for-profit corporations for rehabilitation of certified historic structures for mixed-use or affordable housing. The credit is equal to the lesser of 25.0 percent of the projected rehabilitation expenditures or 25.0 percent of the actual qualified rehabilitation expenditures, or 30.0 percent if the project creates qualified affordable housing units. The total credit amount is up to $50 million per three-year cycle, beginning with FY 2009 through FY 2011. The maximum tax credit allowed for any single project shall not exceed $5.0 million for any fiscal three-year period.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 10-416 and 10-416b

Maine: Effective June 30, 2008 and applicable for expenditures incurred after December 31, 2007, taxpayers are allowed an historic rehabilitation credit against the corporate income tax. A credit is allowed in an amount: equal to 25.0 percent of the taxpayer's certified qualified rehabilitation expenditures for which a tax credit is claimed under Section 47 of the Internal Revenue Code for a certified historic structure located in Maine, or equal to 25.0 percent of the certified qualified rehabilitation expenditures of a taxpayer who incurs not less than $50,000 and up to $250,000 in certified qualified rehabilitation expenditures in the rehabilitation of a certified historic structure located in Maine and who does not claim the federal credit with regard to those expenditures.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5219-BB

Massachusetts: Massachusetts grants an historic rehabilitation tax credit to taxpayers that make substantial rehabilitation of qualified historic structures. A structure is substantially rehabilitated if the qualified rehabilitation expenditures of the building during the 24-month period selected by the taxpayer ending with or within the taxable year exceed 25.0 percent of the taxpayer's adjusted basis in the building. The credit is equal to 20.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures on a qualified historic property.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 6J(a)

18. Historic Structures:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-33.2-3

Stated Purpose: “The purpose of this chapter is to create economic incentives for the purpose of stimulating the redevelopment and reuse of Rhode Island’s historic structures.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2008

Description: A credit equal to 30.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures (QREs) incurred to rehabilitate the historic structure is allowed against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 or 44-30 for the redevelopment and reuse of Rhode Island’s historic structures. The structure must have been certified as historic by the Rhode Island Historical Preservation and Heritage Commission and placed into service prior to January 1, 2008. The credit processing fee for these projects is 2.25 percent of the QREs. Projects that are in progress as of January 1, 2008 but not yet placed into service are eligible to receive a credit equal to either 27.0 percent of the QREs incurred with a credit processing fee of 5.0 percent of the QREs incurred or 26.0 percent of the QREs incurred with a credit processing fee of 4.0 percent of the QREs incurred or 25.0 percent of the QREs incurred with a credit processing fee of 3.0 of the same.

Historic structures tax credits are transferrable and unused amounts of the credit may be carried forward to a maximum of 10 succeeding tax years. Proceeds from the sale of historic structures tax credits are exempt from Rhode Island taxes.

Projection Methodology: The projection for CY 2014 and CY 2015 historic structures tax credits is based on estimates prepared by the Office of Revenue Analysis for the November 2013 Revenue Estimating Conference for FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for only those projects that qualify under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-33.2. The allocation of the total amount of historic tax credits to CY 2014 and CY 2015 was executed by taking the five year average percentage of the total historic tax credits issued between July and December and January and June and multiplying these percentages by the Office of Revenue Analysis estimates for FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for the included projects. For CY 2014, the five year average percentage of the total amount of historic tax credits for the January to June period was multiplied against the estimated FY 2014 total amount of historic structures tax credits redeemed for the included projects and the five year average percentage of the total amount of historic tax credits for the July to December was multiplied against the estimated FY 2015 total amount of historic structures tax credits redeemed for the included projects. A similar method was used for CY 2015 and fiscal years 2015 and 2016. The amount of historic structures tax credits allocated to each tax type is based on the particular tax type's five year average percentage of total historic structures tax credits redeemed. For personal income tax the percentage is 53.8 percent; for business corporations tax the percentage is 2.7 percent; for bank (financial institutions) tax the percentage is 6.1 percent; and for insurance companies gross premiums tax the percentage is 37.4 percent. No company has ever used an historic tax credit against the tax owed under the franchise tax or the public service corporation tax.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: A tax credit is available to individuals, limited liability companies, non-profit and for-profit corporations or other business entities for expenses associated with rehabilitating certain historic properties for residential use. The credit is equal to the lesser of 25.0 percent of the projected qualified rehabilitation expenditures or 25.0 percent of the actual rehabilitation expenditures, not exceeding $2.7 million. The annual limit for all taxpayers is $15 million. Unused credits may be carried forward for 5 years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 10-416a

Maine: After December 31, 2007, taxpayers are allowed historic rehabilitation credits for the certified qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred. A “substantial rehabilitation credit” is allowed against the income tax in an amount equal to 25.0 percent of the taxpayer’s certified qualified rehabilitation expenditures for which a tax credit is claimed under the Internal Revenue Code Section 47 for a certified historic structure located in Maine. The credit allowed is increased to 30.0 percent of certified qualified rehabilitation expenditures for a certified affordable housing project.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5219-BB

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ provisions include a 20.0 percent credit of qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred in the rehabilitation of a certified historic structure. The credit is not refundable. The Commissioner of the Department of Revenue in consultation with the Massachusetts Historical Commission will authorize annually for the 12 years beginning January 1, 2006 and ending December 31, 2017 an aggregate amount of available historic structures credits not to exceed $50 million per year.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 6J

Vermont: Under the Vermont Downtown and Village Center Tax Credit program, a qualified applicant of a qualified historic rehabilitation project may claim against his or her individual income tax liability a credit of 10.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures as defined under Section 47(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and properly chargeable to the federally certified rehabilitation. To qualify for this tax credit, expenditures for the qualified project must exceed $5,000.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5930cc(a)

18. Historic Preservation:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-33.6-3

Stated Purpose: “The purpose of this chapter is to create economic incentives for the purpose of stimulating the redevelopment and reuse of Rhode Island’s historic structures, as well as to generate the positive economic and employment activities that will result from such redevelopment and reuse.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2013 / N/A

Description: A taxpayer that incurs qualified rehabilitation expenditures for the substantial rehabilitation of a certified historic structure, provided the taxpayer is not a social club, is entitled to a credit against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 or 44-30. The credit is equal to 20.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures for any certified historic structure or 25.0 percent of the qualified rehabilitation expenditures, provided that either (i) at least 25.0 percent of the total rentable area of the certified historic structure is available for a trade or business or (ii) the entire rentable area located on the first floor of the certified historic structure is available for a trade or business.

Tax credits are allowed for the tax year in which the structure or an identifiable portion of the structure is placed into service. The maximum credit cannot exceed $5.0 million for all phases of any certified rehabilitation project and the total credits authorized cannot exceed the sum of the estimated credits available in the historic preservation tax credit trust fund.

* Figures are included in the amounts for Historic Structures in 17. above

Projection Methodology: The projection for CY 2014 and CY 2015 historic preservation tax credits is based on estimates prepared by the Office of Revenue Analysis for the November 2013 Revenue Estimating Conference for FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for only those projects that qualify under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-33.6. The allocation of the total amount of historic preservation tax credits to CY 2014 and CY 2015 was executed by taking the five year average percentage of the total historic structures tax credits issued between July and December and January and June and multiplying these percentages by the Office of Revenue Analysis estimates for FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for the new projects. For CY 2014, the five year average percentage of the total amount of historic tax credits for the January to June period was multiplied against the estimated FY 2014 total amount of historic preservation tax credits redeemed for the included projects and the five year average percentage of the total amount of historic structures tax credits for the July to December was multiplied against the estimated FY 2015 total amount of historic preservation tax credits redeemed for the included projects. A similar method was used for CY 2015 and fiscal years 2015 and 2016. The amount of historic preservation tax credits allocated to each tax type is based on the particular tax type’s five year average percentage of total historic structures tax credits redeemed. For personal income tax the percentage is 53.8 percent; for business corporations tax the percentage is 2.7 percent; for bank (financial institutions) tax the percentage is 6.1 percent; and for insurance companies gross premiums tax the percentage is 37.4 percent. No company has ever used an historic preservation tax credit against the tax owed under the franchise tax or the public service corporation tax.

Stated Purpose: “It is the policy of this state to support and foster the development of hydropower generating facilities by the establishment of tax incentives for those owners of existing dams who install hydroelectric power generation equipment.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1980 / N/A

Description: A hydroelectric power developer will be allowed a non-refundable state income tax credit in the amount of 10.0 percent of the installation costs of a small hydroelectric power production facility at an existing dam site in Rhode Island. The credit can be used against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11 or 44-30*. This credit is limited to $500,000 in costs to develop a small hydroelectric power production facility for a maximum credit of $50,000.

If the allowable amount of the credit exceeds the tax liability of the developer in the taxable year the credit is earned, unused portions of the credit may be carried forward to no more than five succeeding tax years.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-63-2 and 44-63-3

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2006 / 2011

Description: A tax credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12 or 44-30* equal to 50.0 percent of the amount invested in an eligible qualified innovative company is allowed, but in no case shall the amount of the tax credit exceed $100,000. A tax credit certificate may be issued in the name of the eligible company, an executive employee or employees of the company, an investor in the company or any combination thereof.

Only companies with business primarily in those industries or trades identified by the Rhode Island Economic Development Corporation (RIEDC) upon advisory resolution of the Rhode Island Science and Technology Advisory Council as “Innovation Industries” producing traded goods and services can be deemed eligible for the investment. RIEDC can approve no more than $1,000,000 in credits in any two year period.

If the allowable amount of the credit exceeds the tax liability of the investor in the taxable year the credit is earned, unused portions of the credit may be carried forward to no more than three succeeding tax years. No tax credit can be approved by RIEDC after December 31, 2016.

23. Investment:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1974 / 2002

Description: A credit is allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30* for the cost of realty and tangible personalty in Rhode Island, which are principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by manufacturing, processing or assembling. General manufacturers are provided with a credit of 4.0 percent of the cost or qualified amounts for leased assets of tangible personal property and buildings and structural components of buildings provided that the assets have a useful life of at least four years. A credit equal to 10.0 percent of the cost or qualified amounts for leased assets of tangible personal property, excluding motor vehicles and furniture, provided that the assets have a useful life of at least four years, is granted to manufacturers that are classified in major groups 20 through 39, 50 and 51, 60 through 67, 73, 76, 80 through 82, 87, and 89 in the Standard Industrial Classification manual (SIC Codes). A 10.0 percent credit of the cost or qualified amounts for leased assets of buildings and structural components is also provided to “high performance manufacturers” which are defined as businesses described in major groups 28, 30, 34 to 36 and 38 of the SIC Codes. For leased buildings and structural components, the lease must have a term of at least 20 years. High performance manufacturers must also meet certain wage requirements to qualify. The above noted credit percentages also apply to computers, software, and telecommunications hardware even if these assets have useful lives of less than four years.

The 4.0 percent credit can reduce the tax due to the amount of the corporate minimum tax, currently $500. The 10.0 percent credit can only reduce a tax liability by 50.0 percent unless it has been applied by a high performance manufacturer to the acquisition of buildings by purchase or by a lease of 20 years or more in which case the tax liability can be reduced to the amount of the corporate minimum tax. All of the credits are non-refundable and unused amounts of the credits not used in the taxable year earned can be carried forward to not more than seven succeeding tax years.

Law Comparison: All of the New England states have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut allows a credit against corporation business tax equal to 5.0 percent of the amount paid or incurred by a corporation for any new fixed capital investments. Any credit not used during the income year in which the acquisition was made may be carried forward to the next five succeeding income years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217w

Maine: Maine has three credits which are similar. Maine's jobs and investment tax credit is applicable to taxpayers whose property is considered to be qualified investment of at least $5.0 million for the taxable year with a situs in Maine. The taxpayer's records must substantiate that at least 100 new jobs were created in the 24 month period following the date the property was placed in service. The amount of the credit is equal to a former federal credit and is limited to $500,000 or the amount of tax, whichever is less. Maine's seed capital investment credit is eligible to an investment in a business that: a) is located in Maine; b) has gross sales of $3.0 million or less per year; c) is the full-time, professional activity of at least one of the principal owners; and d) is a manufacturer, or a product or service provider with 60.0 percent of sales derived from outside the state or to out-of-state residents, or is engaged in developing or applying advanced technologies, or must bring significant permanent capital to Maine. FAME issues a certificate for up to 40.0 percent of the cash equity they provide to eligible Maine businesses. 25.0 percent of the authorized credit may be used for each tax year. Finally Maine has a high-technology investment tax credit. High-technology activity includes the design, creation, and production of computer software, computer equipment, supporting communications components and other accessories that are directly associated with computer software and equipment. Taxpayers engaged in high-technology activity that purchase and use eligible equipment or that lease eligible equipment from a lessor are generally eligible for a credit equal to the investment credit base for equipment that was placed into service in Maine during the tax year.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5215, 5216(B) and 5219(M)

Massachusetts: Massachusetts provisions include only manufacturers; corporations engaged primarily in research and development; or in agriculture or commercial fishing. The credit is 3.0 percent of the cost or other basis of the property including buildings and leased tangible personalty and has a three year carry forward of unused credit.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 31A

New Hampshire: An investment tax credit equal to 75.0 percent of the contribution made to the Community Development Finance Authority during the contributor's tax year is allowed against the business profits tax, the insurance taxes or the business enterprise tax individually or in combination. The credit or any unused portion of the credit may be carried forward for five succeeding years but may not exceed $1.0 million in any given tax year. Contributors may only take the credit after the contributions are actually received by the authority.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 162-L:10

Vermont: A person, upon obtaining the approval of the Vermont economic progress council may receive a credit against its income taxes imposed by this chapter in an amount equal to five to ten percent of its total investments within the state of Vermont in plants or facilities and machinery and equipment in the applicable tax year, but only if those investments exceed $150,000. For investments made on or after January 1, 2012, Vermont also entitles taxpayers to a credit against the tax imposed of 24.0 percent of the credits allowed against the federal income tax for the taxable year. Such credits include: elderly and permanently totally disabled credit, investment tax credit attributable to the Vermont-property portion of the investment, and child care and dependent care credits.

24. Jobs Training:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64.6-4

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1996 / 1997

Description: A qualified employer is allowed a credit against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30* of 50.0 percent of the qualifying expenses to provide training and/or retraining to qualifying employees. A qualified employer must be so sanctioned by the Rhode Island Human Resources Investment Council. A qualifying employee is certain individuals employed by the employer in Rhode Island for at least 30 hours per week and earns or will earn immediately upon completion of the training and/or retraining program 150.0 percent of the state minimum wage.

Fifty percent of the credit amount can be used in the taxable year in which the expense is incurred with the balance to be used in the succeeding tax year. The maximum credit per employee is no more than $5,000 in any three-year period.

*As of January 1, 2011, this credit is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

26. Lead Paint Abatement:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30.3-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2004 / N/A

Description: A property owner or lessee who resides in Rhode Island is entitled to tax relief for residential lead removal or lead hazard reduction when he or she obtains a Housing Resources Commission regulated certification, obtains a Department of Health regulated lead safe certification and fulfills all requirements, including certain income requirements as provided by this law. The tax relief can be used against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

The tax relief shall be equal to the amount actually paid for the required lead abatement or lead hazard mitigation up to a maximum of $1,500 per dwelling unit for mitigation and up to $5,000 per dwelling unit for abatement. The credit can be earned on a maximum of three dwelling units per claimant. The tax credit is refundable for the amounts of the credit claimed in excess of the taxpayer's liability.

The maximum amount of credits that can be claimed in a given fiscal year is $250,000. Claimants with household incomes of $35,200 or less shall receive priority in receiving tax credit certificates.

27. Mortgage Interest (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(K)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: As of January 1, 2011, this credit is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2001 (but before January 1, 2011), a taxpayer entitled to the federal mortgage interest credit is entitled to a credit against the Rhode Island personal income tax. The federal credit is for the interest paid or accrued by a taxpayer on the remaining principal of the certified amount of indebtedness. If the credit rate exceeds 20.0 percent for any taxable year the credit amount cannot exceed $2,000. In general, a taxpayer can take a credit equal to 25.0 percent of the amount of credit claimed on their federal personal income tax against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Maine: Owner-occupants of homes may deduct mortgage interest on their primary and secondary residences as itemized non-business deductions. The mortgage interest deduction is limited to interest on debt no greater than the owner’s basis in the residence and is limited to no more than $1.0 million. Maine generally conforms to federal income exclusion and deduction provisions used to calculate federal adjusted gross income.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5102(1-D)

Vermont: Vermont’s provisions deduct all interest from a secured debt mortgage presuming the following criteria are met: the taxpayer applying for the deduction is legally liable for the loan and the payment was made on a “qualified residence.”

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811

28. Motion Picture Production:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.2-5

Stated Purpose: “The primary objective of this chapter is to encourage development in Rhode Island of a strong capital base for motion picture film, videotape, and television program productions, in order to achieve a more independent, self-supporting industry. This objective is divided into immediate and long-term objectives as follows:

1. Immediate objectives are to:
 - i. Attract private investment for the production of motion pictures, videotape productions, and television programs, which contain substantial Rhode Island content as defined herein.
 - ii. Develop a tax infrastructure, which encourages private investment. This infrastructure will provide for state participation in the form of tax credits to encourage investment in state- certified productions.
 - iii. Develop a tax infrastructure utilizing tax credits, which encourage investments in multiple state-certified production projects.
2. Long-term objectives are to:
 - i. Encourage increased employment opportunities within this sector and increased competition with other states in fully developing economic development options within the film and video industry.
 - ii. Encourage new education curricula in order to provide a labor force trained in all aspects of film production.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2005 / 2012

Description: A 25.0 percent tax credit based on the amount of state-certified production costs directly attributable to activities within the state may be awarded to a motion picture production company; provided that the primary locations are within the state. The credit can be used against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30. To qualify, the minimum total production budget must be at least $100,000 and the maximum credit allowed is $5.0 million per production. The credit can be transferred or sold to another Rhode Island taxpayer and unused amounts of the credit can be carried forward for not more than three succeeding tax years.

No more than $15.0 million in total credits may be issued for any tax year for motion picture production tax credits and/or musical and theatrical production tax credits. No specific amount shall be set aside for either type of production. No credits will be issued on or after July 1, 2019.

Projection Methodology: The projection for CY 2013, CY 2014 and CY 2015 motion picture production tax credits is based on estimates prepared by the Office of Revenue Analysis for the November 2013 Revenue Estimating Conference for FY 2013, FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for motion picture production projects that qualify under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-31.2. The allocation of the total amount of motion picture production tax credits to CY 2013, CY 2014 and CY 2015 was executed using the percentages derived for the allocation of historic structures tax credits and the Office of Revenue Analysis applying these percentages to the estimates for FY 2013, FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for the included motion picture productions. For CY 2013, the five year average percentage for the January to June period was multiplied against the estimated FY 2013 total amount of motion picture production tax credits and the five year average percentage for the July to December period was multiplied against the estimated FY 2014 total amount of motion picture production tax credits. A similar method was used for CY 2014 and CY 2015 and fiscal years 2014, 2015 and 2016. The amount of motion picture production tax credits allocated to each tax type is based on the particular tax type's three year average percentage of total motion picture production tax credits redeemed. For personal income tax the percentage is 40.5 percent; for business corporations tax the percentage is 13.7 percent; for bank (financial institutions) tax the percentage is less than 1.0 percent; and for insurance companies gross premiums tax the percentage is 46.0 percent. No company has ever used a motion picture production tax credit against the tax owed under the franchise tax or the public service corporation tax.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut has imposed a two-year moratorium on the motion picture tax credit for fiscal years 2014 and 2015. However, under the prior provision for income years commencing on or after January 1, 2010, production companies incurring production expenses or costs between $100,000 and $500,000 may be eligible for a credit equal to 10.0 percent of production expenses or costs, between $500,000 and $1.0 million may be eligible for a credit equal to 15.0 percent of production expenses or costs, and more than $1.0 million may be eligible for a credit equal to 30.0 percent of production expenses or costs. To qualify for the credit, production companies must conduct at least 50.0 percent of the principal photography days within the state, or expend at least 50.0 percent of post-production costs within the state, or expend at least $1.0 million of post-production costs within the state. No expenses or costs incurred outside the state and used within the state shall be eligible for the credit. An entity may not transfer more than 50.0 percent of a credit allowed for the income year commencing between January 1, 2011 and December 31, 2011 in any one income year, and thereafter, an entity may not transfer more than 25.0 percent of a in any one income year. No credit may be sold, assigned or otherwise transferred, in whole or in part, more than three times.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217jj

Maine: Effective March 29, 2006, a visual media production company is allowed a nonrefundable income tax credit in an amount equal to 5.0 percent of the visual media production expenses if such expenses are $75,000 or greater. A visual media production company certified by the Department of Economic and Community Development is allowed a reimbursement equal to 12.0 percent of certified production wages paid to employees who are residents of Maine and 10.0 percent of certified production wages paid to other employees.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5219-Y and 6902(1)

Massachusetts: Effective for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2007, and before January 1, 2023, a taxpayer whose production expenses exceed 50.0 percent of the total production expenses for a motion picture or who shoot at least 50.0 percent of the total principal photography days of the film in Massachusetts is entitled to an additional credit equal to 25.0 percent of all Massachusetts production expenses, excluding the payroll expenses used to claim the total aggregate payroll credit. The entire salary paid to a high salary employee that is equal to or greater than $1 million may be used to calculate the production expense credit including the portion of the salary that is less than $1 million provided that such salary is excluded from the payroll credit, for which it does not qualify. They are also allowed a credit equal to 25.0 percent of the total aggregate payroll paid by a motion picture production company that constitutes Massachusetts source income. These tax credits are refundable at 90.0 percent and may be carried forward to any of the five subsequent taxable years.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 6(1)

Vermont: Nonresidents can take a credit on income they receive for a dramatic performance in a commercial film production during that tax year. This credit is in the amount by which the Vermont tax on this income, exclusive of the credit, exceeds the highest personal income tax rate in the taxpayers' home state, multiplied by the Vermont commercial film production income. This credit is repealed for tax years beginning after January 1, 2013.

29. Motor Carrier Fuel Use Taxes Paid to Rhode Island:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 31-36.1-15

Stated Purpose: “The purpose of this chapter is to assure the payment of tax on fuel consumed by motor carriers in propelling qualified motor vehicles on the public highways in Rhode Island.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1981 / 2006

Description: All motor carriers are entitled to a credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 31-36 on all motor fuel purchased within the state but used outside of the state for its operations, provided that the tax imposed by the laws of the State of Rhode Island has been paid by the motor carrier on said fuel. The credit is equal to the tax rate per gallon of motor fuel in effect when the fuel was purchased.

The tax credit is refundable to the extent that the credit exceeds the amount of the motor fuel tax for which the motor carrier is liable.

30. Musical and Theatrical Production:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.3-2

Stated Purpose: “The purpose of this chapter is to create economic incentives for the purpose of stimulating the local economy and reducing unemployment in Rhode Island.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012 / N/A

Description: This credit is equal to 25.0 percent of the “production and performance expenditures” and “transportation expenditures” directly attributable to activities in the state for a live stage production in a “qualified production facility.” The credit is allowed against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12, 44-13, 44-14, 44-17 and 44-30. To qualify, the minimum production budget must be $100,000 and the maximum credit allowed is $5.0 million per production.

“Production and performance expenditures” include expenditures incurred in the state including, but not limited to, expenditures for design, construction and operation, including sets, special and visual effects, costumes, wardrobes, make-up, accessories, costs associated with sound, lighting, staging, payroll, transportation expenditures, advertising and public relations expenditures, facility expenses, rentals, per diems, accommodations and other related costs. “Transportation expenditures” include expenditures for the packaging, crating, and transportation both to the state for use in a qualified theater production of sets, costumes, or other tangible property constructed or manufactured out of state, and/or from the state after use in a qualified theater production of sets, costumes, or other tangible property constructed or manufactured in this state and the transportation of the cast and crew to and from the state. “Qualified production facility” means a facility located in the state in which live theatrical productions are, or are intended to be, exclusively presented that contains at least one stage, a seating capacity of 1,500 or more seats, and dressing rooms, storage areas, and other ancillary amenities necessary for the accredited theater production.

No more than $15.0 million may be issued for any tax year for the total combined motion picture tax credits and musical and theatrical production tax credits. No credits will be issued on or after July 1, 2019.

Projection Methodology: Business Corporations, Franchise, Public Service Corporation, Bank, Insurance Companies and Personal Income Taxes: The projection for CY 2014 and CY 2015 musical and theatrical production tax credits is based on estimates prepared by the Office of Revenue Analysis for the November 2013 Revenue Estimating Conference for FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for motion picture production projects, including musical and theatrical productions, that qualify under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-31.3. The allocation of the total amount of musical and theatrical production tax credits to CY 2014 and CY 2015 was executed by using the percentages derived for the allocation of historic structures tax credits and the Office of Revenue Analysis applying these percentages to the estimates for FY 2014, FY 2015 and FY 2016 for the included musical and theatrical productions. A similar method was used for CY 2015 and fiscal years 2015 and 2016. To date, only one musical and theatrical production tax credit has been issued. The Office of Revenue Analysis assumed that all of this credit would be redeemed against the personal income tax based on the three year average percentage of total motion picture production tax credits redeemed.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-33-5

Stated Purpose: “The purpose of this chapter is to provide relief, through a system of tax credits and refunds and appropriations from the general fund, to elderly and/or disabled persons who own or rent their homes.”

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1977 / 2006

Description: Rhode Island full-year residents with total annual household income of $30,000 or less are entitled to a credit against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30 equal to the amount by which the property taxes accrued or rent constituting property taxes accrued upon the claimant’s homestead for the taxable year exceeds a certain percentage of the claimant’s total household income for that taxable year, which percentage is based upon income level and household size. The credit is computed based on the following table:

Income Range	1 Person	2 or More Persons
Less than $6,000	3.0 %	3.0 %
$6,001 to $9,000	4.0 %	4.0 %

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Real or tangible personal located outside of Connecticut that is subject to generation-skipping transfer taxes by any state or states other than Connecticut for which such federal credit is allowable, the amount of tax due shall be reduced by the lesser of (1) the amount of any such taxes paid to such other state or states and allowed as a credit against the federal generation-skipping transfer tax or (2) an amount computed by multiplying such federal credit by a fraction.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-390b

Maine: Tax not directly connected with a trade or business or with property held for production of rents or royalties may be deducted only as an itemized deduction on Form 1040, Schedule A. These include the following (1) state, local or foreign real property tax; (2) state or local personal property tax; (3) state, local or foreign income, war profits, or excess profit tax; and (4) generation-skipping transfer tax imposed on income distributions.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5102(1-D)

Vermont: State and local property taxes paid by a taxpayer are deductible, but only if the taxes were based on value alone and imposed on a yearly basis. Additionally, there are other miscellaneous taxes that are deductible, such as generation-skipping transfer tax imposed on income distributions.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811

37. Research and Development Expense:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-32-3

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1994 / 1999

Description: A taxpayer is allowed a credit against the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-17 and 44-30* for the excess, if any, of the qualified research expenses for the taxable year over the base period research expenses, where qualified and base period research expenses are as defined in 26 U.S.C. § 41. The amount of credit is equal to 22.5 percent of expenses for the first $25,000 worth of credit taken and 16.9 percent of expenses for any amount of applicable credit above $25,000.

The credit allowed cannot reduce the tax due for any taxable year by more than 50.0 percent of the tax liability that would be payable and for corporations to no less than the minimum tax as set in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-2(e). Unused amounts of the credit earned in a taxable year may be carried forward to not more than seven succeeding tax years.

*As of January 1, 2011, this credit is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Law Comparison: All of the New England states have similar provisions.

Connecticut: A corporation may receive a credit against its corporation business tax equal to 20.0 percent of the amount by which research and experimental expenditures, as defined in Section 174 of the Internal Revenue Code, in the current income year exceed expenditures in the preceding year on expenditures. Unused credits may be carried forward for 15 years.

Connecticut also allows a credit against corporation business taxes for research and development expenditures incurred in the state. The credit increases from 1.0 percent of expenditures up to $50 million to 6.0 percent of expenditures over $200 million. Unused credits may be carried forward until fully taken.

Companies with less than $70 million in gross sales that cannot take either research and development credit because they do not have a tax liability, are permitted to sell unused credits back to the state at 65.0 percent of their value. The maximum annual refund is $1.5 million per company.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-217j, 12-217n and 12-217ee

Maine: Maine’s provisions include a credit of 5.0 percent of the excess, if any, of the qualified research expenses for the tax year over the base amount, the average spent on research expenses over the last 3 years, and 7.5 percent of the basic research payments. The credit is limited to 100.0 percent of the corporation’s first $25,000 of tax and 75.0 percent of the tax in excess of $25,000 and has a 15 year carryover. A taxpayer that qualifies for the research expense tax credit is also allowed an additional credit against the tax due under this Part equal to the excess, if any, of qualified research expenses for the taxable year over the super credit base amount. A “super credit base amount” means the average amount spent on qualified research expenses by the taxpayer in the 3 taxable years immediately preceding the effective date of this section, increased by 50%.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5219-K and 5219-L

Massachusetts: A credit is allowed for domestic or foreign corporations against its excise tax equal to the sum of 10.0 percent of the excess, if any, of the qualified research expenses for the taxable year over the basic amount; and 15.0 percent of the basic research payments determined under Section 41(e)(1)(A) of the Federal Revenue Code. Effective January 1, 2009, the distinction between domestic and business corporations is eliminated and both are designated as business corporations.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 38M

New Hampshire: The maximum credit allowed for all taxpayers is $1.0 million per fiscal year. The credit is based upon 10.0 percent of the excess of the qualified R&D expenses for the taxable year over the base amount. Each taxpayer’s share of the credit shall not exceed $50,000 per fiscal year.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:5(XIII)

Vermont: Vermont’s provisions allow for a 10.0 percent qualified research and development expense credit upon obtaining approval of the Progress Council. Any taxpayer beginning January 1, 2011 is also eligible for a credit equal to 30.0 percent of the amount of the Federal tax credit allowed in the taxable year for eligible research and development expenditures under Section 41(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and which are made within the state.

40. Residential Renewable Energy System:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-57-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2000 / 2009

Description: An eligible person who pays all or part of the cost of an eligible renewable energy system is allowed a credit of 25.0 percent of the cost of the system against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11 and 44-30*. Eligible renewable energy systems consist of a photovoltaic system, a solar domestic hot water system, an active solar space heating system, a geothermal system or a wind-generating system that is installed in a dwelling.

The computation of the credit is subject to a maximum renewable energy system cost of $15,000 for a photovoltaic system, $7,000 for a solar domestic hot water system, $15,000 for an active solar heating system, $7,000 for a geothermal system and $15,000 for a wind-energy system. Renewable energy systems with cost in excess of these maximums will receive a credit of 25.0 percent of the maximum allowable system cost.

The tax credit cannot lower the claimant's tax liability to below the minimum tax as required by Rhode Island law and unused amounts of the credit cannot be carried forward to succeeding tax years.

DEDUCTIONS

1. Accelerated Amortization for Certain Manufacturers:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11.3

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1994 / N/A

Description: Any taxpayer engaged in manufacturing activities in Rhode Island that has on the average over the five previous years annually produced goods at facilities located in Rhode Island which generate net sales of at least $10.0 million and where on the average at least 80.0 percent of that production has been for eventual sale to a branch of the United States armed services may if it represents that it anticipates the need to reduce its reliance on such sales, elect to amortize the unrecovered basis of all or a portion of its depreciable assets over a 60 month period in equal monthly installments.

Law Comparison: Maine and Massachusetts have similar provisions.

Maine: Maine's provisions allow a taxpayer to amortize new business startup expenses such as the cost of legal services, which are normally incurred during initiation. These outlays can be amortized over 180 months even though they are similar to other payments made for non-depreciable intangible assets that are not recoverable until the business is sold. If a taxpayer does not make this election, the expenses must be capitalized.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5102(1-D)

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ taxpayers may elect to treat certain capital costs of starting a business as deferred expenses and amortize them over five years. Without the election, only costs for particular assets could be recovered through depreciation deductions. The election to amortize these costs allows for a deferral of tax or an interest-free loan.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 2

2. Alimony Paid (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for alimony paid “under divorce or separate maintenance decrees or written separation agreements” between the taxpayer and the taxpayer’s spouse or former spouse.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income Bulletin, Internal Revenue Service. The federal deduction data is scaled for Rhode Island by using the ratio of total Rhode Island adjusted gross income to total United States adjusted gross income for each tax year. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the calculated Rhode Island value of the deduction by an effective tax rate of 2.996 percent for TY 2010 and 2.961 percent for TY 2011. Federal number of taxpayers’ data is scaled for Rhode Island by using the ratio of total Rhode Island tax filers to total United States tax filers for each tax year.

2010 Personal Income Tax	$1,129,783	2,376
2011 Personal Income Tax	$1,203,498	2,394

2015 Personal Income Tax	$1,203,498	2,394

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut’s income base provisions begin with federal adjusted gross income and, therefore, allow this item since it is part of the determination of the taxpayer’s federal gross income.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(19)

Maine: Maine’s personal income tax base is the federal adjusted gross income as defined by federal law, which by application allows a deduction for alimony paid.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5121

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ provisions include a deduction from total 5.3 percent income for amounts paid to former spouses for alimony or separate maintenance under court order.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 2

Vermont: The starting point for determining every individual’s taxable income subject to Vermont income tax is federal taxable income. Since Vermont uses an individual’s federal taxable income as the starting point for calculating Vermont income tax liability, the federal treatment of alimony or separate maintenance payments is adopted.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811(21)(B)

3. Amortization of Air or Water Pollution Control Facilities:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-7

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1974 / 2010

Description: A taxpayer, at his or her election, is allowed to take as a deduction the amortization of the adjusted basis for determining gain of any “treatment facility” over a period of 60 months. The deduction is allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The amortization deduction requires that the federal depreciation or amortization, if any, must be added back before the Rhode Island calculation is made. A treatment facility means “any land, facility, device, building, machinery, or equipment, the construction, reconstruction, erection, installation, or acquisition of which” meets federal and state standards for the control of air or water pollution, has been made primarily to control the pollution of water or air, and is certified as approved by the Director of the Rhode Island Department of Health.

As of January 1, 2011, this deduction is no longer allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Data Source: No reliable data exists for this tax expenditure item. Beginning in tax year 2011, this deduction is no longer available.

Law Comparison: Only Massachusetts has a similar provision.

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ taxpayers may elect to amortize the cost of a certified pollution control facility over a five-year period, allowing for accelerated recovery of these costs. The excess of accelerated recovery over depreciation deductions otherwise allowable results in a deferral of tax or an interest-free loan.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 2

4. Amortization of Air or Water Pollution Prevention and Treatment Facilities:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11.1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1966 / 2000

Description: A taxpayer, at his or her election, is allowed to take as a deduction the amortization of the adjusted basis for determining gain of any “treatment facility” over a period of 60 months. The deduction is allowed against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. The amortization deduction requires that the federal depreciation or amortization, if any, must be added back before the Rhode Island calculation is made.

A treatment facility means “any land, facility, device, building, machinery, or equipment, the construction, reconstruction, erection, installation, or acquisition of which” meets federal and state standards for the control of air or water pollution, has been made primarily to control the pollution of water or air and applies only to water and air pollution control facilities that are installed for the treatment of waste waters and air contaminants resulting from industrial processes.

A prevention facility means “any land, facility, device, building, machinery, or equipment the construction, reconstruction, erection, installation, or acquisition of which” meets federal and state standards for the prevention of air or water pollution or contamination, has been made primarily to prevent the pollution or contamination of water or air, and applies only to water and air pollution prevention facilities that are installed for the prevention of waste waters, air contaminants, and hazardous solid wastes resulting from industrial processes.

The treatment or prevention facility must be certified by the Director of the Department of Environmental Management.

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ provisions include a deduction for 100.0 percent of the costs associated with an approved air or industrial treatment facility during the taxable year of the construction, reconstruction, erection or improvement of the facility.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 38D(a)

5. Certain Business Expenses of Reservists, etc. (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for certain business expenses of Armed Forces reservists, qualified performing artists, and fee-basis government officials. These expenses are ordinary and necessary unreimbursed expenses attributable to an individual’s job including vehicle expenses, expenses related to travel that is not overnight (parking fees, tolls, transportation by train, bus, etc.) excluding meals and entertainment, expenses related to overnight travel (lodging, airfare, etc.) excluding meals and entertainment, other business expenses, and meals and entertainment.

7. Domestic Production Activities (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-55-8

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2013

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for qualified domestic production activities. Qualified domestic production activities include manufacturing based in the U.S., selling, leasing or licensing items that have been manufactured in the U.S., selling, leasing, or licensing movies that have been produced in the U.S., construction services in the U.S., architectural and engineering services related to a U.S. based project, and software development, including video games, in the U.S.

Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2014 any deduction made by a taxpayer for qualified domestic production activities under Section 199 of the Internal Revenue Code shall be added back to the taxpayer’s taxable income effectively eliminating this deduction under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income, Table 2: Individual Income and Tax Data, by State and Size of Adjusted Gross Income, Internal Revenue Service. TY 2010 and TY 2011 data is for Rhode Island resident returns only. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the total reported amount of the deduction by the aggregate Rhode Island resident effective personal income tax rate. For TY 2010 this rate is 2.765 percent. For TY 2011 this rate is 2.838 percent. The number of taxpayers is the total number reported in the IRS' SOI report for the given tax year.

8. Educator Expenses (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income allows a qualified educator to deduct unreimbursed expenses incurred for books, supplies, computer equipment, other equipment, and supplementary materials used in a classroom or related to athletics. The maximum allowable deduction is $250.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income, Table 2: Individual Income and Tax Data, by State and Size of Adjusted Gross Income, Internal Revenue Service. TY 2010 and TY 2011 data is for Rhode Island resident returns only. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the reported amount of the deduction by the Rhode Island resident effective personal income tax rate for each reported federal AGI category and then summing the revenue forgone amounts across all federal AGI categories. For TY 2010, these Rhode Island resident effective tax rates range from -0.030 percent for the federal AGI category of $1.00 but under $25,000 to 5.217 percent for the federal AGI category of $1,000,000 or more. For TY 2011, the comparable numbers are 0.026m percent for the federal AGI category of $1.00 but under $25,000 and 5.010 percent for the federal AGI category of $1,000,000 or more. 10. Health Savings Account (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income allows for the deduction of contributions to a qualified health savings account (HSA). For contributions to an HSA to be deductible, the taxpayer must be enrolled in a high-deductible health insurance plan and not be covered by another type of health insurance. The high deductible health insurance plan must satisfy certain criteria. In tax year 2010, the maximum deductible HSA contribution was $3,050 for individual coverage and $6,150 for family coverage. For tax year 2011, there were no changes in the maximum deductible HSA contribution limits for individual or family coverage.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income Bulletin, Internal Revenue Service. The federal deduction data is scaled for Rhode Island by using the ratio of total Rhode Island adjusted gross income to total United States adjusted gross income for each tax year. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the calculated Rhode Island value of the deduction by an effective tax rate of 2.996 percent for TY 2010 and 2.961 percent for TY 2011. 11. Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) Contributions (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for contributions to traditional individual retirement arrangements. For tax year 2010, the contributions are subject to a maximum amount of $5,000 if the taxpayer is less than 50 years old or $6,000 if the taxpayer is 50 years old or more. In addition, in tax year 2010, such contributions are not deductible if the taxpayer is covered by a retirement plan at work and his or her modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) is more than $109,000 for a married couple filing a joint return and $66,000 for a single individual. For tax year 2011, the same maximum deductible contribution amounts apply as in tax year 2010. In tax year 2011, IRA contributions are not deductible if the taxpayer is covered by a retirement plan at work and his or her MAGI is more than $110,000 for a married couple filing a joint return and $66,000 for a single individual.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income, Table 2: Individual Income and Tax Data, by State and Size of Adjusted Gross Income, Internal Revenue Service. TY 2010 and TY 2011 data is for Rhode Island resident returns only. Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut's income base provisions begin with Federal adjusted gross income and, therefore, allow this item as part of the determination of the taxpayer's federal gross income.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(19)

Maine: Maine's personal income tax base is the federal adjusted gross income as defined by federal law, which by application allows a deduction for contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5121

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ provisions include a deduction from total 5.3 percent income for contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement as stated on the taxpayer’s federal income tax return.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 5(b)

Vermont: The starting point for determining every individual’s taxable income subject to Vermont income tax is federal taxable income. Since Vermont uses an individual’s federal taxable income as the starting point for calculating Vermont income tax liability, the federal treatment of contributions to Individual Retirement Arrangements is adopted.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811(21)(B)

12. Itemized Deductions from Federal Return:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(C)(1)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island allows as a deduction from modified adjusted gross income the amount of federal itemized deductions claimed on the taxpayer’s federal income tax return as modified by the modifications in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12.

As of January 1, 2011, this deduction is no longer allowed against the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Data Source: Residents: TY 2010 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: TY 2010 Data Warehouse, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Effective for tax year 2011 and thereafter, itemized deductions are no longer allowed to be taken when determining personal income tax liability.

2010 Personal Income Tax	$196,776,766	244,493

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut does not allow any standard or itemized deductions from Connecticut adjusted gross income in determining the taxpayer’s Connecticut tax liability. Connecticut allows only exemption amounts to be deducted from Connecticut adjusted gross income when determining the taxpayer’s Connecticut tax liability. These exemption amounts depend on the filing status of the taxpayer and phase out as Connecticut adjusted gross income increases.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(20)

Maine: An individual who has claimed itemized deductions from federal adjusted gross income in determining the individual's federal taxable income for the taxable year may claim itemized deductions from Maine adjusted gross income as provided.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5125

Massachusetts: Massachusetts does not allow for the use of federal itemized deductions against Massachusetts' 5.3 percent income. Massachusetts does have its own schedule of deductions that can be taken against 5.3 percent income. These deductions are the amounts paid to Social Security, Medicare, and Railroad, U.S. or Massachusetts retirement up to a maximum of $2,000; the allowance for children under age 13 or disabled dependent/spouse expenses; number of dependent members of household under age 12 or age 65 or over or disabled dependents up to a maximum of two; a rental deduction up to a maximum of $3,000; and other deductions including deductions allowed on the federal return to arrive at federal adjusted gross income.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 3

Vermont: Vermont does not have a state-determined standard deduction or itemized deductions. Since Vermont uses federal income tax liability as the starting point for calculating Vermont personal income tax liability, the federal standard and itemized deductions are used in calculating an individual's Vermont income tax liability. Vermont requires taxpayers to include Vermont income taxes paid that are an itemized deduction on the taxpayer's federal income tax return in the determination of Vermont personal income tax liability.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811(21)

13. Keogh Plan and Simplified Employee Pension Plan Contributions (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island's income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual's federal adjusted gross income with the modifications. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes "[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources."

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for contributions to a Keogh plan and a simplified employee pension (SEP) plan. For tax years 2010 and 2011, the deduction for contributions to a defined-contribution Keogh or SEP plan is limited to 25.0 percent of the compensation paid to the employee(s) that are participating in the plan or $49,000 whichever is less. For a defined-benefit Keogh or SEP plan, the tax year 2010 and tax year 2011 deduction limits are based on the actuarial assumptions and computations underlying the plan and an actuary must determine the deduction limit.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income, Table 2: Individual Income and Tax Data, by State and Size of Adjusted Gross Income, Internal Revenue Service. TY 2010 and TY 2011 data is for Rhode Island resident returns only. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the reported amount of the deduction by the Rhode Island resident effective personal income tax rate for each reported federal AGI category and then summing the revenue forgone amounts across all federal AGI categories. For TY 2010, these Rhode Island resident effective tax rates range from -0.030 percent for the federal AGI category of $1.00 but under $25,000 to 5.217 percent for the federal AGI category of $1,000,000 or more. For TY 2011, the comparable numbers are 0.026m percent for the federal AGI category of $1.00 but under $25,000 and 5.010 percent for the federal AGI category of $1,000,000 or more. The number of taxpayers is the total number reported in the IRS' SOI report for the given tax year.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for moving expenses provided that the expenses are incurred within one year from the date that the taxpayer has reported to work in the new location, the new main job location is at least 50 miles farther from your former home than your old job location was from your former home, and the taxpayer works full-time for 39 weeks in the first 12 months after arrival in the area of the new job location (self-employed taxpayers must also work 78 weeks in the first 24 months after arrival in the area of the new job location).

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income Bulletin, Internal Revenue Service. The federal deduction data is scaled for Rhode Island by using the ratio of total Rhode Island adjusted gross income to total United States adjusted gross income for each tax year. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the calculated Rhode Island value of the deduction by an effective tax rate of 2.996 percent for TY 2010 and 2.961 percent for TY 2011. Federal number of taxpayers' data is scaled for Rhode Island by using the ratio of total Rhode Island tax filers to total United States tax filers for each tax year.

16. Net Operating Losses:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11(b)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1938 / 2007

Description: A taxpayer subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11 shall be allowed a net operating loss deduction that is the same as that allowed under 26 U.S.C. § 172 subject to the specific determinative criteria outlined in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11.

This section also allows the taxpayer to carry the net operating loss forward for five succeeding tax years.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Corporate Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. An estimated apportionment factor of 0.5 percent was applied to the total net operating losses reported. The amount of revenue forgone is derived by multiplying the apportioned net operating losses by the business corporations tax rate of 9.0 percent.

2014 Business Corporations Tax	$46,423,779	2,757
2015 Business Corporations Tax	$46,423,779	2,757

Law Comparison: All New England states have net operating loss deduction provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut has a specific statutory provision allowing a net operating loss carry-over deduction and does not simply follow the Internal Revenue Code Section 172 (26 U.S.C. § 172). The Connecticut statute provides any excess of allowable deductions over the gross income in the same year, or the amount of such excess apportioned to Connecticut under Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-218, is an operating loss and is deductible as an operating loss carry-over for operating losses incurred in income years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, in each of the 20 income years following the loss year. Net operating losses may not be carried back.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217(a)(4)(A)

Maine: Maine generally conforms to the Internal Revenue Code as of a specific date but Maine requires several modifications to federal taxable income related to net operating losses in order to arrive at Maine net income. For each taxable year subsequent to the year of the loss, a subtraction modification is allowed for an amount equal to the absolute value of the amount of any net operating loss arising from tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2002, for which federal adjusted gross income was increased under Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5200-A(1)(H), and that, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 172, was carried back for federal income tax purposes, less the absolute value of loss used in the taxable year of loss to offset any addition modification required by Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5200-A(1).

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5200-A(1)

Massachusetts: Corporations are allowed a deduction for net operating losses computed under Massachusetts' law. The Massachusetts net operating loss is the amount by which the sum of the deductions allowed to arrive at net income, excluding the deductions for net operating loss and the dividends-received deduction exceeds gross income for the taxable year.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 30(5)(b)

New Hampshire: New Hampshire allows a deduction for the amount of the net operating loss carryover determined under 26 U.S.C. § 172 in effect on December 31, 1996. A net operating loss is apportioned in the year incurred according to N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:3. The law does not allow for the carry-back of losses in any instance. New Hampshire uses 26 U.S.C. § 172 that was in effect on December 31, 1996 except for the requirement to carry back the loss and the limitation to carry forward for 10 years following the loss year. The net operating loss must be apportioned in the year the loss is incurred and is also a deduction before apportionment in the year deducted.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:5, XIII

Vermont: Effective for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 2007, Vermont enacted a “stand-alone” net operating loss deduction, in place of the federal net operating loss deduction, by defining “Vermont net operating loss” (VNOL) as any negative income after allocation and apportionment of Vermont net income. The VNOL is allowed as a carry-forward in the 10 years following the loss year.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5888(4)(B)

17. One Half of Self-Employment Tax (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for one-half of the amount of self employment tax paid by self-employed taxpayers. Self employed individuals, those taxpayers who are sole proprietors, independent contractors, partners in a partnership, and members in a single member LLC, must pay a tax on net earnings from self employment for Social Security and Medicare. Since taxpayers that are employees are responsible for only one-half of the Social Security and Medicare taxes assessed, the other half being paid by the employer, self-employed taxpayers are allowed to deduct one-half of the self employment tax paid to Social Security and Medicare.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income Bulletin, Internal Revenue Service. Law Comparison: Maine and New Hampshire have similar provisions.

Maine: The Maine insurance premiums tax is measured by the full amount of gross insurance premiums, reduced by all direct return premiums on the gross direct premiums, and all dividends paid to policy holders on direct premiums. Except when direct return premiums are returned in the same tax year that the premium was paid, the deduction allowed may be taken only if the tax has been paid.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 2515

New Hampshire: The premium tax on authorized and formerly authorized insurers is calculated based on the total of gross direct premiums received during the previous calendar year for policies insuring property, subjects or risks resident or located in the state, or to be performed in the state, minus premiums or dividends returned or credited to policyholders. Title insurers may also deduct the portion of the premiums chargeable to title search and examination services.

21. Self-Employed Health Insurance (Federal):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island’s income tax system for a resident individual starts with the individual’s federal adjusted gross income. The Rhode Island income of a non-resident individual includes “[t]he net amount of items of income and deductions entering into his or her federal adjusted gross income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources.”

Federal adjusted gross income includes a deduction for the premiums paid for medical, dental, and qualified long-term care insurance for the taxpayer, the taxpayer’s spouse, and the taxpayer’s dependents if the taxpayer is a self-employed individual with a net profit, a partner with net earnings from self-employment, or a shareholder owning more than 2.0 percent of the outstanding stock of an S corporation with wages from the corporation. The insurance plan must be established under the business. The premium deduction for qualified long-term care insurance is subject to a maximum allowable amount.

Data Source: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Income, Table 2: Individual Income and Tax Data, by State and Size of Adjusted Gross Income, Internal Revenue Service. TY 2010 and TY 2011 data is for Rhode Island resident returns only. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the reported amount of the deduction by the Rhode Island resident effective personal income tax rate for each reported federal AGI category and then summing the revenue forgone amounts across all federal AGI categories. For TY 2010, these Rhode Island resident effective tax rates range from -0.030 percent for the federal AGI category of $1.00 but under $25,000 to 5.217 percent for the federal AGI category of $1,000,000 or more. For TY 2011, the comparable numbers are 0.026m percent for the federal AGI category of $1.00 but under $25,000 and 5.010 percent for the federal AGI category of $1,000,000 or more. The number of taxpayers is the total number reported in the IRS’ SOI report for the given tax year.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut's income base provisions begin with federal adjusted gross income and, therefore, allow this item since it is part of the determination of the taxpayer's federal gross income.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(19)

Maine: Maine's personal income tax base is the federal adjusted gross income as defined by federal law, which by application allows a deduction for payments for health insurance by the self-employed.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5121

Massachusetts: Massachusetts' provisions include a deduction from total 5.3 percent income for payments for health insurance by the self-employed.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 2

Vermont: The starting point for determining every individual's taxable income subject to Vermont income tax is federal taxable income. Since Vermont uses an individual's federal taxable income as the starting point for calculating Vermont income tax liability, the federal treatment of deductions for payments for health insurance by the self-employed is adopted.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5811(21)(B)

22. Standard Deduction:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(3)(B)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Rhode Island allows a basic standard deduction from modified adjusted gross income. The standard deduction values are adjusted for inflation as specified by Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(2)(J). For tax year 2010, the standard deduction amounts were $5,700 for single filers, $9,550 for married joint and qualifying widow(er) filers, $4,750 for married separate filers and $8,400 for head of household filers. In tax year 2010, a taxpayer could choose to use the above standard deduction amounts or the amount of their federal itemized deductions, whichever was greater.

Beginning in tax year 2011, a single filer's standard deduction was $7,500, married joint and qualifying widow(er) filers' standard deduction was $15,000, married separate filers standard deduction was $7,500 and head of household filers was $11,250. For taxpayers earning greater than $175,000 regardless of filing status, there is a phase-out in the deduction amount allowed to be taken. For each $5,000 increase, or part thereof, in modified adjusted gross income a reduction of 20.0 percent in allowable standard deduction amount is imposed. Once a taxpayer's modified adjusted gross income exceeds $195,000 the allowable standard deduction amount is zero.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut does not allow any standard or itemized deductions from Connecticut adjusted gross income in determining the taxpayer's Connecticut tax liability. Connecticut allows only exemption amounts to be deducted from Connecticut adjusted gross income when determining the taxpayer's Connecticut tax liability. These exemption amounts depend on the filing status of the taxpayer and phase out as Connecticut adjusted gross income increases.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(20)

Maine: Maine's provisions include a standard deduction for resident individual is equal to the standard deduction as determined in accordance with the Internal Revenue Code Section 63.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5124-A (for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2008)

Vermont: Since Vermont uses federal income tax liability as the starting point for calculating Vermont personal income tax liability, the federal standard which is adjusted annually for inflation and itemized deductions are used in calculating an individual's Vermont income tax liability. The amount is also increased for those who are 65 years and older and/or blind.

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ provisions exclude lubricating oils from the definition of fuel in the taxation of gasoline law cite.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64A, § 1

Vermont: Vermont’s law excludes lubricating oils from the gasoline tax definition. Gasoline or other motor fuel is defined to mean any type of fuel, by whatever name it may be called, used in an internal combustion engine to generate power to propel a motor vehicle upon a highway.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 23, § 3173

19. Maximum Tax of $0.50 per Cigar:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-20-13.2(a)(2)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1992 / 2009

Description: The tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Section 44-20-13.2(a)(1) is placed on all smokeless tobacco, cigars, and pipe tobacco products sold or held for sale in the state by any person. As of April 1, 2009, the tax is imposed at a rate of 80.0 percent of the wholesale cost of cigars, pipe tobacco products and smokeless tobacco other than snuff. Notwithstanding the 80.0 percent rate, the tax on cigars shall not exceed $0.50 for each cigar.

Data Source: Excise Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. The total number of individual cigars with a wholesale cost greater than $0.63 was 1,266,374 in TY 2010; 1,008,364 in TY 2011; 1,571,589 in TY 2012; and 1,331,903 in TY 2013. The Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) used data for the January through March 2009 period and the January through March 2010 period to determine that 34.23 percent of the total number of cigars in each tax year with a wholesale cost greater than $0.63 per cigar had an average wholesale cost greater than $1.25 per cigar. Based on information provided by New York State in a 2011 fiscal note, ORA assumed that these “premium cigars” had an average wholesale cost of $2.53 per cigar. The remaining 65.77 percent of cigars with an average wholesale price of more than $0.63 and less than or equal to $1.25 per cigar were assumed to have an average wholesale cost of $0.94 per cigar (the midpoint between $0.63 and $1.25). Revenue forgone is based on the difference between taxes estimated using 80.0 percent of the projected wholesale value, computed using these assumptions, and actual taxes collected each year. No reliable data exists from which to determine the number of taxpayers.

Connecticut: Effective July 1, 2011, the tax on all tobacco products is 50.0 percent of the wholesale price, not to exceed 50 cents per cigar.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-330c(a)(1) and 12-330c(a)(2)

Vermont: The tax on cigars is 92.0 percent of the wholesale price for cigars with a wholesale price of $2.17 or less per cigar, $2.00 per cigar for cigars with a wholesale price of $2.18 to $9.99 per cigar, or $4.00 per cigar for cigars with a wholesale price of $10.00 or more per cigar.

20. Net Taxable Estate Amount:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-22-1.1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1985 / 2009

Description: The Rhode Island estate tax is imposed upon the transfer of the net estate of every resident or non-resident decedent. For decedents whose death occurs on or after January 1, 2010, the net taxable estate amount excluded from the Rhode Island estate tax is $850,000. Beginning on January 1, 2011 and each January 1 thereafter, the exclusion amount will be adjusted by the percentage of increase in the Consumer Price Index for all Urban Consumers (CPI-U) as of September 30 of the prior calendar year compounded annually and rounded up to the nearest $5.00 increment. For decedents whose death occurs on or after January 1, 2011, the net taxable estate exclusion amount was $859,350; on or after January 1, 2012, the net taxable estate exclusion amount is $892,865; on or after January 1, 2013, the net taxable estate exclusion amount is $910,725; and on or after January 1, 2014, the net taxable estate exclusion amount is $921,655. Prior to January 1, 2010, the net taxable estate exclusion amount was $675,000.

Law Comparison: All of the New England states have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut has a unified exclusion for Connecticut estate and gift tax of $2.0 million. Similar to the applicable federal exclusion amount, the Connecticut unified exclusion amount applies to either gift or estate tax. Unlike the federal exclusion, the Connecticut amount is only conditionally available. If the sum exceeds $2.0 million, Connecticut estate tax is due on the sum including the first $2.0 million.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-391(g)(1)

Maine: For 2011 and beyond, Maine changed the estate tax to conform to the federal standard. Maine also excludes capital gains on assets held at the owner's death. The cost basis of the appreciated assets is adjusted upward to the market value at the owner's date of death. The exclusion amount is $2.0 million.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 4062(1-A)(A) and 5102(1-D)

Massachusetts: The filing thresholds and exclusion amounts for Massachusetts estate tax purposes for the estate of a decedent dying on or after January 1, 2003, with no adjusted taxable gifts, are as follows: 2003, $700,000; 2004, $850,000; 2005, $950,000; and 2006 and thereafter, $1.0 million. The filing threshold and exclusion amount for the estate of decedents with adjustable gifts are individually determined for both Massachusetts and federal tax purposes.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 65C, § 2A

New Hampshire: The amount of the New Hampshire estate tax is equal to the maximum federal estate tax credit allowable for state death taxes with respect to property subject to this state's jurisdiction to impose a tax.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 87:1

Vermont: The tax imposed under state law cannot exceed the maximum allowable credit for state death taxes under the Internal Revenue Code Section 2011. This “piggyback” system was changed for decedents with a date of death on or after January 1, 2002. Effective for estates of individuals dying on or after January 1, 2009, the Vermont estate tax will not exceed the amount of tax imposed by the Internal Revenue Code Section 2001 calculated using the applicable credit amount under the Internal Revenue Code Section 2010 as in effect on January 1, 2008, with no deduction under Internal Revenue Code Section 2058. This exclusion amount is $2.75 million.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 7442a(c)

21. Possession of Ten Packs of Cigarettes with Out-of-State Tax Stamps:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-20-16

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1948 / 1991

Description: The provisions of Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-20-13 through 44-20-17 do not apply to the use or storage of cigarettes up to a maximum of 10 packs as “ordinarily defined by the practice of the trade” which have been brought into the state on the person.

Connecticut: Connecticut's provisions allow an individual the use or storage of cigarettes in an amount not exceeding 200 cigarettes which have been brought into this state on the person or in accompanying baggage.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §12-320

Maine: Maine's provisions allow an unlicensed individual to transport cigarettes for personal use not to exceed two cartons as commonly defined.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 4366-B

22. Public Service Corporations:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-1(2)(ii)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1938 / 1994

Description: By definition public service corporations, with the exception of those public service corporations that are provided for in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-13-2.2, are excluded from the base of taxpayers subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. These companies are subject to the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-13.

Connecticut: Subchapter S corporations are exempt from the corporation business tax for income years beginning on or after January 1, 2001. Applicable to income years beginning on or after January 1, 2002, however, subchapter S corporations are subject to an annual business entity tax of $250.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-214(a)(2)(J)

Maine: Subchapter S corporations are generally exempt from the Maine corporate income tax. A subchapter S corporation, however, is a “taxable corporation,” for purposes of the Maine corporate income tax, if it is required to file a return by Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5241, relating to subchapter S corporations with resident shareholders or income derived from sources in Maine; and is subject to federal tax under the Internal Revenue Code Sections 1374 and 1375.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5102(10)

Massachusetts: After January 1, 2009, generally, the income of a qualified subchapter S corporation is not subject to the net income measure of the corporate excise tax. Shareholders are subject to the personal income tax on their distributive share of qualified subchapter S corporation income. Subchapter S corporations with total receipts for the taxable year of $6 million or more, however, are subject to the net income measure of the corporate excise tax.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 32D

New Hampshire: Subchapter S corporations are exempt from the New Hampshire corporate income tax but are subject to the state’s business enterprise tax on the total undistributed revenues of the enterprise whatever source derived.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-E:1

Vermont: A subchapter S corporation is defined as a corporation for which a valid election under Internal Revenue Code Section 1362 (a) is in effect. A corporation that elects and is granted subchapter S corporation treatment for federal income tax purposes is considered a subchapter S corporation for Vermont income tax purposes. Subchapter S corporations are not subject to Vermont’s corporate income tax, except to the extent of income taxable to the corporation under the Internal Revenue Code. Subchapter S corporations are subject to a minimum tax of $250.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5911

Connecticut: Connecticut’s law excludes from the sales price, the amount of any tax not including manufacturers or importer’s excise tax imposed by the United States upon or with respect to retail sales.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-407

Maine: The sale price does not include the amount of any tax imposed by the United States on or with respect to retail sales.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 1752

Massachusetts: In computing the tax due, and before applying the rate, the vendor should exclude the tax reimbursement paid by purchaser to vendor and the federal manufacturers’ excise (currently applicable to the federal retail excise tax provisions) levied on motor vehicles (trucks) under the Internal Revenue Code.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64H, § 1

Vermont: Effective January 1, 2007, the term “sales price,” which is the tax base for the sales and use tax, does not include any taxes legally imposed directly on the consumer that are separately stated on the invoice, bill of sale, or similar document given to the purchaser.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 9701(4)(B)(iii)

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of, aircraft having a maximum certificated takeoff weight of 6,000 pounds or more is exempt from tax. Effective July 1, 2006, all aircraft repair or replacement parts and repair services are exempt.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-412(20), 12-412(76), and 12-412(77)

Maine: An exemption applies to sales or leases of aircraft that weigh over 6,000 pounds, that are propelled by one or more turbine engines, or that are in use by a federal Aviation Administration classified 135 operator. A “classified 135 operator” is a small commercial air carrier such as a commuter airline or air taxi. An exemption also applies to the sale or use in Maine of replacement or repair parts of an aircraft used by a scheduled airline in the performance of service under 49 U.S. Code, Subtitle VII and federal Aviation Administration regulations.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 1760(76) and 1760(88)

Massachusetts: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of aircraft and repair or replacement parts exclusively for use in aircraft or in the significant overhauling or rebuilding of aircraft or aircraft parts or components on a factory basis is exempt from sales and use taxes.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64H, §§ 6(uu) and 6(vv)

Vermont: There is an exemption for aircraft sold to a person, which holds itself out to the public as engaging in air commerce, for use primarily in the carrying of persons or property for compensation or hire. Effective June 11, 2007 through June 30, 2018, an exemption also applies to parts, machinery, and equipment to be installed in any aircraft.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 9741(29)

4. Banks and Regulated Investment Companies Interstate Toll Free Calls:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(49)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1996 / 1999

Description: The tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18 does not apply to “the furnishing of interstate and international, toll-free, terminating telecommunication service that is used directly and exclusively by or for the benefit of an eligible company.”

An eligible company is a company that employs “on average during the calendar year” at least 500 full-time equivalent employees and is a regulated investment company, as defined in 26 U.S.C. § 1 et seq., or a corporation to the extent the service is provided to or on behalf of a regulated investment company, an employee benefit plan, a retirement plan or a pension plan or a state chartered bank.

Data Source: Investment Company Fact Book 2013, Investment Company Institute and Federal Communications Commission (FCC). TY 2010 revenue forgone is calculated by applying the sales and use tax rate to the number of toll-free calls made by an investment company in Rhode Island. The revenue forgone estimate is based on the assumption of 4 hours of toll free calls per day, 5 days a week, 52 weeks a year, at a cost of 6.9 cents per minute. The product is multiplied by the total number of toll-free calls made in the United States, which is then scaled to U.S. investment firms using the ratio of U.S. investment firms to total U.S. firms. The result is then scaled to Rhode Island using the ratio of Rhode Island investment firms to U.S. investment firms. The estimate of revenue forgone is determined by multiplying this figure by 7.0 percent. No reliable data exists from which to determine the number of taxpayers. For TY 2011, applied the TY 2011 over TY 2010 growth rate in Rhode Island sales and use tax revenues to TY 2010 forgone revenue.

TY 2014 and TY 2015 assume no additional growth. No projection of the number of taxpayers is possible due to a lack of reliable data.

2014 Sales and Use Tax	$227,769	No estimate possible
2015 Sales and Use Tax	$227,769	No estimate possible

Law Comparison: Only Maine has a similar provision.

Maine: Sales of international and interstate telecommunications service are exempt from tax for all purchasers.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 2557(33) and 2557(34)

5. Beverage Containers, Hard-to-Dispose Material, and Litter Control Participation Permittee:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-44-3.6 and 44-44-2(1)

Stated Purpose: This chapter is enacted to provide funding for the litter reduction and recycling program and the hard-to-dispose material – control and recycling program, created pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Chapter 37-15.1.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1984 / 2012

Description: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-44-3.6 expressly exempts from the taxes and fees imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-44 “any measure upon which this state is prohibited from taxing under the Constitution of the United States.” Fruit juices, sports drinks, ready-to-drink teas, energy drinks and ready-to-drink coffees are excluded from the definition of beverage which is subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Section 44-44-3. Effective July 1, 2012, the definition of “beverage” was amended to include all non-alcoholic drinks for human consumption, except milk, but including beer and other malt beverages and subject these beverages to the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-44-3.

Data Source: 2011 and 2013 State of the Industry Report, Beverage World Magazine. Annual Estimates of Population for the United States (2010 through 2013), United States Census Bureau. Excise Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Revenue forgone is based on beverage sales in Rhode Island that are not subject to the tax on beverage containers, which includes milk sales. Number of taxpayers was provided by the Division of Taxation.

Beverage World data determined that Rhode Island subjected 82.91 percent of beverage sales, without regard to milk sales, to the tax on beverage containers in TY 2010 and 82.44 percent of beverage sales, without regard to milk sales, to the tax on beverage containers in TY 2011. Based on the TY 2010, TY 2011 and TY 2012 litter control fees collected by the Division of Taxation, the Office of Revenue Analysis determined the full market value of the litter control fees for each fiscal year and used that information to compute estimated revenue forgone on beverage sales, without regard to milk sales, for TY 2010, TY 2011 and TY 2012.

Forgone revenue from milk sales is based on the number of cases of milk sold in Rhode Island annually multiplied by 4.0 cents per case. Rhode Island milk sales are based on the per capita consumption of milk (in gallons) divided by four to determine the per capita consumption of milk (cases) and the result is multiplied by the population of Rhode Island to determine the number of cases of milk consumed in Rhode Island.

Effective July 1, 2012, this exemption applies only to milk sales. Projected revenue forgone for TY 2012 is based on beverage sales for only the first six months of the year, but a full year of milk sales.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Privately owned and operated summer camps for children, as well as those operated by religious or charitable organizations, are exempt from tax on the lodging accommodations.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12407(a)(17)

Maine: Maine’s provisions include an exemption for living quarters, sleeping or housekeeping accommodations at camps, which are also entitled to a corresponding property tax exemption.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 1760(17)

Massachusetts: An exemption from both the sales tax on meals and the room occupancy excise is provided for summer camps for children age 18 and under, or for summer camps for developmentally disabled individuals. Camps that satisfy the above criteria but offer their facilities during the off-season to individuals 60 years of age or over for 30 days or less in any calendar year will not lose their exemption.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64H, §§ 2 and 6(cc)

Vermont: Overnight accommodations as well as meals at camps serving children are not subject to the rooms or meals tax.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, §§ 9202(6) and 9202(10)(D)(ii)(VI)

13. Casual Sales:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-20(g)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1947 / 1995

Description: The sale of tangible personal property not held or used by the seller in the course of the activities for which the seller is required to hold a seller's permit are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18. Casual sales are limited to no more than five in any twelve-month period and include sales made at bazaars, fairs, picnics, or similar events by non-profit organizations for a total of two events that do not exceed six days in duration.

2014 Sales and Use Tax	$159,143	384
2015 Sales and Use Tax	$159,143	384

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Casual or isolated sales are exempt from tax. These are sales whose number, scope, and character are insufficient to make it necessary for the seller to have a seller's permit. This exemption is based on the fact that sales tax applies only to sales by retailers and a person making casual or isolated sales would not meet the definition of “retailer” contained in Connecticut law.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-431

Maine: Casual sales, in general, are not subject to Maine’s sales and use taxes. These taxes are imposed on sales at retail, and casual sales are specifically excluded from the definition of retail sales. In most cases of casual sales involving the sale of trailers, truck campers, motor vehicles, special mobile equipment except farm tractors and lumber harvesting vehicles or loaders, watercraft or aircraft, the sales and use tax must be imposed.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 1752(11)(B)(1) and 1764

Massachusetts: Casual and isolated sales by a vendor not regularly engaged in the business of making sales at retail are exempt except for the casual or isolated sale of a motor vehicle, a trailer, a boat or an airplane.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64H, § 6(c)

Vermont: Sale of tangible personalty as a casual sale is exempt.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 9741(4)

15. Clothing and Footwear:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(27)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1977 / 2012

Description: The sales of articles of clothing and footwear suitable for general use to be worn as human wearing apparel are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18. This exemption does not apply to clothing for athletic activity or protective use. Effective October 1, 2012, the sales and use tax exemption is amended to exclude the sale of clothing, including footwear, with a retail sales price which exceeds $250 per item. Sales and use tax is imposed to the portion of the retail price of an individual item of clothing or footwear that exceeds $250.

Data Source: TY 2010 Rhode Island Interactive Sales and Use Tax Simulation Model. No reliable data exists from which to determine the number of taxpayers. For TY 2011, applied the TY 2011 over TY 2010 growth rate in Rhode Island sales and use tax revenues to TY 2010 forgone revenue.

Reliability Index: 3

2010 Sales and Use Tax	$53,716,763	No estimate possible
2011 Sales and Use Tax	$54,576,016	No estimate possible

Projection Methodology: Applied the TY 2012 over TY 2011 growth rate in Rhode Island sales and use tax revenues to TY 2011 revenue forgone to project TY 2012 revenue forgone. Beginning on October 1, 2012, however, this exemption does not apply to the portion of the sales price of an item of clothing or footwear that exceeds $250. As a result, the revenue forgone estimate for TY 2012 was adjusted to take into account the change in application of the exemption. Applied the TY 2013 over TY 2012 growth rate in Rhode Island sales and use tax revenues to TY 2012 revenue forgone (adjusted to take into account the change in the exemption for a full year) to project TY 2013 revenue forgone. 2014 Sales and Use Tax	$48,078,153	No estimate possible
2015 Sales and Use Tax	$48,078,153	No estimate possible

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut’s exemption provisions are limited to clothing costing less than $50. If an article of clothing or footwear is sold for more than the exemption limit, tax is computed on the entire purchase price, not merely the excess. Effective July 1, 2011, this exemption has been repealed; however, the exemption has been restored for items sold on and after June 1, 2015.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-412(47)

Massachusetts: Massachusetts’ exemption provisions are limited to clothing, including footwear that is intended to be worn or carried on the human body. The exemption, which is limited to $175 for any article of clothing, does not apply to special clothing or footwear designed for athletic activity or protective use and is not normally worn except for the athletic or protective use.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64I, § 6(k)

Vermont: Effective January 1, 2007, a sales and use tax exemption applies to all clothing, but clothing shall not include clothing accessories or equipment, protective equipment, or sport or recreational equipment. Clothing and footwear will not be subject to sales tax regardless of price.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 9741(45)

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut exempts tangible personal property by any funeral establishment performing the primary services in preparation for and the conduct of burial or cremation, provided any such property must be used directly in the performance of such services and the total amount of such exempt sales with respect to any single funeral may not exceed $2,500, and caskets used for burial or cremation.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-412(55)

Maine: “Sales of funeral services” are considered to mean sales of tangible personal property by a funeral director insofar as such sales are a necessary part of the preparation of a human body for burial, or a necessary part of the ceremony conducted by the funeral director prior to or in connection with the burial of a human body. Sales by funeral directors of caskets, vaults, boxes, clothing, crematory urns, or other similar items generally referred to as “funeral furnishings,” are exempt from tax.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 1760(24)

Massachusetts: Sales of coffins, caskets, burial garments or other materials, which are ordinarily sold by a funeral director as part of the business of funeral directing are exempt.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64H, § 6(n)

Vermont: Funeral charges, including sales of tangible personal property such as caskets, vaults, boxes, clothing, crematory urns, and other such funeral furnishings as are necessary incidents of the funeral, but excluding the sale of flowers and other items sold as an accommodation rather than as an integral part of the funeral service or preparation therefore are exempt

Revenue forgone is based on the annual sales of dietary supplements by prescription in Rhode Island. The U.S. sales of dietary supplements are scaled to Rhode Island using the ratio of Rhode Island's population to the total U.S. population. It is assumed that 25.0 percent of Rhode Island sales of dietary supplements are by prescription. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying this amount by 7.0 percent. No reliable data exists from which to determine the number of taxpayers.

36. Food and Food Ingredients:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(9)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1948 / 2006

Description: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of all food and food ingredients sold for ingestion or chewing by humans for their taste or nutritional value are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18. For the purposes of this chapter, "food and food ingredients" does not include candy, soft drinks, dietary supplements, alcoholic beverages, tobacco, food sold through vending machines or prepared foods generally.

Data Source: TY 2010 Rhode Island Interactive Sales and Use Tax Simulation Model. The exemption amount for food items paid for by food stamps, Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(39), as determined from information provided by the Rhode Island Department of Human Services (DHS), was subtracted from this estimate. No reliable data exists from which to determine the number of taxpayers. For TY 2011, applied the TY 2011 over TY 2010 growth rate in Rhode Island sales and use tax revenues to TY 2010 forgone revenue (before the deduction related to food stamps) to estimate forgone revenue, then subtracted the exemption amount for food stamps.

Massachusetts: Sales of food products for human consumption which includes cereals and cereal products, flour and flour products, milk and milk products, including ice cream, oleomargarine, meat and meat products, fish and fish products, eggs and egg products, vegetables and vegetable products, fruit and fruit products, soft drinks, herbs, spices and salt, sugar and sugar products, candy and confectionery; coffee and coffee substitutes, tea, cocoa and cocoa products; and ice when used for household consumption are exempt.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64H, § 6(h)

Vermont: Sales of food, food stamps, purchases made with food stamps, food products and beverages sold for human consumption off the premises where sold are exempt.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 9741(13)

37. Food Items Paid for by Food Stamps:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(39)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1986 / N/A

Description: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of eligible food items which are properly paid for with U.S. government food stamps issued in accordance with the Food Stamp Act of 1977, 7 U.S.C. § 2011 et seq., are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18.

Data Source: Rhode Island Department of Human Services (DHS). Revenue forgone is based on the state's Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits issued by DHS. An assumed leakage factor of 10.0 percent was applied for out-of-state use. The balance is then multiplied by 7.0 percent. Number of taxpayers represents the average number of SNAP recipients during each calendar year.

38. Gasoline:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(6)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1947 / 1996

Description: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of gasoline and other products taxed under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 31-36 and aviation fuel are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18.

Data Source: Excise Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Self-Serve Unleaded Gasoline Prices, Rhode Island Office of Energy Resources. Revenue forgone is based on taxable sales of motor fuel, gasoline and diesel in Rhode Island. Office of Revenue Analysis calculated Rhode Island taxable sales by multiplying the annual taxable gallons of gasoline and diesel by the average monthly price per gallon, including state and federal taxes, of self-serve unleaded gasoline and low sulfur diesel fuels. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying this figure by 7.0 percent. No reliable data exists from which to determine the number of taxpayers.

54. Personal and Dependent:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(3)(C)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2010

Description: Resident and non-resident taxpayers are allowed a personal and/or dependent exemption against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The exemption amount is adjusted for inflation as determined by Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6(c)(3)(E) using tax year 2000 as the base year. A personal exemption is granted to the taxpayer and spouse, if jointly filing a tax return, and the dependent exemption is granted to the dependents that are claimed by the taxpayer on their federal income tax return.

In TY 2010, the personal and dependent exemption amount was $3,650 per exemption claimed by the taxpayer on their federal income tax return. In TY 2011, the personal and dependent exemption amount was $3,500 per exemption claimed by the taxpayer on their federal return and for any taxpayer whose adjusted gross income, as modified for Rhode Island purposes, exceeded $175,000, the exemption amount was reduced by 20.0 percent for each $5,000 (or fraction thereof) by which the taxpayer's adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeded $175,000, with a complete phase-out of the exemption at $195,000 of adjusted gross income. In TY 2012, the personal and dependent exemption amount was $3,650 and the phase-out started at $181,900 of modified federal adjusted gross income, with complete phase-out at $202,700. In TY 2013, the personal and dependent exemption amount was $3,750 and the phase-out started at $186,550 of modified federal adjusted gross income with complete phase-out at $207,950.

Data Source: Residents: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: Data Warehouse, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying exemptions taken to reduce personal tax liability by an effective tax rate in TY 2010 of 2.89 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.74 percent for non-resident taxpayers and an effective tax rate in TY 2011 of 2.84 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.80 percent for non-resident taxpayers. Number of taxpayers includes all taxpayers that claimed an exemption to reduce their personal tax liability.

2015 Personal Income Tax	$100,061,493	598,782

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Any person, other than a trust or estate, subject to the income tax for any taxable year who files under the federal income tax for such taxable year as a married individual filing separately or, for taxable years commencing on or after January 1, 2012, but prior to January 1, 2013, a personal exemption of $13,500 is allowed. In the case of any such taxpayer whose Connecticut adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeds $27,000, the exemption amount shall be reduced by $1,000 for each $1,000, or fraction thereof, by which the taxpayer's Connecticut adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeds said amount.

A taxpayer filing as a head of household for federal income tax purposes is entitled to a personal exemption of $19,000 in determining Connecticut taxable income. A taxpayer filing as head of household whose Connecticut adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeds $38,000, the exemption amount shall be reduced by $1,000 for each $1,000, or fraction thereof, by which the taxpayer's Connecticut adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeds the said amount.

Any husband and wife subject to the Connecticut personal income tax for any taxable year who file a return under the federal income tax for such taxable year as married individuals filing a joint return or any person who files a return for such taxable year as a surviving spouse, as defined in Section 2(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, is entitled to a single personal exemption of $24,000 in determining Connecticut taxable income for purposes of this chapter. In the case of a taxpayer filing jointly or as a qualified widow(er) and the Connecticut adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeds $48,000, the exemption amount shall be reduced by $1,000 for each $1,000, or fraction thereof, by which the taxpayer's Connecticut adjusted gross income for the taxable year exceeds the said amount. In no event shall the reduction exceed 100.0 per cent of the exemption for each filing status.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-702

Massachusetts: Massachusetts' provisions include personal exemptions as a deduction to income as follows: A personal exemption amount is allowed for the single or married filing separately filer, which is $4,400. Married filing jointly is allowed an exemption amount of $8,800. Head of household is allowed a $6,800 exemption. There are additional exemptions provided for dependents, which is $1,000 per dependent and filers age 65 or over before 2009 for the primary filer and spouse are provided with an additional $700 each. Blindness for the primary filer and spouse is allowed $2,200 each.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 3

Maine: A resident individual is allowed $2,850 for each exemption that the individual properly claims for the taxable year for federal income tax purposes, unless the taxpayer is claimed as a dependent on another return. Beginning January 1, 2013, a resident individual is allowed a deduction equal to the total amount of deductions allowed for personal exemptions in accordance with the Internal Revenue Code, Section 151.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5126

Vermont: Since Vermont uses an individual’s federal tax liability as the starting point for calculating Vermont income tax liability, the federal personal exemptions allowed under IRC §151 are allowed for Vermont personal income tax purposes.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5824

Law Comparison: Connecticut and New Hampshire have similar provisions.

Connecticut: These entities are exempt from the net income base of the tax and from the capital base and the minimum tax. Regulated investment company (RIC) means a regulated investment company as defined in I.R.C. § 851. Distributions paid by RICs to the Company that are “exempt-interest dividends,” as defined in 26 U.S.C. § 852(b)(5), and “capital gain dividends,” as defined in 26 U.S.C. § 852(b)(3)(C), are not “dividends as defined in the federal income tax law” because federal law transforms their character from dividend income to exempt-interest income and capital gain income, respectively. Therefore, “exempt-interest dividends” and “capital gain dividends” may not be deducted under Connecticut business taxes. Distributions paid by the Regulated Investment Company to the Company that are not “exempt-interest dividends” or “capital gain dividends” may be deducted, provided that such distributions are “dividends” as defined in 26 U.S.C. § 316 and no provision of federal income tax law expressly transforms their dividend character, and provided that the Regulated Investment Company is a domestic corporation.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-217(a)(1)(B), 12-217(a)(3) and 12-219(c)

New Hampshire: An enterprise shall not be characterized as a business organization and shall be excluded from taxation at the entity level if it elects to be treated as a qualified investment company. A qualified investment company is defined as (1) A regulated investment company as defined in Section 851 of the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986 in effect on December 31, 2000; (2) An organization that is an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as amended; (3) An organization that would be an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, but for the exception from investment company status provided by Section 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of said Investment Company Act; or (4) A qualified community development entity as defined in Section 45D of the United States Internal Revenue Code, which entity is owned, controlled, or managed, directly or indirectly, by the business finance authority of the state of New Hampshire.

68. Renewable Energy Products:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(57)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2005 / N/A

Description: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of solar photovoltaic modules or panels, or any module or panel that generates electricity from light, solar thermal collectors, geothermal heat pumps, wind turbines, towers used to mount wind turbines if specified or sold by a wind turbine manufacturer, DC to AC inverters that interconnect with utility power lines, manufactured mounting racks and ballast pans for solar collector, module or panel installation, monitoring and control equipment if specified or supplied by a manufacturer of solar thermal, solar photovoltaic, geothermal or wind energy systems, and solar storage tanks that are part of a solar domestic hot water system or a solar space heating system are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18.

Data Source: Fiscal Note 2012-S-2112 and Fiscal Note 2013-S-0127, Rhode Island Budget Office. Revenue forgone is based on residential renewable energy system tax credits taken in TY 2010 and TY 2011 and the number of taxpayers that claimed said credits. Office of Revenue Analysis used this data to estimate sales of renewable energy products in Rhode Island for TY 2010 and TY 2011 and multiplied it by 7.0 percent to estimate revenue forgone.

70. Rhode Island Economic Development Corporation (now the Rhode Island Commerce Corporation) Project Status Designees:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64-20

Stated Purpose: The exercise of the powers granted by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 42-64 titled “Rhode Island Economic Development Corporation” will be in all respects for the benefit of the people of Rhode Island, the increase of their commerce, welfare, and prosperity and for the improvement of their health and living conditions and will constitute the performance of an essential governmental function.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1974 / 2011

Description: Effective June 30, 2011 this exemption was repealed and will only apply to projects approved prior to July 1, 2011 and those projects for which long-term agreements were entered. Acquisitions, projects of construction, reconstruction, rehabilitations, improvement and development projects of the Rhode Island Economic Development Corporation (EDC) receive an exemption from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18. For purposes of the exemption the EDC shall not be required to hold legal title to any real or personal property, including any fixtures, furnishings or equipment which are acquired and used in the construction and development of the project, but the legal title may be held in the name of a lessee (including sub-lessees) from the corporation. This property, which shall not include any goods or inventory used in the project after completion of construction, shall be exempt from taxation to the same extent as if legal title of the property were in the name of the Rhode Island Economic Development Corporation. The sales tax benefits granted only apply to materials used in the construction, reconstruction or rehabilitation of the project and to the acquisition of furniture, fixtures and equipment, except automobiles, trucks or other motor vehicles, or materials that otherwise are depreciable and have a useful life of one year or more.

The EDC must submit an impact analysis to the General Assembly to include, description of project for tax exemption, estimated number of new jobs, amount of personal income tax revenue to be received and the estimated amount of loss of sales tax revenue. The EDC must annually certify that the number of estimated full-time jobs with benefits is on target or exceeds the estimate initially made by the EDC. The certification by the EDC is no longer needed when the income tax revenue exceeds the sales tax benefits granted.

Connecticut: A credit is allowed if any taxable property or services have already been subjected to sales or use tax in another state or political subdivision thereof. Connecticut tax is due only on the difference between the applicable Connecticut rate and the rate on which the other jurisdiction's tax was computed. If the other jurisdiction's rate was higher than Connecticut's, no further tax is due.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-430(5)

Maine: Maine's use tax provisions do not apply to the use, storage or consumption in Maine of purchases made outside the state, if the purchaser paid the other jurisdiction a sales or use tax equal or greater to the amount of tax imposed by Maine. However, if the amount of tax paid to the other jurisdiction is less than the amount imposed by Maine, the purchaser must pay tax in an amount representing the difference between the tax paid in the other jurisdiction and the total amount of tax that otherwise would be due to Maine.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 1862

Massachusetts: A credit is allowed against Massachusetts use tax for sales tax paid to another state or territory on purchases of items for use, storage or other consumption in Massachusetts. The credit is allowed if (1) the other state allows a corresponding credit on sales or use tax paid to Massachusetts on property brought into the other state, (2) a sales or similar tax was actually paid to the other reciprocal state, and (3) the tax paid to the other state was legally due without any right to a refund or credit. If the Massachusetts tax rate is higher than the rate of the other state’s tax, the use tax is payable to the extent of the rate difference.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64I, § 7(c)

Vermont: Vermont’s provisions apply to motor vehicles only. Motor vehicles on which a state sales or use has been paid by the person applying for registration in Vermont or paid by the person at the time of the tax payment to another state was the spouse of the person now applying for registration.

75. Sales by Writers, Composers, Artists:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30.B

Stated Purpose: Prior to December 1, 2013, “The General Assembly makes the following findings of facts: (1) The downtown area of the city of Providence has been characterized by blighted areas, and dilapidated and abandoned structures; (2) As a result, the downtown area has been designated an economic development zone in order to stop the deterioration and stimulate economic activity; (3) The capitol center area of the city of Providence has become an attractive location, especially with the construction of the Providence Place Mall; (4) In order to promote, revitalize and redevelop the "Old Downtown" area of the city of Providence it is necessary to provide tax exemptions to this area as it has been designated as an economic development zone; (5) In order to promote, revitalize, and redevelop the

"Downtown or other industrial or manufacturing buildings" located in the City of Pawtucket, it is necessary to provide tax exemptions to this area as it has been designated as an economic development zone; (6) The development of an active artistic community, including "artists in residence", in this area would promote economic development, revitalization, tourism, employment opportunities, and encourage business development by providing alternative commercial enterprises while in Providence creating a link between the Old Downtown and the Capital Center Area; (7) There is a separate artistic community in the town of Westerly which is important to preserve, promote, and revitalize, and which is distinct from that in the city of Providence; (8) There is a separate artistic community in the city of Woonsocket which is important to promote and revitalize and which is distinct from that in the cities of Providence and Pawtucket and the town of Westerly; (9) There is a separate artistic community in the city of Warwick which is important to preserve, promote, and revitalize and which is distinct from that in the cities of Providence, Pawtucket, Woonsocket and the town of Westerly; (10) There are separate artistic communities in the city of Newport and in the town of Tiverton which are important to promote and revitalize and which are distinct from those in the cities of Providence, Pawtucket, Warwick and Woonsocket and the towns of Westerly and Little Compton; (11) There is a separate artistic community in the town of Warren which is important to promote and revitalize and which is distinct from that in the cities of Providence, Pawtucket, Newport, Warwick and Woonsocket and the towns of Westerly and Tiverton."

Effective December 1, 2013 the stated purpose was changed to: "The general assembly makes the following findings of facts: (1) The arts and culture are a significant asset for Rhode Island, one which generates revenue through increased tourism and economic activity, creates jobs and economic opportunities, revitalizes communities adding to quality of life and property values, and fosters creativity, innovation, and entrepreneurship. (2) Since 1998 the establishment of arts districts where "one-of-a-kind limited production" works of art may be sold exempt from state sales tax has resulted in an increased presence for the arts in designated cities and towns, with benefits to those communities and to the state. (3) Since the establishment of arts districts, many communities have sought legislation to expand the program to their city or town. (4) There is value in expanding the arts district program statewide, providing incentives for the sale and purchase of art. This is a unique opportunity for Rhode Island to shape history, and gain an advantage over other states, by becoming the first and only state in the country to declare a statewide sales tax exemption on art. This will strengthen Rhode Island's identity as an arts-friendly destination and "State of the Arts"."

Description: Prior to December 1, 2013, the works of writers, composers, and artists residing in and conducting a business within a section of the defined economic development zone in the cities of Providence or Pawtucket, or the defined economic development zone in the town of Westerly or the defined economic zone in the city of Woonsocket, or the defined economic zone in the city of Warwick, or in those areas within the city of Newport, and the town of Little Compton, which are zoned "general business," "waterfront business" or "limited business," or have been designated by the city of Newport as part of the arts district, or in those areas of the town of Warren which are zoned "waterfront district," "special district,” “village business district,” “manufacturing district,” “business district” or “Warren historic district,” or in those areas of the town of Tiverton which are zoned “business commercial,” “business waterfront” or “village commercial” are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18.

A “work” means an original and creative work, whether written, composed or executed for “one-of-a-kind limited” production and which falls into one of the following categories: (i) A book or other writing; (ii) a play or the performance of said play; (iii) a musical composition or the performance of said composition; (iv) A painting or other like picture; (v) a sculpture; (vi) traditional and fine crafts; (vii) the creation of a film or the acting within the film; or (viii) the creation of a dance or the performance of the dance.

Effective December 1, 2013, this exemption was expanded to apply to the sales of artistic works by: (a) an individual who is a resident of and has a principal place of business situated in this state; (b) a writer, composer or artist conducting their business as a legal entity organized and registered under the laws of this state and that has its principal place of business situated in this state; or (c) any art gallery located in the state of Rhode Island. In addition, print and photograph were added to the list of original and creative works of art that are exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18.

Data Source: Fiscal Note 2013-S-0743, Rhode Island Budget Office. Excise Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Revenue forgone is based on eligible sales of artistic works in Rhode Island multiplied by 7.0 percent. It is assumed that one third of sales in Rhode Island occur at a location that qualifies for this exemption. Beginning on December 1, 2013, this exemption includes the sale of artistic works statewide. Number of taxpayers for TY 2013 reflects the number of sales tax exemption certificates issued by the Division of Taxation on December 1, 2013.

76. Sales in Municipal Economic Development Zones:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30.C

Stated Purpose: The General Assembly makes the following findings of fact: (1) Various sections of several towns in the state, including, but not limited to, the town of West Warwick, are deteriorated, blighted areas which have created very difficult challenges to economic development; (2) Several areas of the state are in a distressed financial condition as defined by Rhode Island General Law Section 45-13-12(b) and cannot finance economic development projects on its own without the participation of private enterprise; (3) The General Assembly has found that it is nearly impossible for private enterprise alone to meet these challenges; (4) In certain sections of financially distressed communities, the serious challenges of economic development and/or redevelopment have not been met by private enterprise alone and the impact is being felt throughout the community; (5) Legislation enacted to encourage redevelopment of the deteriorated, blighted areas through the formation of local redevelopment agencies has had very limited success; (6) Various states, such as New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Michigan, have had a great deal of success in generating economic development by exercising the authority to exempt and/or stabilize taxes; (7) The State of Rhode Island has generated economic growth by redirecting and/or exempting certain commercial and retail activity from the imposition of sales, use and income taxes with recent examples being the Providence Place Mall, the Arts Districts in the cities of Providence, Pawtucket and Westerly, and financial services and aquaculture industries; (8) Most recently, municipalities in our state have had great success in attracting large commercial development, including financial services, manufacturing, and major energy facilities, due in large part to the authority to exempt and/or stabilize property, tangible and/or inventory taxes; (9) Attracting large non-residential developments or encouraging expansion of existing commercial entities can be extremely important to municipalities, where the quality of public education is largely dependent on the local tax base, thereby expanding the commercial tax base and reducing reliance upon the residential tax base; (10) The ability to attract this development and increase the non-residential tax base, in turn, improves municipalities' ability to finance school systems, municipal services and infrastructure, thereby improving the quality of life; (11) In addition to increasing the local non-residential tax base, this development creates construction jobs, permanent jobs, and spurs additional investment by private enterprises; and (12) Providing authority to offer tax exemptions from, or to stabilize, the imposition of sales and use taxes will attract and assist in expanding, revitalizing and redeveloping the tax base in our municipalities, thereby providing long-term economic benefits and development.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2002 / 2005

Description: All businesses engaging in qualifying sales and located in new construction in a Municipal Economic Development (MED) Zone are exempt from the requirement to charge and collect 50.0 percent of the current sales and use tax pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-18-18 and 44-18-20 for a period of 10 years. Sales and use taxes collected in a MED Zone shall be returned to the municipality in which the MED Zone is located in accordance with the provisions of Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30.C(b). Qualifying sales do not include “gambling activities, or the retail sales of motor vehicles, furniture, home furnishings, including mattresses and oriental rugs, tobacco products or packaged alcoholic beverages.” In addition, qualifying sales must originate and have the point of delivery within the same MED Zone.

Data Source: As of January 1, 2013, no business has applied for status as an eligible business engaging in qualifying sales in a MED Zone.

78. Sales of Motor Vehicles to Non-Residents:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(13)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1958 / 1990

Description: The sale of a motor vehicle to a bona fide non-resident who does not register the motor vehicle in Rhode Island regardless of where the sale or delivery of the motor vehicle took place is exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18. If a motor vehicle is sold to a bona fide non-resident whose state of residence does not allow a like exemption to its non-residents, then a sales tax is imposed at a rate equal to the rate that would have been imposed in the bona fide non-resident's home state not to exceed the rate that is imposed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-20. When computing the tax, the licensed Rhode Island motor vehicle dealer shall take into consideration the law in the bona fide non-resident's state of residence as it pertains to the trade-in of motor vehicles. The sales tax collected by the Rhode Island licensed motor vehicle dealer is remitted to the tax administrator.

It should be noted that Massachusetts is a non-reciprocal state to Rhode Island when it comes to the assessment of a sales tax on the sale of motor vehicles to bona fide non-residents. Thus, sales by Rhode Island motor vehicle dealers to residents of Massachusetts are subject to Rhode Island sales tax up to the Massachusetts sales tax rate. The sales taxes collected from Massachusetts residents are remitted to the Rhode Island Department of Revenue. For TY 2011, applied the TY 2011 over TY 2010 growth rate in Rhode Island registry sales tax receipts to TY 2010 forgone revenue.

98. Water for Residential Use:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-18-30(28)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1977 / N/A

Description: The sale, storage, use or other consumption of water provided for domestic use by occupants of residential premises is exempt from the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-18.

Data Source: Annual Survey of Rhode Island Water Rates 2010, Rhode Island Water Resources Board. TY 2010 estimate is based on usage of 60,000 gallons per household at an average cost of $356.96 per year. It is estimated that there were 410,639 households in Rhode Island in calendar year 2010. Revenue forgone is determined by multiplying the total yearly sales by 7.0 percent. CY 2011 determined by applying the growth rate in Rhode Island’s population as per the U.S. Census between July 1, 2011 and July 1, 2010 to the number of taxpayers, multiplying this figure by the $356.96 average annual cost of water consumption and multiplying this result by 7.0 percent to compute revenue forgone from the exemption. the revenue forgone.

MODIFICATIONS

1. Bonus Depreciation Provided by JCWAA of 2002 and JGTRRA of 2003:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-61-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2002 / 2008

Description: For purposes of depreciating assets under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14 and 44-30, the bonus depreciation provided by the federal Job Creation and Workers Assistance Act (JCWAA) of 2002 and the federal Jobs Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act (JGTRRA) of 2003, or any subsequent enactment for federal tax purposes, is not allowed for Rhode Island tax purposes. In the year those assets are placed in service and in all subsequent years, depreciation for Rhode Island tax purposes is allowed as it would have been computed prior to the enactment of the JCWAA of 2002.

The JCWAA of 2002 allowed a special 30.0 percent bonus depreciation deduction in the first year for qualifying property purchased after September 10, 2001, and before September 11, 2004, for purposes of computing federal net income. In addition, the JCWAA of 2002 modified Internal Revenue Code Section 168(k) to allow taxpayers to claim an additional first-year bonus depreciation allowance on any new Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS) property when the recovery period is 20 years or less. The additional depreciation allowance is equal to 30.0 percent of the adjusted cost basis of the property after any Internal Revenue Code Section 179 expense deductions are taken. The JGTRRA of 2003 increased the bonus depreciation deduction from 30.0 percent to 50.0 percent for assets purchased after May 5, 2003, but before January 1, 2005. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 extended some bonus depreciation rules for certain aircraft as well as other items. The Economic Stimulus Act of 2008 reintroduced bonus depreciation of 50.0 percent for qualifying property placed in service in tax year 2008. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 extended the 50.0 percent bonus depreciation for qualifying property placed in service in tax year 2009. The Small Business Jobs Act of 2010 increased the bonus depreciation from 50.0 percent to 100.0 percent for qualifying property acquired and placed in service after September 8, 2010, but before January 1, 2012. Qualifying property acquired on or before September 8, 2010 is eligible for the 50.0 percent bonus depreciation, provided that it was placed in service prior to January 1, 2013. The American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012 extends the 50.0 percent bonus depreciation for qualifying property placed in service in tax year 2013.

Rhode Island's disallowance of bonus depreciation is a timing issue. In the year that an asset is put in service and is eligible for the federal bonus depreciation, a Rhode Island taxpayer must take as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income (federal AGI) the difference in the bonus depreciation amount allowed on the federal tax return and the depreciation amount allowed for Rhode Island tax purposes. In subsequent years, a Rhode Island taxpayer may take as a modification decreasing federal AGI the difference in the depreciation amount allowed for Rhode Island tax purposes and the depreciation amount allowed on the federal tax return. At the end of the asset's "useful" life, the same amount of depreciation will be realized by the taxpayer on both the federal and the Rhode Island tax returns. Thus, over the life of the asset, there is no net impact on Rhode Island tax collections.

Data Source: Business Corporations Tax: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Corporate Income – C Returns Only, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. This modification includes combined bonus depreciation and enhanced Section 179 expensing for C-corporations only and the amounts are not necessarily specific to Rhode Island-based activity. For TY 2010 and TY 2011, the total net modification resulted in an increase to federal taxable income; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010 or TY 2011. The number of taxpayers includes C-corporations that had a modification increasing or decreasing federal taxable income and can include a taxpayer in both categories, provided the taxpayer simultaneously had a modification increasing and decreasing federal taxable income.

Bank Tax: No reliable data exists for this tax expenditure item.

Personal Income Tax: Residents: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010 and TY 2011, the total net modification by resident and non-resident taxpayers increased federal AGI; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010 or TY 2011. The number of taxpayers includes those resident and non-resident taxpayers with a modification that either increased or decreased federal AGI.

Law Comparison: All of the New England states have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut personal income tax law requires that for property placed in service after September 10, 2001 but prior to September 11, 2004, in taxable years ending after September 10, 2001, any additional allowance for depreciation under Section 168(k) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), as provided by the JCWAA of 2002, to the extent deductible in determining federal adjusted gross income be recorded as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income for Connecticut income tax purposes. In addition, Connecticut personal income tax law mandates that to the extent any additional allowance for depreciation under Section 168(k) of the IRC, as provided by the JCWAA of 2002, for property placed in service after December 31, 2001, but prior to September 10, 2004, was added to federal adjusted gross income in computing Connecticut adjusted gross income for a taxable year ending after December 31, 2001, 25.0 percent of such additional allowance for depreciation in each of the four succeeding taxable years.

Connecticut corporation tax law states that for purposes of determining net income subject to tax, the deduction allowed for depreciation shall be determined as provided under the IRC, provided that in making such determination the provisions of Section 168(k) of the IRC do not apply.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-701(a)(20)(A)(ix), 12-701(a)(20)(B)(v) and 12-217(b)(1)

Maine: Beginning in tax year 2002, Maine decoupled from federal bonus depreciation. Maine's tax laws require federal adjusted gross income, for personal income tax purposes, and federal net income, for corporation tax purposes, to be increased with respect to property placed in service during the tax year by an amount equal to the net increase in depreciation attributable to: (1) For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2002 but prior to January 1, 2006, a 30.0 percent bonus depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer pursuant to the JCWAA of 2002. (2) For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2002 but prior to January 1, 2006, a 50.0 percent bonus depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer pursuant to the JGTRRA of 2003. (3) For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2008 but before January 1, 2011, an amount equal to the net increase in depreciation attributable to the depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer under Section 168(k) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) arising from amendments to the code applicable to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2008. (4) For tax years beginning in 2011 and 2012, an amount equal to the depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer under Section 168(k) for which a Maine credit is claimed under section 5219-GG; and an amount equal to the net increase in depreciation attributable to the depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer under Section 168(k) with respect to property for which a Maine credit is not claimed under section 5219-GG. (5) For tax years beginning in 2013, an amount equal to the net increase in depreciation attributable to the depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer under Section 168(k) for which a Maine credit is claimed under section 5219-JJ for that tax year; and an amount equal to the net increase in depreciation attributable to the depreciation deduction claimed by the taxpayer under Section 168(k) with respect to property for which a Maine credit is not claimed under section 5219-JJ.

The addition modifications are recaptured in future years through a series of subtraction modifications. Federal adjusted gross income or federal net income is reduced by a fraction of any amount previously added back by the taxpayer. (1) For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2002 but prior to January 1, 2006, the adjustment under this paragraph is available for each year during the recovery period, beginning 2 years after the beginning of the tax year during which the property was first placed in service. The fraction is equal to the amount added back previously with respect to the property, divided by the number of years in the recovery period minus 2. (2) With respect to all other property, for the taxable year immediately following the taxable year during which the property was first placed in service, the fraction allowed by this paragraph is equal to 5.0 percent of the amount added back previously with respect to the property. For each subsequent taxable year during the recovery period, the fraction is equal to 95.0 percent of the amount added back previously with respect to the property, divided by the number of years in the recovery period minus 2. (3) For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2009, an amount equal to the net increase in the depreciation deductions allowable under Sections 167 and 168 of the IRC that would have been applicable to that property had the depreciation deduction under Section 168(k) of the IRC not been claimed with respect to such property placed in service on or after January 1, 2008 for which an addition was required in a prior year. (4) For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2012, an amount equal to the net increase in the depreciation deduction allowable under Sections 167 and 168 of the IRC that would have been applicable to that property had the depreciation deduction under Section 168(k) of the IRC not been claimed with respect to such property placed in service during the tax year beginning in 2011 or 2012 for which an addition was required for the tax year beginning in 2011 or 2012. (5) For tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2014, an amount equal to the net increase in the depreciation deduction allowable under Sections 167 and 168 of the IRC that would have been applicable to that property had the depreciation deduction under Section 168(k) of the IRC not been claimed with respect to such property placed in service during the taxable year beginning in 2013 for which an addition was required for the tax year beginning in 2013.

Massachusetts: Massachusetts personal income tax law excludes the deduction allowed by Section 168(k) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), as amended and in effect for the current tax year, from “Part B adjusted gross income.”

Massachusetts taxation of corporations law also excludes from the definition of “net income” the deduction allowed by Section 168(k) of the IRC, as amended and in effect for the current tax year.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 2(d)(1)(N) and ch. 63, §§ 1, 30(4)(iv) and 52A(1)(b)(iv)

New Hampshire: New Hampshire defines the “United States Internal Revenue Code” to mean “[f]or all tax years beginning after January 1, 2000, the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986 in effect on December 31, 2000.” Thus, by definition, any amendments to the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) that occurred after December 31, 2000 are not allowable under New Hampshire’s business profits tax and business taxpayers have to adjust the taxable income reported on the federal tax return before reporting gross business profits on the New Hampshire business tax return. The adjustment requires: (1) the removal of the federal bonus depreciation in effect for the taxable year; and (2) the inclusion of only the depreciation allowed under the IRC in effect on December 31, 2000.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:1, XX

Vermont: Vermont defines net income for any corporate taxpayer as “the taxable income of the taxpayer for that taxable year under the laws of the United States, without regard to 26 U.S.C. § 168(k) of the Internal Revenue Code, and excluding income which under the laws of the United States is exempt from taxation by the states.” In the case of pass through business entities, Vermont defines taxable income as “federal taxable income determined without regard to Section 168(k) of the Internal Revenue Code.”

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-25.1(d)(1)

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2002 / N/A

Description: A resident individual of the town of Scituate who establishes a medical savings account is allowed a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income prior to computing the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30 for contributions made to said medical savings account to the extent such a contribution is deemed taxable under the Internal Revenue Code. The income, including gains and losses on a medical savings account, is exempt from taxation.

Data Source: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010, the net decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.89 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.74 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. For TY 2011, the net decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.84 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.80 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. Resident and non-resident taxpayers' revenue forgone amounts are combined to determine the total revenue forgone for this modification. The number of taxpayers includes those resident and non-resident taxpayers with a modification that either increased or decreased federal AGI.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(c)(4)

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2002 / NA

Description: Contributions made to an account under the tuition savings program, including the “contributions carryover”, if any, can be taken as a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income prior to computing the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30 subject to the limitation that the aggregate subtraction for any taxable year of the taxpayer shall not exceed $500 or $1,000 if a joint return. The subtraction shall not reduce the taxpayer’s federal adjusted gross income to less than zero.

The following shall not be considered contributions to an account under the tuition savings program: (1) Contributions made by any person to an account who is not a participant of the account at the time the contribution is made; (2) Transfers or rollovers to an account from any other tuition savings program account or from any other “qualified tuition program” under Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code; or (3) A change of the beneficiary of the account.

In the case of a nonqualified withdrawal or distribution from an account in the tuition savings program pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Section 16-57-6.1 an amount equal to the lesser of the nonqualified withdrawal reduced by any penalty imposed in connection with the nonqualified withdrawal plus the earnings portion of the nonqualified withdrawal or the amount of taxpayer’s contribution modification for the taxable year of the withdrawal plus the two prior taxable years must be taken as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income.

Data Source: Residents: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010, the net decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.89 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.74 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. For TY 2011, the net decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.84 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.80 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. Resident and non-resident taxpayers' revenue forgone amounts are combined to determine the total revenue forgone for this modification. The number of taxpayers includes those resident and non-resident taxpayers with a modification that either increased or decreased federal AGI.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Vermont have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut taxpayers may deduct contributions to accounts established pursuant to any qualified state tuition program, as defined in Section 529(b) of the Internal Revenue Code, established and maintained by this state or any official, agency or instrumentality of the state, but shall not exceed five thousand dollars for each individual taxpayer, or ten thousand dollars for taxpayers filing a joint return. Any amount of a contribution that is not subtracted by the taxpayer in that year for which the contribution is made, on or after January 1, 2006, may be carried forward as a subtraction from income for the succeeding five years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-701(a)(20)(B)(xiii) and 12-701a

Maine: Taxpayers can subtract from federal adjusted gross income the portion of contributions to a qualified tuition program established under Internal Revenue Code Section 529 up to $250 per designated beneficiary. This deduction may not be claimed on returns when federal adjusted gross income exceeds $100,000 for returns with a filing status of single or married filing separately or $200,000 for returns with a filing status of married joint or head of household.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5122(2)(Y)

Vermont: The Vermont Higher Education Investment Plan (VHEIP) tax credit entitles a taxpayer, including each spouse filing a joint return, a nonrefundable credit of 10.0 percent of the first $2,500 contributed for each beneficiary to a Vermont higher education investment plan account. A taxpayer who has received this credit must repay to the state 10.0 percent of any non-qualified distribution from a VHEIP account up to a maximum of the total credits received by the taxpayer.

5. Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISCs):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11(c)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1974 / N/A

Description: “Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISCs) are treated as they are under federal income tax law and shall not pay the amount of the tax computed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-2(a). Any income to shareholders of DISCs is to be treated in the same manner as it is treated under federal income tax law as it exists on December 31, 1984.”

It should be noted that the federal law governing DISCs, specifically Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Sections 291(a)(4) and 991 through 997 were amended by the Tax Reform Act (TRA) of 1984. For all intents and purposes, the federal tax law provisions concerning DISCs were replaced by the creation of Foreign Sales Corporations (FSCs) in the TRA of 1984 and codified in Sections 921 through 927 of the IRC.

Data Source: Due to the effective elimination of DISCs under federal law, it is assumed that no such entities would qualify for this tax expenditure provided under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11(c).

Connecticut: Connecticut allows for the deduction of all...dividends received from a DISC or former DISC as defined in Section 992 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) and dividends deemed to have been distributed by a DISC or former DISC as provided in Section 995 of the IRC, other than 30.0 per cent of dividends received from a domestic corporation in which the taxpayer owns less than 20.0 per cent of the total voting power and value of the stock of such corporation from gross income when determining net income subject to tax.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217(a)(1)(D)

Maine: Maine imposes its tax on corporations...on each taxable corporation and on each group of corporations that derives income from a unitary business carried on by 2 or more members of an affiliated group. By definition, a taxable corporation is a corporation that, at any time during that taxable year, realized Maine net income where Maine net income means for any corporation, the taxable income of that taxpayer for that taxable year under the laws of the United States...and apportionable to Maine. A corporation is defined as any business entity subject to income taxation as a corporation under the laws of the United States. By United States law, a DISC is exempt from income taxation as a corporation.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5102(6), 5102(8), 5102(10) and 5200(1)

Massachusetts: Massachusetts allows for 95.0 percent of dividends, exclusive of distributions in liquidation, received from a wholly owned DISC to be deducted from net income in determining taxable net income. A wholly owned DISC is a DISC all of whose outstanding shares, except directors' qualifying shares, are owned by a single corporation, either directly or indirectly.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, §§ 30(14), 30(15) and 38(a)(1)(ii)

New Hampshire: New Hampshire defines gross business profits to mean the amount of taxable income as would be determinable under the provisions of the United States Internal Revenue Code (IRC) in effect as of December 31, 2000. To the extent that a DISC does not have taxable income under the IRC in effect as of December 31, 2000 it will not be subject to New Hampshire's business profits tax.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:1, III(a) and XX

Vermont: Vermont imposes a tax on the Vermont net income earned or received in that taxable year by every taxable corporation, reduced by any allowed Vermont net operating loss. Vermont net income is defined as the taxable income of the taxpayer for that taxable year under the laws of the United States, without regard to Section 168(k) of the Internal Revenue Code, and excluding income which under the laws of the United States is exempt from taxation by the states. Under the laws of the United States, a DISC is exempt from income taxation as a corporation.

7. Expensing of Assets in Lieu of Depreciation, Section 179 of Internal Revenue Code:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-61-1.1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2003 / 2013

Description: Beginning on or after January 1, 2014, for purposes of the expensing of assets under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14 and 44-30, the expense deduction for Rhode Island tax purposes shall be allowed in the same manner as is provided for under Section 179 of the IRC. Any remaining tax basis of the asset purchased shall be depreciated as provided for under the IRC Sections 167 and 168, excluding § 168(k).

Prior to January 1, 2014, the expense deduction could not exceed $25,000 in any taxable year. The additional expensing of assets under Section 179 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) provided by the federal Jobs Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2003 (JGTRRA), or any subsequent enactment for federal tax purposes, was not allowed for Rhode Island tax purposes. In the year assets were placed in service and in all subsequent years, expenses and depreciation for Rhode Island tax purposes were allowed on those assets as it would have been computed prior to the enactment of the JGTRRA. The expense deduction limitation of $25,000 applied to tax years beginning January 1, 2007 and ending December 31, 2013.

Prior to the JGTRRA, businesses could expense up to $25,000 under Section 179 of the IRC. The amount that could be expensed was reduced on a dollar-for-dollar basis by the amount by which the cost of qualifying property exceeded $200,000. Therefore, capital investments over $225,000 did not qualify. The JGTRRA increased the maximum amount of expensing to $100,000 and the phase-out to $400,000, allowing purchases of qualifying property up to $500,000 in cost to qualify. These limits were indexed for inflation for tax years beginning after 2003. JGTRRA applied to tax years 2003 through 2005. The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 extended the JGTRRA's provisions to tax years 2006 and 2007 and added off-the-shelf computer software to the list of qualifying property. The Tax Increase Prevention and Reconciliation Act of 2005 extended the increased expensing for small businesses under JGTRRA to tax years 2008 and 2009. The Economic Stimulus Act of 2008 increased the maximum amount of expensing to $250,000 and the phase-out amount to $800,000 for tax year 2008. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 extended the provisions of the ESA to tax year 2009. The Small Business Jobs Act of 2010 increased the Section 179 limitations on expensing of depreciable business assets for tax years beginning in 2010 and 2011 to $500,000 per item and $2.0 million overall. In addition, the SBJA temporarily expanded the types of property that qualified for Section 179 expensing to include certain qualified real property. The American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012 extended the Section 179 limitations in effect for tax years 2010 and 2011 to tax years 2012 and 2013. As of March 31, 2014, the federal Section 179 expensing rules for tax year 2014 revert back to $25,000 of immediate expensing subject to a maximum capital expense of $200,000.

Rhode Island's disallowance of the increased expense deduction under Section 179 is a timing issue. In the year that an asset is placed in service and is eligible for the federal increased expense deduction, a Rhode Island taxpayer must take as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income (federal AGI) the difference in the increased expense deduction amount allowed on the federal tax return and the expense deduction amount allowed for Rhode Island tax purposes which is a maximum of $25,000. In subsequent years, a Rhode Island taxpayer may take as a modification decreasing federal AGI the expense deduction amount that was disallowed for Rhode Island tax purposes but allowed for federal tax purposes and the expense deduction amount allowed for Rhode Island tax purposes up to a maximum of $25,000. This modification reducing federal AGI is taken until the expense deduction amount that was disallowed for Rhode Island tax purposes but allowed for federal tax purposes has been completely utilized. Thus, there is no net impact on Rhode Island tax collections after the asset has been completely expensed.

Data Source: Business Corporations Tax: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Corporate Income – C Returns Only, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. This modification includes both bonus depreciation and enhanced Section 179 expensing for C-corporations only and the amounts are not necessarily specific to Rhode Island based activity. For TY 2010 and TY 2011, the total net modification resulted in an increase to federal taxable income; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010 or TY 2011. The number of taxpayers includes C-corporations that had a modification increasing federal taxable income or decreasing federal taxable income and can include a taxpayer in both categories provided the taxpayer simultaneously had a modification increasing and decreasing federal taxable income.

Law Comparison: Maine and New Hampshire have similar provisions.

Maine: Maine's tax laws require the federal adjusted gross income or the federal net income of a taxpayer, for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2003 but prior to January 1, 2011, to be increased with respect to property placed in service during the taxable year by an amount equal to the net increase in expensing attributable to the increase in aggregate cost under Section 179 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) arising from amendments to the IRC applicable to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2003.

Maine's tax law requires that the federal adjusted gross income or federal net income of the taxpayer be decreased by a fraction of any amount previously added back by the taxpayer to federal adjusted gross income. In the case of property expensed pursuant to Section 179 of the IRC, the term "recovery period" means the recovery period that would have been applicable to the property had Section 179 not been applied.

In 2011, the Maine legislature enacted full conformity with federal Section 179 expense thresholds for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2011.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5122(1)(N)(3), 5122(2)(Q), 5200-A(1)(N)(3) and 5200-A(2)(M)

New Hampshire: New Hampshire defines the term “United States Internal Revenue Code” to mean “[f]or all tax years beginning after January 1, 2000, the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986 in effect on December 31, 2000.” Thus, by definition amendments to the Internal Revenue Code that occurred after December 31, 2000 are not allowable under New Hampshire’s business profits tax and business taxpayers have to adjust the taxable income reported on their federal return before reporting their gross business profits on their New Hampshire business tax return. The adjustment will require: (1) The removal of the Section 179 expense allowed under the IRC in effect for the taxable year; and (2) the inclusion of only the Section 179 expense allowed under the IRC in effect on December 31, 2000.

8. Federally Taxable Qualified Withdrawals from Tuition Savings Program Account:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(c)(3)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / N/A

Description: The amount of any withdrawal or distribution from the tuition savings program referenced in Rhode Island General Law Section 16-57-6.1 which is included in federal adjusted gross income other than a withdrawal or distribution or portion thereof that is deemed nonqualified is a modification that decreases federal adjusted gross income for purposes of the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Under federal income tax law, the taxable portion of a qualified withdrawal or distribution is the earnings portion of the withdrawal or transfer that exceeds the adjusted qualified education expenses. Adjusted qualified education expenses is the total qualified education expenses reduced by any tax-free educational assistance. Tax-free educational assistance includes: the tax-free portion of scholarships and fellowships, veterans’ educational assistance, Pell grants, employer-provided educational assistance and any other nontaxable (tax-free) payments (other than gifts or inheritances) received as educational assistance.

Data Source: Personal Income Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). 9. Foreign Sales Corporations (FSCs):

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11(d)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1985 / N/A

Description: A corporation which qualifies as a Foreign Sales Corporation (FSC) under federal income tax law and has in effect for the entire tax year a valid election under federal law to be treated as a FSC shall not pay the amount of the tax computed under Rhode Island General Law 44-11-2(a). Any income to shareholders of FSCs is to be treated in the same manner as it is treated under federal income tax law as it existed on January 1, 1985.

This tax preference item allows an eligible corporation which has elected to be treated as a FSC for federal tax purposes to be exempted from the business corporations tax calculated by 44-11-2(a) to the same extent the corporation would be exempted if it were an electing small business corporation.

It should be noted that federal tax law provisions for Foreign Sales Corporations (FSCs) were enacted in the Tax Reform Act (TRA) of 1984 and codified in Sections 921 through 927 of the Internal Revenue Code. In early 2000, the World Trade Organization (WTO) ruled that FSCs constituted an illegal trading subsidy. In response, the United States passed The Extra-Territorial Income Exclusion Act (ETIEA) of 2000 to replace the federal laws governing FSCs. In 2004, the ETIEA was also ruled an illegal trading subsidy by the WTO. In 2004, the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 repealed the federal laws governing FSCs and the exclusion of extra-territorial income.

Data Source: Due to the repeal of the federal laws governing FSCs and the favorable tax treatment of extra-territorial income in 2004, it is assumed that no such entities would qualify for this tax expenditure provided under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-11(d).

10. Gain from Stock Options in Qualifying Corporations:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-39.3-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1997 / N/A

Description: “The income, gain, or preference items resulting from the sale, transfer, or exercise of qualified and nonqualified stock options, the stock issued or transferred on the exercise of any option and warrants issued with respect to options and/or stock of a qualifying corporation” can be taken by a qualifying taxpayer as a modification reducing federal adjusted gross income for the purposes of computing the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

A qualifying taxpayer is a resident of Rhode Island who has been employed at a location in Rhode Island for at least three consecutive months as a full-time employee of a qualifying corporation and the estate, heirs, and successors of that taxpayer. A qualifying corporation is any corporation that (1) annually elects to be a qualifying corporation; (2) has at least 10 full-time employees in Rhode Island; and (3) is engaged principally in at least one business activity described in Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes 7371, Computer Programming Services; 7372, Prepackaged Software; or 7373, Computer Integrated Systems Design.

11. Income Earned on Rhode Island Family Education Accounts:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-30-12(c)(2) and 44-30-25(f)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1988 / 2005

Description: The income earned on the assets held in family education accounts can be taken as a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income prior to the computation of the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. A family education account is an account created by an individual taxpayer for the purpose of providing qualified educational benefits to a qualified beneficiary provided that the account is created by a written governing instrument as prescribed by the Tax Administrator that designates the account as a Rhode Island Family Education Account.

Any amount withdrawn or deemed to be withdrawn from a Rhode Island Family Education Account other than as a qualified withdrawal shall be a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income prior to the computation of the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The modification increasing federal adjusted gross income shall not exceed the net modifications reducing federal adjusted gross income taken in the current or prior tax years.

Data Source: Residents: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010, the net decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.89 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.74 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. For TY 2011, the net decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.84 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.80 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. Resident and non-resident taxpayers' revenue forgone amounts are combined to determine the total revenue forgone for this modification. The number of taxpayers includes those resident and non-resident taxpayers with a modification that either increased or decreased federal AGI.

Law Comparison: Connecticut and Maine have similar provisions.

Connecticut: To the extent properly includable in the gross income for federal income tax purposes of a designated beneficiary, any distribution to such beneficiary from any qualified state tuition program, as defined in Section 529(b) of the Internal Revenue Code, established and maintained by this state or any official, agency or instrumentality of the state can be taken as a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income for Connecticut income tax purposes.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(20)(B)(xii)

Maine: To the extent included in federal adjusted gross income, any amount constituting a qualified distribution from an account established under Maine law and used for paying higher education expenses of the designated beneficiary of that account can be claimed as a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income in determining Maine taxable income.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5122(2)(J)

12. Income from the Assignment or Transfer of Historic Structures Tax Credits:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-33.2-3(2)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2001 / 2008

Description: Any assignment or sales proceeds received by the taxpayer for its assignment or sale of the tax credits allowed pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-33.2 shall be taken as a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income prior to the calculation of the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Title 44 entitled "Taxation."

If a tax credit is subsequently recaptured, revoked or adjusted, the seller's tax calculation for the year of revocation, recapture, or adjustment shall be increased by the total amount of the sales proceeds, without proration, as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

In the event that the seller is not a natural person, the seller's tax calculation under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-12, 44-13 (other than with respect to the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-13-13), 44-14, 44-17, or 44-30, as applicable, for the year of revocation, recapture, or adjustment, shall be increased by including the total amount of the sales proceeds without proration.

13. Income from the Assignment or Transfer of Motion Picture Production Credits:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-31.2-9(c)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2005 / 2006

Description: Any motion picture production tax credit certificate issued in accordance with Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.2-5 which has been issued to a motion picture production company or passed through in accordance with Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.2-5(d), and to the extent not previously claimed against the tax of the motion picture production company or of the owner of the certificate if the certificate was issued in accordance with Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.2-5(d), may be transferred or sold by such company to another Rhode Island taxpayer, subject to certain procedures and conditions. Any assignment or sales proceeds received by the motion picture production company for its assignment or sale of the motion picture production tax credit shall be taken as a modification decreasing federal taxable income prior to the calculation of taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Title 44, entitled "Taxation."

Failure to comply with Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.2-9 will result in the disallowance of the tax credit until the taxpayers are in full compliance. Disallowance of the motion picture production tax credit that was previously claimed is recaptured and added back as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income.

14. Income from the Assignment or Transfer of Musical and Theatrical Tax Credits:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-31.3-2(b)(5)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2012

Description: Any musical and theatrical production tax credit, to the extent not previously claimed against the tax of the taxpayer, may be transferred or sold to another Rhode Island taxpayer, subject to certain procedures and conditions. The assignee of the tax credits may use acquired credits to offset up to 100.0 percent of the tax liabilities otherwise imposed pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11, 44-2, 44-13 (other than the tax imposed under § 44-13-13), 44-14, 44-17 or 44-30. The assignee may apply the tax credit against taxes imposed on the assignee for not more than 3 succeeding tax years. Any assignment or sales proceeds received for its assignment or sale shall be taken as a modification decreasing federal taxable income prior to the calculation of taxes imposed by the State of Rhode Island.

19. Nonqualified Withdrawals from a Medical Savings Account by Scituate Residents:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-30-25.1(d)(3)(i)

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2002 / N/A

Description: An employee or account holder who withdraws money from a medical savings account for any purpose other than a purpose described in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-25.1(c)(3) will incur a penalty of 10.0 percent of the withdrawal amount. The amount of any such withdrawal shall, to the extent that any earlier contribution(s) or income was claimed as a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income for Rhode Island purposes shall be a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income of the account holder or employee for the purpose of determining his or her tax liability under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30 in the year that the withdrawal or withdrawals are made.

Data Source: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that increase federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010, the total modification by resident and non-resident taxpayers increased federal AGI; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010. 20. Nonqualified Withdrawals from Tuition Savings Program Account:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-30-12(b)(4) and 44-30-32(a)(3)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2002 / N/A

Description: A nonqualified withdrawal made from an account in the tuition savings plan program as defined in Rhode Island General Law Section 16-57-6.1 shall be recorded as a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income for the purpose of determining the amount of income subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The amount that must be added back to federal adjusted gross income is the lesser of (i) the amount of the nonqualified withdrawal reduced by any administrative fee or penalty imposed on the nonqualified withdrawal or (ii) the amount of the modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income taken under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(c)(4) for the person's taxable year and the two preceding taxable years less the amount of any nonqualified withdrawals taken in the two prior taxable years that were added to the person's federal adjusted gross income in those years.

Nonqualified withdrawals include (a) a transfer or rollover to a qualified tuition program under Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code other than the tuition savings program defined in Rhode Island General Law Section 16-57-6.1; (b) a withdrawal or distribution that is not applied on a timely basis to qualified higher education expenses; (c) a withdrawal or distribution that is not made due to the death or disability of the beneficiary of the tuition savings program or in an amount greater than the amount of a scholarship, allowance or payment received by said beneficiary; or (d) is not made under other circumstances for which an exclusion from federal adjusted gross income is allowed under 26 U.S.C. § 529 applies provided that the nonqualified withdrawal is made within two taxable years following the taxable year for which a modification decreasing federal adjusted gross income was taken pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(c)(4).

Data Source: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010 and TY 2011, the total modification by resident and non-resident taxpayers increased federal AGI; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010 or TY 2011. 22. Organ Transplantation:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(c)(7)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2009

Description: An individual may subtract up to $10,000 from federal adjusted gross income if he or she, while living, donates one or more of his or her human organs to another human being for human organ transplantation. An individual can claim this decreasing modification once and for unreimbursed expenses that are incurred by the claimant and related to the claimant's organ donation in travel expenses, lodging expenses and lost wages. This modification may be claimed by residents of Rhode Island only.

Data Source: Personal Income Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010, the decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.89 percent for resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. 24. Profits or Gains from Sales of Work by Artists, Writers, and Composers:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-1.1(c)(1)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1996 / 2005

Description: An individual to whom Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-1.1 applies is entitled to have the profits or gains arising from the publication, production, or sale of a work or works be taken as a modification reducing federal adjusted gross income for the purposes of computing the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The modification is available only to artists, writers and composers that reside within designated economic development zones in Providence, Pawtucket, Woonsocket, Warwick, Westerly, Newport, Tiverton, Little Compton, and Warren.

A work is defined in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-1.1(a) as “an original and creative work whether written, composed, created or executed” that falls into one of the following categories: (1) a book or other writing; (2) a play or the performance of said play; (3) a musical composition or the performance of said composition; (4) a painting or other like picture; (5) a sculpture; (6) traditional and fine crafts; (7) the creation of a film or the acting of said film; or (8) the creation of a dance or the performance of said dance.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(c)(6)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2006 / N/A

Description: Any amount of insurance benefits or other coverage plan paid for or provided to a dependent, including a domestic partner that is included in adjusted gross income for federal income tax purposes shall be taken as a modification reducing federal adjusted gross income prior to the computation of the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Projection Methodology: Amount of modification and number of taxpayers is held constant with TY 2011. On June 26, 2013, the United States Supreme Court ruled the federal Defense of Marriage Act unconstitutional. This ruling allows same sex couples to file federal tax returns with a married joint status. Rhode Island law requires a taxpayer to file a state income tax return with the same filing status as used on their federal income tax return. Thus, a married same sex couple that files under a married joint status has excluded from federal AGI the amount of insurance benefits that are provided to both partners in a same sex union. As a result, this modification is no longer necessary under state law.

26. Qualifying Investment in a Certified Venture Capital Partnership:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-43-2

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1987 / N/A

Description: A modification reducing federal adjusted gross income for making a qualifying investment in a certified venture capital partnership shall be allowed for the amount of the qualifying investment in the year in which the taxpayer first makes such an investment prior to computing the tax owed under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. (A deduction reducing net income or net worth, gross earnings, or gross premiums shall be allowed prior to computing the tax owed under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13, 44-14 or 44-17.)

28. Recognition of Income from Discharge of Business Indebtedness:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-66-1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2009 / N/A

Description: For purposes of computing Rhode Island taxable income under Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-14 and 44-30, the recognition of income from the discharge of business indebtedness deferred under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009 for federal tax purposes, must be reported as a modification increasing federal income for Rhode Island tax purposes in the year the discharge of indebtedness occurred. When claimed as income on a future federal tax return the deferred amount of the discharge of indebtedness may be reported as a modification decreasing federal income for Rhode Island tax purposes.

The ARRA of 2009 allowed certain businesses that had debts discharged in 2009 and 2010 to defer the recognition of income from the cancellation of such debts until 2014 and then spread that recognition of income over a five year period.

Personal Income Tax: For tax year 2012 and beyond only a modification decreasing federal AGI is available to a business that deferred income from the cancellation of indebtedness. The Office of Revenue Analysis determined the total amount of modifications increasing AGI that were taken in TY 2009, TY 2010 and TY 2011 and subtracted the total amount of modifications decreasing AGI that were taken in TY 2010 and TY 2011 to calculate the total amount of modifications increasing AGI that would be converted to modifications decreasing AGI in TY 2012 through TY 2015. This amount was then distributed evenly over these tax years. The total number of taxpayers was summed for the TY 2009 through TY 2011 period and is reported for TY 2012 through TY 2015.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Any income from the discharge of indebtedness in connection with any reacquisition, after December 31, 2008, and before January 1, 2011, of an applicable debt instrument or instruments, as defined in Section 108 of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended by Section 1231 of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009 not included in federal adjusted gross income shall be taken as a modification increasing adjusted gross income for Connecticut income tax purposes.

To the extent that any income from the discharge of indebtedness in connection with any reacquisition, after December 31, 2008, and before January 1, 2011, of an applicable debt instrument or instruments, as those terms are defined in the ARRA of 2009, was added to federal adjusted gross income in computing Connecticut adjusted gross income for a preceding taxable year, the amount of the income that was added to federal adjusted gross income shall be taken as a modification decreasing adjusted gross income for Connecticut income tax purposes.

Similar provisions are included in Connecticut law for business corporation taxes.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-217(b)(2)(A), 12-217(b)(2)(B), 12-701(20)(A)(xi) and 12-701(20)(B)(xviii)

Maine: Maine taxable income for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2009, but before January 1, 2011, is federal adjusted gross income increased by an amount equal to the gross income during the taxable year from the discharge of indebtedness deferred under the United States Code, Section 108(i).

Maine taxable income for tax years after December 31, 2010 is federal adjusted gross income decreased by an amount equal to the gross income from the discharge of indebtedness previously deferred under the Code, Section 108(i) and included in federal adjusted gross income.

Similar provisions are included in Maine law for the imposition of tax on corporations.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5122(1)(CC), 5122(2)(DD), 5200-A(1)(W) and 5200-A(2)(U)

Massachusetts: Gross income is defined as under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended and in effect for the taxable year but shall be determined without regard to Section 108(i) of the Code

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 1

New Hampshire: New Hampshire defines the term “United States Internal Revenue Code” to mean “[F]or all tax years beginning after January 1, 2000, the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986 in effect on December 31, 2000.” Thus, by definition amendments to the Internal Revenue Code that occurred after December 31, 2000 are not allowable under New Hampshire’s business profits tax and business taxpayers have to adjust the taxable income reported on their federal return before reporting their gross business profits on their New Hampshire business tax return. The adjustment will require: (1) the addition of the deferred income from the cancellation of indebtedness taken in the taxable year; and (2) the subtraction of the amount of income from the cancellation of indebtedness deferred from a prior taxable year.

29. Rental Vehicle Surcharge Retained by Rental Car Companies:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 31-34.1-2(b)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1994 / 2012

Description: One-half of the revenue collected from the imposition of the surcharge imposed by Rhode Island General Law Section 31-34.1-2(a) is retained by the rental car company and one-half of the surcharge is remitted to the state for deposit in the general fund.

Effective June 20, 2012, the rental vehicle surcharge rate was increased from 6.0 percent to 8.0 percent and the revenue retained by the rental car company from the rental vehicle surcharge was increased from 50.0 percent to 60.0 percent.

Data Source: Excise Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation

Reliability Index: 1

Calendar Year / Tax Type	Forgone Revenue	Number of Taxpayers
2010 Rental Vehicle Surcharge	$3,054,203	49
2011 Rental Vehicle Surcharge	$2,690,870	51

Projection Methodology: The number of taxpayers is held constant with TY 2011. The Office of Revenue Analysis determined the amount of rental vehicle surcharge revenue that was retained by the rental vehicle companies for TY 2012 and TY 2013 based on the revenues deposited as general revenues prior to the transfer of rental vehicle surcharges assessed on customer facility charges. For TY 2014 and TY 2015 the calculated amount from TY 2013 was held constant.

Calendar Year / Tax Type	Projected Forgone Revenue	Projected Number of Taxpayers
2012 Rental Vehicle Surcharge	$3,687,620	51
2013 Rental Vehicle Surcharge	$5,445,197	51
2014 Rental Vehicle Surcharge	$5,445,197	51
2015 Rental Vehicle Surcharge	$5,445,197	51

Law Comparison: Only Connecticut has a similar provision.

Connecticut: The rental surcharge is equal to 3.0 percent of the total rental charge and is included in the sales tax basis. It applies only if the rental company owns a fleet of at least five passenger motor vehicles used for rentals. The total surcharge collected is retained by the rental company. Rentals by licensed new car dealers, repairers and limited repairers are exempt from the surcharge. Rentals by used car dealers who are not primarily engaged in the rental business are also exempt.

30. Rhode Island Fiduciary Adjustment:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(d)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1971 / 2002

Description: The taxpayer's share, as beneficiary of an estate or trust, of the Rhode Island fiduciary adjustment determined under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-17 shall be taken as a modification either decreasing or increasing federal adjusted gross income as the case may be prior to the computation of the tax liability imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

The Rhode Island fiduciary adjustment is the net amount of the modifications provided for in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12 exclusive of subdivisions (b)(4), (c)(3) and (c)(4) which relates to items of income or deduction of an estate or trust. This includes the modification for the Rhode Island fiduciary adjustment, subdivision (d) of Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-17, if the estate or trust is a beneficiary of another estate or trust.

The respective shares of an estate or trust and its beneficiaries, including solely for the purpose of this allocation, non-resident beneficiaries, in the fiduciary adjustment are in proportion to their respective share of federal distributable net income of the estate or trust.

Data Source: Residents: TY 2010 and TY 2011 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. Modifications include adjustments that either increase or decrease federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010 and TY 2011, the total net modification by resident and non-resident taxpayers increased federal AGI; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010 or TY 2011. The number of taxpayers includes those resident and non-resident taxpayers with a modification that either increased or decreased federal AGI.

2013 Personal Income Tax	$0	1,096
2014 Personal Income Tax	$0	1,096
2015 Personal Income Tax	$0	1,096

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Massachusetts have similar provisions.

Connecticut: With respect to a person who is the beneficiary of a trust or estate, there shall be added or subtracted, as the case may be, from adjusted gross income such person's share, as determined under Section 12-714, in the Connecticut fiduciary adjustment.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-701(a)(20)(C)

Maine: There shall be added to or subtracted from federal adjusted gross income, as the case may be, the taxpayer's share of the fiduciary adjustment determined under section 5164, Computation of Taxable Income of Resident Estates and Trusts.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5122(3)

Massachusetts: “Massachusetts gross income shall mean federal gross income...with the following further modifications: ...The items to be deducted therefrom are: ...Income received from any trustee or other fiduciary, which income is taxable under this chapter to the trustee or other fiduciary.”

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 2(a)(2)(C)

31. Sales Tax Paid on a Qualified Motor Vehicle Purchase:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(b)(7)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2009 / N/A

Description: Beginning January 1, 2011, this modification is no longer required against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The amount equal to the deduction allowed for sales tax paid for a purchase of a qualified motor vehicle by the Internal Revenue Code Section 164(a)(6) is a modification increasing federal adjusted gross income for purposes of determining income subject to tax under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30.

Data Source: Residents: TY 2010 Statistics of Personal Income, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Non-Residents: Personal Income Tax Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. Modification includes adjustments that increase federal adjusted gross income (AGI). For TY 2010, the total modification by resident and non-resident taxpayers increased federal AGI; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification in TY 2010. Beginning in tax year 2011, this modification is no longer relevant due to the limited timeframe of Internal Revenue Code Section 164(a)(6).

32. Tax Incentives for Employers:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-55-4.1

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1997 / N/A

Description: Businesses that employ and retain in the State employees who have been previously unemployed for at least 26 consecutive calendar weeks and have been domiciled residents of Rhode Island for at least 52 consecutive calendar weeks or have been a recipient of Rhode Island's aid to families with dependent children program for at least one year preceding the date of hire shall receive a modification from the income, gross earnings, deposits, or gross premiums subject to the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. The deduction is equal to 40.0 percent of the eligible employee's first year wages, up to a maximum $2,400 per eligible employee. (Eligible businesses shall receive a deduction from the income, gross earnings, deposits, or gross premiums subject to the taxes imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapters 44-11, 44-13, 44-14, 44-15 and 44-17.)

Data Source: Office of Revenue Analysis (ORA) calculations. For TY 2010, the decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.89 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.74 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. For TY 2011, the decreasing modification is multiplied by an effective tax rate of 2.84 percent for resident taxpayers and 3.80 percent for non-resident taxpayers to determine the revenue forgone. Resident and non-resident taxpayers' revenue forgone amounts are combined to determine the total revenue forgone for this modification. The number of taxpayers includes those resident and non-resident taxpayers with a modification that decreased federal AGI.

33. Unemployment Compensation:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-12(b)(6)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2009 / N/A

Description: As of January 1, 2011, this modification is no longer required against the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30. For purposes of Rhode Island income subject to tax under Chapter 44-30 (before tax year 2011), the amount equal to any unemployment compensation received but not included in federal adjusted gross income (federal AGI) is a modification increasing federal AGI.

Data Source: Personal Income Section, Rhode Island Division of Taxation. For TY 2010, the modification by resident and non-resident taxpayers increased federal AGI; therefore, there is no revenue forgone from this modification. Beginning in tax year 2011, this modification is no longer applicable.

1. Allocation and Apportionment of Brokerage Services:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-14.2(b)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1995 / N/A

Description: Any taxpayer located in Rhode Island that provides securities brokerage services may choose to allocate its net income as follows: all net income derived directly or indirectly from the sale of security brokerage services shall be apportioned to Rhode Island only to the extent that securities brokerage customers are domiciled in Rhode Island. The apportionment factor is defined as the ratio of the brokerage commissions and total margin interest paid on accounts owned by Rhode Island domiciled customers to the brokerage commissions and total margin interest paid on accounts owned by all of the taxpayer's customers. The apportioned net income is then subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. If the taxpayer chooses to use this apportionment method, then the taxpayer must use this apportionment method for the five succeeding tax years after the tax year of election.

Connecticut: Each taxpayer that provides securities brokerage services,...shall apportion its net income derived, directly or indirectly, from rendering securities brokerage services as follows: the numerator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the brokerage commissions and total margin interest paid on behalf of brokerage accounts owned by the taxpayer's customers who are domiciled in Connecticut during such taxpayer's income year, computed according to the method of accounting used in the computation of net income. The denominator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of brokerage commissions and total margin interest paid on behalf of brokerage accounts owned by all of the taxpayer's customers, wherever domiciled, during such taxpayer's income year, computed according to the method of accounting used in the computation of net income.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-218(g)(1) and 12-218(g)(2)

Maine: All income shall be apportioned to Maine by multiplying the income by the sales factor. The sales factor is a fraction, the numerator of which is the total sales of the taxpayer in Maine during the tax period, and the denominator of which is the total sales of the taxpayer everywhere during the tax period. Sales other than sales of tangible personal property are sourced as follows: receipts from the performance of services must be attributed to the state where the services are received. If the state where the services are received is not readily determinable, the services are deemed to be received at the home of the customer or, in the case of a business, the office of the customer from which the services were ordered in the regular course of the customer's trade or business.

Connecticut: For income years beginning on or after January 1, 2001, the net income of manufacturers as classified in North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) sectors 31, 32 or 33 (most manufacturers) shall use an apportionment fraction where: the numerator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the taxpayer's gross receipts which are assignable to Connecticut and the denominator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the taxpayer's total gross receipts whether or not assignable to Connecticut. If 75.0 percent or more of a manufacturer's total gross receipts during the income year are from the sale of tangible personal property directly or indirectly in the case of a subcontractor, to the United States government, the manufacturer may elect to apportion its net income using an apportionment fraction, to be computed as the sum of the property factor, the payroll factor and twice the receipts factor, divided by four. The election, once made, is irrevocable and is applicable for five successive income years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-218(k)

Maine: Effective June 7, 2007 and applicable to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2007, any taxpayer having income from business activities which are taxable both within and without Maine must apportion net income using a single-factor formula. Income is apportioned to Maine by multiplying the net income by the sales factor. Applicable to tax years beginning before January 1, 2007, Maine used a three-factor apportionment formula.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, §§ 5211(1) and 5211(8)

Massachusetts: If a manufacturing corporation... has income from business activity which is taxable both within and without Massachusetts, its taxable net income...shall be apportioned by multiplying its taxable net income...by the resulting percentage as determined in the following formula: For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2000, one hundred percent of the sales factor.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 38(1)(2)(v)

New Hampshire: A business organization which derives gross business profits from business activity both within and without New Hampshire must apportion its gross business profits using a three-factor formula, the numerator of which shall be the property factor plus the compensation factor plus two multiplied by the sales factor and the denominator of which is four.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:3

Vermont: For tax years beginning in 2006 and thereafter, if the income of a taxable corporation is derived from trade, business or activity conducted both within and without Vermont, the portion of the corporation's net income subject to tax in Vermont is determined by multiplying the Vermont net income by the arithmetic average of the property factor, the payroll factor, and the sales factor double weighted.

Vermont Statute: Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 32, § 5833(a)

4. Allocation and Apportionment of Regulated Investment Companies:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-14.2(a)

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1995 / N/A

Description: Any taxpayer located in Rhode Island that sells management, distribution or administration services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company, as defined by federal law, may choose to allocate its net income as follows: all net income derived directly or indirectly from the sale of management, distribution, or administration services to or on behalf of regulated investment companies shall be apportioned to Rhode Island only to the extent that shareholders of the regulated investment company are domiciled in Rhode Island. The apportionment factor is defined as the ratio of the taxpayer's Rhode Island receipts from the services it provides to the taxpayer's receipts everywhere from the services it provides. The apportioned net income is then subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. If the taxpayer chooses to use this apportionment method, then the taxpayer must use this apportionment method for the five succeeding tax years after the tax year of election.

Connecticut: Each taxpayer that provides management, distribution or administrative services...to or on behalf of a regulated investment company, as defined in Section 851 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) shall apportion its net income derived, directly or indirectly, from providing management, distribution or administrative services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company, including net income received directly or indirectly from trustees, and sponsors or participants of employee benefit plans which have accounts in a regulated investment company, as follows: the numerator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the sum of the Connecticut receipts while the denominator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the total receipts from the sale of management, distribution or administrative services to or on behalf of all the regulated investment companies. “Receipts” means receipts computed according to the method of accounting used by the taxpayer in the computation of net income.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-218(f)

Maine: Maine has a special apportionment formula for mutual fund service providers. A mutual fund service provider may elect to apportion its net income as follows: net income is multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the Maine receipts during the taxable year and the denominator of which is the total receipts everywhere for the same taxable year. Maine receipts from the direct or indirect provision of management, distribution or administration services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company or from trustees, sponsors and participants of employee benefit plans that have accounts in a regulated investment company are determined by multiplying total receipts for the taxable year from each separate regulated investment company for which the mutual fund service provider performs management, distribution or administration services by a fraction. The numerator of the fraction is the average of the number of shares owned by the regulated investment company’s shareholders domiciled in this State at the beginning of and at the end of the regulated investment company’s taxable year, and the denominator of the fraction is the average of the number of the shares owned by the regulated investment company’s shareholders everywhere at the beginning of and at the end of the regulated investment company’s taxable year. If the taxpayer chooses to use this apportionment method, then the taxpayer must use this apportionment method for the five succeeding tax years after the tax year of election.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5212

Massachusetts: Any mutual fund service corporation whose employment level in the current taxable year is equal to or greater than its jobs commitment level for such taxable year or any such mutual fund service corporation for which the jobs commitment level requirement no longer applies shall apportion such income by multiplying it by 100 percent of the sales factor. A mutual fund service corporation that fails to achieve its jobs commitment level may still use 100 percent of the sales factor in apportioning net income if the failure to achieve the jobs commitment level for any taxable year is demonstrated by the mutual fund service corporation to be a direct result of adverse economic conditions in that taxable year. A mutual fund service corporation is defined as any corporation doing business in the commonwealth which derives more than fifty percent of its gross income from the provision directly or indirectly of management, distribution or administration services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company and from trustees, sponsors and participants of employee benefit plans which have accounts in a regulated investment company.

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-14.4

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1996 / N/A

Description: Any taxpayer located in Rhode Island that sells management, distribution or administration services, including without limitations, transfer agent, fund accounting, custody and other similar related services to or on behalf of an employee retirement plan or pension plan may choose to allocate its net income as follows: all net income derived directly and indirectly from the sale of the management, distribution, or administration services to or on behalf of a retirement or pension plan shall be apportioned to Rhode Island to the extent that the beneficiaries or participants of a retirement or pension plan are domiciled in Rhode Island. The apportionment factor is defined as the ratio of Rhode Island receipts, as defined in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-14.4(2), from the services to the total receipts everywhere from the services. The apportioned net income is then subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. If the taxpayer chooses to use this apportionment method, then the taxpayer must use this apportionment method for the five succeeding tax years after the tax year of election.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and Massachusetts have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Each taxpayer that provides management, distribution or administrative services...to or on behalf of a regulated investment company, as defined in Section 851 of the Internal Revenue Code shall apportion its net income derived, directly or indirectly, from providing management, distribution or administrative services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company, including net income received directly or indirectly from trustees, and sponsors or participants of employee benefit plans which have accounts in a regulated investment company, as follows: the numerator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the sum of the Connecticut receipts while the denominator of the apportionment fraction shall consist of the total receipts from the sale of management, distribution or administrative services to or on behalf of all the regulated investment companies. “Receipts” means receipts computed according to the method of accounting used by the taxpayer in the computation of net income.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-218(f)

Maine: Maine has a special apportionment formula for mutual fund service providers. A mutual fund service provider may elect to apportion its net income as follows: net income is multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the Maine receipts during the taxable year and the denominator of which is the total receipts everywhere for the same taxable year. Maine receipts from the direct or indirect provision of management, distribution or administration services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company or from trustees, sponsors and participants of employee benefit plans that have accounts in a regulated investment company are determined by multiplying total receipts for the taxable year from each separate regulated investment company for which the mutual fund service provider performs management, distribution or administration services by a fraction. The numerator of the fraction is the average of the number of shares owned by the regulated investment company’s shareholders domiciled in this State at the beginning of and at the end of the regulated investment company’s taxable year, and the denominator of the fraction is the average of the number of the shares owned by the regulated investment company’s shareholders everywhere at the beginning of and at the end of the regulated investment company’s taxable year. If the taxpayer chooses to use this apportionment method, then the taxpayer must use this apportionment method for the five succeeding tax years after the tax year of election.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5212

Massachusetts: Any mutual fund service corporation whose employment level in the current taxable year is equal to or greater than its jobs commitment level for such taxable year or any such mutual fund service corporation for which the jobs commitment level requirement no longer applies shall apportion such income by multiplying it by 100 percent of the sales factor. A mutual fund service corporation that fails to achieve its jobs commitment level may still use 100 percent of the sales factor in apportioning net income if the failure to achieve the jobs commitment level for any taxable year is demonstrated by the mutual fund service corporation to be a direct result of adverse economic conditions in that taxable year. A mutual fund service corporation is defined as any corporation doing business in the commonwealth which derives more than fifty percent of its gross income from the provision directly or indirectly of management, distribution or administration services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company and from trustees, sponsors and participants of employee benefit plans which have accounts in a regulated investment company.

6. Passive Investment Treatment:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-43

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2004 / N/A

Description: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-1(2)(vii) excludes all corporations under direct or indirect common ownership that employ not less than five full-time equivalent employees in the state, maintain an office in the state and whose sole activities in the state are the maintenance and management of their intangible investments or of the intangible investments of entities registered as investment companies under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the collection and distribution of income from those investments or from tangible property physically located outside of the state from the definition of corporation subject to the tax imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-43 ensures that the benefits conferred by Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-1(2)(vii) [note: the general law reference is mislabeled in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-43] are available until December 31, 2014 for a “qualifying business” notwithstanding any changes made to, including the repeal of, said subsection of the law.

A qualifying business is a business which: meets the terms and conditions imposed by the Board of Directors of the Rhode Island Economic Development Corporation based upon the following findings of fact: (1) the business “has committed to relocate from outside the state to a Rhode Island location no less than...an average of 250 full-time employees with a combined payroll of no less than $12.0 million annually” within 28 months of being designated a qualifying business; (2) the business would not relocate said jobs to the state absent the designation as a qualifying business; (3) “the annual salary of each employee...shall be no less than $25,000 per year, plus benefits typical to the industry;” and (4) the Economic Development Corporation shall certify only one company pursuant to Rhode Island General Law Section 44-11-43 and that certification shall occur before August 31, 2004.

Law Comparison: Connecticut, Maine and New Hampshire have similar provisions.

Connecticut: The definition of “taxpayer” and “company” that are subject to Connecticut’s corporate income tax does not include a passive investment company. A passive investment company is defined as “any corporation which is a related person to a financial service company...or to an insurance company...and (A) employs not less than five full-time equivalent employees in the state; (B) maintains an office in the state; and (C) confines its activities to the purchase, receipt, maintenance, management and sale of its intangible investments, and the collection and distribution of the income from such investments, including, but not limited to, interest and gains from the sale, transfer or assignment of such investments or from the foreclosure upon or sale, transfer or assignment of the collateral securing such investments. “Intangible investments” shall be limited to loans secured by real property...including a line of credit which is a loan secured by real property and which permits future advances by the passive investment company; the collateral or an interest in the collateral that secured such loans if the sale of such collateral or interest is actively marketed by or on behalf of the passive investment company; and any short-term investment of cash held by the passive investment company which cash is reasonably necessary for the operations of such passive investment company.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §§ 12-213(a)(1) and 12-213(a)(27)

Maine: Corporate small business investment companies licensed under the U.S. Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended, are exempt from the Maine corporate income tax provided the following conditions are met: (1) the entity is commercially domiciled in Maine; and (2) the entity is doing business primarily in Maine.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5202-A

New Hampshire: An enterprise shall not be characterized as a business organization and shall be excluded from taxation at the entity level if it elects to be treated as a qualified investment company. A qualified investment company is (1) A regulated investment company as defined in Section 851 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 in effect on December 31, 2000; (2) An organization that is an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as amended; (3) An organization that would be an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, but for the exception from investment company status provided by Section 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of said Investment Company Act; or (4) A qualified community development entity as defined in Section 45D of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), which entity is owned, controlled, or managed, directly or indirectly, by the business finance authority of the state of New Hampshire. A qualified investment company shall limit its activities to investment or other activities consistent with its organizational purpose and activities incidental to or in support of investment or other activities consistent with its organizational purpose.

Law Comparison: All of the New England states have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Any taxpayer included in a consolidated return with one or more other corporations for federal income tax purposes may elect to file a combined return together with such other companies subject to the tax imposed as are included in the federal consolidated corporation income tax return. In the case of a combined return, the tax shall be measured by the sum of the separate net income or loss of each corporation included or the minimum tax base of the included corporations but only to the extent that said income, loss or minimum tax base of any included corporation is separately apportioned to Connecticut. In computing said net income or loss, intercorporate dividends shall be eliminated, and in computing the combined additional tax base, intercorporate stockholdings shall be eliminated.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-223a

Maine: An income tax return or franchise tax return with respect to the tax imposed by this Part 8 of the Maine general laws shall be made by every taxable corporation that is required to file a federal income tax return. A taxable corporation that is a member of an affiliated group and that is engaged in a unitary business with one or more other members of that affiliated group shall file, in addition, a combined report. The State Tax Assessor may allow two or more taxable corporations that are members of an affiliated group and that are engaged in a unitary business to file a single return on which the aggregate Maine income tax liability of all those corporations is reported.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5220(5)

Massachusetts: A taxpayer may elect, without the consent of the Massachusetts Commissioner of Revenue, to treat as its Massachusetts combined group all corporations that are members of its affiliated group. Such an affiliated group shall calculate Massachusetts taxable income in accordance with Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 32B(d), provided that all income of all group members, whether or not such income would otherwise be subject to apportionment or would be allocable to a particular state in the absence of such an election shall be treated as apportionable income for purposes of returns filed pursuant to said election. An election shall be binding for and applicable to the taxable year for which it is made and for the next nine taxable years. An election may be revoked, or renewed for another 10 taxable years, without the consent of the commissioner after it has been in effect for 10 taxable years, provided however that in the case of a revocation a new election under this subsection shall not be permitted in any of the immediately following three taxable years.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 32B(g)

New Hampshire: New Hampshire requires a business organization, defined as any enterprise, whether corporation, partnership, limited liability company, proprietorship, association, business trust, real estate trust or other form of organization; organized for gain or profit, carrying on any business activity within New Hampshire, to be subject to New Hampshire's business profits tax as a separate entity, unless specifically authorized by New Hampshire law to be treated otherwise, such as, but not limited to, combined reporting.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 77-A:1, I

Vermont: Taxable corporations which received any income allocated or apportioned to Vermont for the taxable year and which under the laws of the United States constitute an affiliated group of corporations may file a consolidated return in lieu of separate returns if such corporations qualify and elect to file a consolidated federal income tax return for that taxable year.

PREFERENTIAL TAX RATES

1. Alternative Personal Income Tax:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.10

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 2006 / 2010

Description: For tax years beginning after December 31, 2005 and ending prior to January 1, 2011, a taxpayer may elect to compute the tax liability imposed by Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-30 using the provisions contained in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.10. If no election is made, then the taxpayer’s personal income tax liability shall be computed as provided for in Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.6.

The tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Section 44-30-2.10 is determined by multiplying the taxpayer’s alternative Rhode Island taxable income by the applicable alternative tax rate. Rhode Island alternative taxable income is equal to federal adjusted gross income “as modified by Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-30-12 and 44-30-32, for residents and non-residents, respectively” with no other state or federal deductions or exemptions allowed. The alternative tax rate schedule is: for tax year 2006, 8.0 percent; for tax year 2007, 7.5 percent; for tax year 2008, 7.0 percent; for tax year 2009, 6.5 percent; and for tax year 2010, 6.0 percent.

Once the taxpayer’s alternative personal income tax liability is determined the following credits are allowed: income taxes paid to other states; Rhode Island personal income tax withheld; Rhode Island payments of estimated tax; Rhode Island overpayment of taxes, and Rhode Island amount remitted by a limited liability company on behalf of a nonresident member. No other state or federal tax credits shall be available to the taxpayer.

Data Source: Testimony provided by the Rhode Island Division of Taxation during the May 2013 Revenue Estimating Conference. Beginning in calendar year 2011, the alternative personal income tax rate is no longer applicable.

2. Jobs Development Act:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64.5-3

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1994 / 2004

Description: “The rate of tax payable by an eligible company or each of its eligible subsidiaries” as defined in Rhode Island General Law Sections 42-64.5-2(5) and 42-64.5-2(6) “on its net income pursuant to applicable income tax provisions” contained in Rhode Island General Law Sections 44-11-2(a), 44-14-3(a), 44-14-4, 44-17-1, “or on its gross earnings pursuant to” Rhode Island General Law Section 44-13-4(4) “shall be reduced by the amount specified in” Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64.5-4. According to Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64.5-4, the amount of rate reduction for any eligible company that is not a telecommunications company shall be based on the aggregate amount of new employment for each taxable year over the base employment and is equal to 0.25 percent for each unit of new employment. The total amount of rate reduction cannot exceed 6.0 percent in any taxable year. For an eligible telecommunications company the amount of rate reduction shall be equal to 0.01 percent up to a maximum of 1.0 percent in any taxable year.

New employment is defined as the amount of adjusted current employment for each taxable year minus the amount of base employment, but in no event less than zero; provided, however, no eligible company is permitted to transfer, assign or hire employees who are already employed within the State by such eligible company for itself or any affiliated entity. A unit of new employment means: “(i) for eligible companies which are not small business concerns, the amount of new employment divided by 50 rounded down to the nearest multiple of 50 and (ii) for eligible companies which are small business concerns the amount of new employment divided by 10 rounded down to the nearest multiple of 10.”

Should any eligible company fail to maintain in any taxable year the number of units of new employment it reported for its 1997 tax year or, if applicable, the third taxable year following the base employment period election set forth in Rhode Island General Law Section 42-64.5-5; the rate reduction provided for in Rhode Island General Law Sections 42-64.5-3 and 42-64.5-4 shall expire permanently.

Connecticut: A taxpayer who creates at least ten new jobs in Connecticut may be allowed a credit...in an amount up to 60 per cent of the income tax deducted and withheld from the wages of new employees and paid over to the state. For each new employee, credits may be granted for five successive years. The credit shall be claimed in the income year in which it is earned. Any credits not used in a tax year shall expire. The commissioner shall determine whether (1) the taxpayer...is eligible for the tax credit, and (2) the proposed job growth (A) is economically viable only with use of the tax credit, (B) would provide a net benefit to economic development and employment opportunities in the state, and (C) conforms to the state plan of conservation and development. The total amount of credits granted to all taxpayers...shall not exceed 11.0 million dollars in any one fiscal year. A credit under this section may be granted to a taxpayer for not more than five successive income years.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-217ii

Massachusetts: Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2011, a taxpayer, to the extent authorized by the life sciences tax incentive program...may be allowed a refundable jobs credit against the Massachusetts corporate income tax in an amount determined by the Massachusetts Life Sciences Center in consultation with the Massachusetts Department of Revenue. A taxpayer taking said credit shall commit to the creation of a minimum of 50 net new permanent full-time positions in Massachusetts. The amount of the jobs credit issued that exceeds the taxpayer's liability under the Massachusetts corporate income tax shall be refunded to the taxpayer at a rate of 90 percent of the amount of excess credit. The Department of Revenue shall issue the refundable portion of the jobs credit...in accordance with the cumulative amount, including the current year costs of incentives allowed in previous years, which shall not exceed $25.0 million annually.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 63, § 38CC

Vermont: The Vermont Employment Growth Incentive (VEGI) provides a performance-based employment growth incentive to be paid out of the business's withholding account upon approval by the Vermont Economic Progress Council (VEPC) and the Vermont Department of Taxes. The value of the incentives is dependent upon the net fiscal benefit resulting from projected qualifying payroll and qualifying capital investment. An incentive ratio is applied to the net fiscal benefit generated by the cost-benefit model in order to determine the maximum award the VEPC may authorize for each application it approves.

The VEPC shall calculate an incentive percentage for each approved application as follows: Authorized award amount divided by the five-year sum of all payroll targets. An approval shall specify: the application base jobs at the time of the application; total jobs at time of application; the application base payroll; total payroll at time of application; the incentive percentage; the wage threshold; the payroll thresholds; a job target for each year of the award period; a payroll target for each year of the award period; a capital investment target for each year of the award period and a sufficient description of the nature of the qualifying capital investment over the award period. The council may authorize incentives in excess of net fiscal benefit multiplied by the incentive ratio not to exceed an annual authorization established by law.

To the extent a business authorized to earn employment growth incentives...experiences a 90-percent or greater drop below application base jobs or, in the case of a business with no jobs at the time its application is approved, a 90-percent or greater drop below its cumulative job target during the utilization period, all authority to earn and claim incentives...shall be revoked, and such business shall be subject to recapture of all incentives previously claimed, together with interest and penalty.

TAX ABATEMENTS

1. Cigarette Tax Stamping Discount:

Statutory Reference: Rhode Island General Law Section 44-20-19

Stated Purpose: No stated purpose given in law.

Year Enacted / Year Amended: 1939 / 2007

Description: Cigarette distributors have a right to purchase cigarette excise tax stamps at a discount from the stamp's face value. The cigarette distributor pays 98.75 percent of the face value of the cigarette excise tax stamps that are purchased to the Tax Administrator. This yields a discount of 1.25 percent for the distributor. Distributors may also be allowed to pay for the cigarette excise tax stamps purchased up to 30 days after the actual receipt of the tax stamps.

Law Comparison: All of the New England states have similar provisions.

Connecticut: Connecticut's provisions include a discount of 1.0 percent of the face value of the cigarette excise tax stamps if purchased by a distributor. No discount applies if the cigarette excise tax stamps are purchased by a dealer. The Commissioner of Revenue may permit a licensed distributor or licensed dealer to pay for such stamps within thirty days after the date of purchase, provided a bond or other security satisfactory to the Commissioner in an amount not less than the sale price of such stamps shall have been filed with the Commissioner conditioned upon payment for such stamps.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. § 12-298

Maine: Maine’s provisions include a discount rate of 1.15 percent for stamps at the face value of 100 mills, or $0.10 per cigarette. The State Tax Assessor may permit a licensed distributor to pay for the stamps within 30 days after the date of purchase, if a bond satisfactory to the assessor in an amount not less than 50 percent of the sale price of the stamps has been filed with the assessor conditioned upon payment for the stamps.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 4366-A(2)

Massachusetts: For the period prior to July 1, 2011, every stamper may withhold and retain from each payment to be made by him for cigarette excise tax stamps, as compensation for service rendered in stamping packs of cigarettes, $1.85 for each 600 cigarette excise adhesive stamps purchased and a proportionate amount for any fraction thereof. No such compensation shall be allowed on any sale of less than $100. The commissioner, in his discretion, may, permit a stamper to pay for such stamps within 30 days after the date of purchase; provided that the stamper furnishes a bond.

For stamps purchased on or after January 1, 2012, a stamper may withhold and retain from each payment to be made by that stamper for cigarette excise tax stamps as compensation for service rendered in stamping packs of cigarettes...the following amounts: (1) for encrypted stamps purchased and not returned for an abatement, $12 per roll of 1,200 stamps; and (2) in each fiscal year, $600 per roll of 30,000 encrypted stamps for the first 50 rolls purchased and $200 per each additional roll of 30,000 encrypted stamps purchased; and (3) in the case of non-encrypted adhesive stamps purchased and not returned for an abatement, $1.85 for each 600 stamps purchased and a proportionate amount for any fraction thereof. No such compensation shall be allowed on any sale of less than $100. The commissioner, in his discretion, may, permit a stamper to pay for such stamps within 30 days after the date of purchase; provided that the stamper furnishes a bond.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 64C, § 30

New Hampshire: New Hampshire does not provide a discount to stampers, however, the Commissioner of Revenue may permit a licensed wholesaler to pay for cigarette excise tax stamps within 30 days after the date of purchase, provided a bond satisfactory to the Commissioner in an amount not less than the sale price of such stamps shall have been filed with the Commissioner, conditioned upon the payment of such stamps.

New Hampshire Statute: N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 78:9, I

Vermont: The Commissioner of Taxes shall sell cigarette excise tax stamps to licensed wholesale dealers and retail dealers at a discount of 2.3 percent of their face value for payment at time of sale. At the purchaser’s request, the Commissioner of Taxes may sell cigarette excise tax stamps...to licensed wholesale dealers and retail dealers for payment within 10 days, at a discount of 1.5 percent of their face value if timely paid. No stamps may be purchased during the period June 15 through June 30 each year.

2015 Personal Income Tax	$200,000	8,985

Law Comparison: Maine and Massachusetts have similar provisions.

Maine: Resident taxpayers may designate that $3 of their taxes be deposited in the Maine Clean Election Fund. The State Tax Assessor shall provide on the first page of the income tax form a space for the filing individual to indicate whether that filer wishes to pay $3, or $6 if filing a joint return, from the General Fund of the State to finance the Maine Clean Election Fund.

Maine Statute: Me. Rev. Stat. Ann. tit. 36, § 5286

Massachusetts: Massachusetts provides for a $1.00 credit for a resident individual filer and a $2.00 credit for a resident jointly filed return against the Massachusetts individual income tax to be paid over to the State Election Campaign Fund.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 62, § 6C

Vermont: Vermont repealed this provision in 2009, effective for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 2010. For taxable years beginning on and after January 1, 1998 (but before January 1, 2010), all returns filed by individuals allowed an opportunity to designate funds to the Vermont campaign fund.

Connecticut: “Connecticut taxable estate” means, with respect to the estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 2010, the gross estate less allowable deductions as determined under the Internal Revenue Code (IRC). Section 2032A of the IRC allows an alternative method for valuing certain real property used as a farm to reflect the (lower) value of the property in its current use.

Connecticut Statute: Conn. Gen. Stat. §12-391(c)(1)(B)

Massachusetts: If the gross estate of a decedent includes real property devoted to use as a farm for farming purposes, the estate may elect to value such property in accordance with section 2032A of the Internal Revenue Code. Section 2032A of the IRC allows an alternative method for valuing certain real property used as a farm to reflect the (lower) value of the property in its current use.

Massachusetts Statute: Mass. Gen. Laws ch. 65C, § 5(c)

Vermont: For Vermont estate tax purposes, all values are determined for federal estate tax purposes. Section 2032A of the IRC allows an alternative method for valuing certain real property used as a farm to reflect the (lower) value of the property in its current use.

IX. Recommendations for Improving the Report

The tax expenditures report's effectiveness as a tax policy tool is dependent on the report's users' background, knowledge of state tax law and ability to understand the process by which estimates have been derived by the Office of Revenue Analysis. Although 36.2 percent in TY 2010 and 32.7 percent in TY 2011 of the tax expenditure items for which reliable data existed were assigned a reliability index level of "1," meaning the source of the derived estimate was actual tax returns, ideally 100.0 percent of the derived estimates for tax expenditure items should have actual tax returns as its source.

The primary tax type for which actual tax return data does not exist, and thus estimates of revenue forgone must be derived via less reliable methods, is the sales and use tax. Given that the sales and use tax is the second largest source of state general revenue and that it is the tax type for which the greatest amount of revenue forgone was estimated, at $1.09 billion for TY 2010 and $1.14 billion for TY 2011, the Office of Revenue Analysis finds that the quality and quantity of data collected for sales and use tax needs to be improved for there to be an increase in the reliability of the revenue forgone estimates. The Rhode Island Division of Taxation has implemented the new sales and use tax return reconciliation process for sales and use tax filers that requires more information on exempt sales be provided during the annual reconciliation. Although the level of detail in the reconciliation has improved, compliance with the reconciliation requirement has been suboptimal. As a result, it is difficult for the Office of Revenue Analysis to rely on the data generated from the reconciliation to estimate foregone revenues from the various sales and use tax exemptions.

In addition, the quantity and quality of data for the business corporations tax is lacking. The business corporations tax, commonly referred to as the corporate income tax, is the tax type with the third largest amount of estimated revenue forgone due to tax expenditure items at $95,329,204 for TY 2010 and $90,561,510 for TY 2011, but has the largest number of tax expenditures items at 32 in both TY 2010 and TY 2011 for which no reliable data exists from which to derive estimates of revenue forgone. This compares to 8 tax expenditure items in TY 2010 and 4 tax expenditure items in TY 2011 for which no reliable data exists for the personal income tax and 27 tax expenditure items in both TY 2010 and TY 2011 for which no reliable data exists for the sales and use tax. The Office of Revenue Analysis finds that the quality and quantity of data collected for the business corporations tax needs to be improved for there to be an increase in the reliability of the forgone revenue estimates for the business corporations tax. Fortunately, most of the data that would improve the reporting of business corporations tax expenditure items is already reported on the taxpayers' tax returns and the crux of the issue in this regard is capturing the relevant data from these returns. The Division of Taxation is in the process of requiring most business corporations taxpayers to file their tax returns electronically allowing for the capture of more data.

In the FY 2012 Capital Budget, the Division of Taxation requested $25.0 million over the FY 2012 – FY 2016 period to finance the development of an integrated tax system. This request was approved by the General Assembly and the Division of Taxation has begun the process of developing an integrated tax system. Once it is fully implemented, the integrated tax system should provide the Division of Taxation with the capability to capture more relevant data from electronically filed returns. Of particular importance is the ability to store and access taxpayer returns over a series of years. This capability would allow the Office of Revenue Analysis to derive more precise estimates of forgone revenue from tax expenditure items for the sales and use and business corporations taxes.

Finally, it is possible to shorten the tax expenditures report by redefining what is meant by tax expenditures. Under current law, tax expenditures are broadly defined and apply to all items contained in law that reduce tax revenues. Some tax expenditures may reduce tax revenues under one chapter of Rhode Island General Law while recapturing the tax revenues under a different chapter of Rhode Island General Law. For example, insurance and surety companies are explicitly excluded from paying tax under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11 entitled “Business Corporation Tax” because such companies are subject to taxation under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-17 entitled “Taxation of Insurance Companies”. Based on current law, the Office of Revenue Analysis has to report the tax expenditure associated with the exclusion of insurance and surety companies from the tax imposed under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11 even though these companies are paying taxes under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-17. The payment of taxes by insurance and surety companies under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-17 generates tax revenues that mitigate or perhaps even completely eliminate the tax expenditure associated with the exclusion of these companies from taxation under Rhode Island General Law Chapter 44-11. Eliminating all tax expenditures that are the result of situations such as this would reduce the number of items for which “no estimate is possible” and improve the integrity of the tax expenditures report.

Appendix A: Current Statute on Tax Expenditure Reporting

TITLE 44
Taxation
CHAPTER 44-48.1
Tax Expenditure Reporting
SECTION 44-48.1-1

§ 44-48.1-1 Tax expenditure reporting.

(a) On or before the second Tuesday in January of each even numbered year beginning in 2004, the chief of the office of revenue analysis, shall deliver a tax expenditure report to the general assembly. Each report will provide the minimum information for one hundred percent (100%) of tax expenditures in effect on January 1 of the calendar year preceding the report's publication.

(b) For the purposes of this section, a "tax expenditure" is any tax credit, deduction, exemption, exclusion, credit preferential tax rate, tax abatement, and tax deferral that provides preferential treatment to selected taxpayers, whether directly through Rhode Island General Law or constitutional provisions or indirectly through adoption of other tax codes.

(c) The information included for each tax expenditure shall include, but shall not be limited to:

(1) The legal reference of the expenditures, including information whether the expenditure is required as a result of federal or state constitutional, judicial, or statutory mandate.

(2) Amount of revenues forgone or an estimate, if the actual amount cannot be determined, for the calendar year immediately preceding the publication of the report. The report shall also include an estimate of revenue forgone for the calendar year in which the report is published and the year following the report's publication. The tax administrator shall develop an index of the reliability of each estimate using five (5) levels with level one being most reliable. Where actual tax returns are the source of the estimate, the estimate should be assigned reliability level one. Where no reliable data exists for the estimate, the estimate should be assigned reliability level five (5). The reliability level shall be reported for the estimate of the revenues forgone.

(3) To the extent allowable by law, identification of the beneficiaries of the exemption by number, income, class and industry.

(4) A comparison of the tax expenditure to the tax systems of the other New England states, with emphasis on Massachusetts and Connecticut.

(5) The data source(s) and analysis methodology.

(6) To the extent allowable by law, identification of similar taxpayers or industries that do not enjoy the exemption.

(d) Each report shall include a section containing recommendations for improving the effectiveness of the report as a tax policy tool. This section shall identify the resources required to implement these recommendations and shall also contain an estimate of the costs associated with such recommendations.

(e) On or before the second Tuesday in January 2004, the chief of the office of revenue analysis shall make available to the general assembly a plan to improve Rhode Island's tax expenditure reporting effort. The plan shall include measurable criteria to evaluate improvements in the reliability of tax expenditure item estimates and the identification of beneficiaries of each tax expenditure item by number, income, class and industry. The plan shall also include cost estimates of additional resources necessary to implement the plan, and may include any other information that the tax administrator deems appropriate for inclusion in said plan.
